Acheson Points Need of Markets

Foreign Countries Would Be Made to Do Trade in Russia

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson told Congress today friendly countries will be forced to step up their trade with the Soviet bloc if they are needlessly denied access to American markets.

Acheson advanced that contention in urging the Senate Finance Committee to approve a three-year extension of the administration's reciprocal trade program without some of the strings tied to it by the House. He declared the House restrictions would make the program "unworkable."

The secretary was the leadoff witness as the committee began hearings on extension legislation. The trade program, aimed at reducing barriers to world trade, permits the administration to lower tariff rates in return for similar concession by other countries.

Could Be Acceptable

Acheson said in a prepared statement that some of the House curbs could be made more acceptable to the administration with modifications, but said others should be disregarded entirely.

"If the United States starts in the direction of restricting trade, of protectionism, of economic isolationism, or if we lead other countries to believe that is what we are going to do," he testified, "the trend (toward freeing trade) will be reversed and we will move rapidly in the direction of more restriction, more bi-lateralism and more discrimination in world trading conditions."

Has Most at Stake

He said that is so because the United States is the most important trading nation in the world and because it "has the most at stake in the preservation of the private, competitive enterprise system."

He said many other countries now cooperating with the United States in denying war potential goods to Russia and its satellites normally have much more extensive trade relations with the Soviet bloc than the United States.

"If we deny our market unnecessarily to those friendly countries," Acheson said, "or if we act in such a way as to make them believe that such is our intention, they must turn elsewhere to dispose of their products in order to get things they need. It is, therefore, to our interest in the immediate struggle to develop and expand our trade with these countries."

Takes Up Amendments

Acheson took up one by one the four amendments added by the House to the bill.

One would limit the administration's authority to negotiate tariff cuts from products by tying and reductions to parity price levels which are calculated to give the American farmer a fair return for his products. Acheson said this would have the opposite effect from that desired because United States products having parity price support are among those for which the government mainly seeks export markets and it is export markets which are opened up by tariff negotiations.

Another House change is a so-called "peril-point" amendment impowering the U. S. Tariff Commission to fix a point below which the tariff on any item could not be cut. Acheson said this amendment could be modified to make it more workable by letting the tariff commission participate directly in negotiation of trade agreements.

A third amendment would give the tariff commission the right to recommend withdrawal of a concession when a complaining citizen could show a downward trend in his business in terms of production, employment or inventory increase. Again offering compromise, Acheson said this amendment too

Reservoirs Spill Over

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—The city's upstate reservoirs spilled over today. Water storage totaled 254,083,000,000 gallons, or 100.4 per cent of capacity, contrasted to a year ago when the reservoirs held 118,395,000,000 gallons, or 46.8 per cent of capacity. The spilling probably will continue for some time, Division Engineer Fred Stein said. An inch of rainfall over the watershed areas yesterday will provide a runoff of 8,300,000,000 gallons unless a "deep freeze" sets in. Stein said this appeared unlikely from weather forecasts.

To Speak in April

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—President Truman will speak April 3 at ceremonies in connection with laying the cornerstone of the reconstructed New York Avenue Presbyterian Church here. The church was attended by Abraham Lincoln and nine other presidents.

Manhattan Probe Rule May Be Late

Opinion Divided

Even High Republican Legislators Not Agreed on Action

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—Governor Dewey's political high command probably will not make a final decision until a few days before the Legislature adjourns on whether to launch a state investigation into New York city government and Democratic politics.

The session is moving toward a March 15 or 16 adjournment.

There is divided opinion, even among highly-placed Republican sources on the proposed probe into the big town's government and alleged Democratic-racketeer tieups.

May Depend on Probes

Many observers believe the final decision well might depend on what two U. S. Senate investigating committees do in New York state—and how long they do it.

They are the Kefauver Crime Committee, which is investigating activities in Republican-controlled Saratoga county as well as New York city, and the Gillette subcommittee probing the Hanley letter.

Despite denials by Dewey administration leaders, there is much feeling in Capitol circles that the Mitchell-Roman resolution to probe New York city was introduced as a possible "lever" to east any squeeze by the Kefauver or Gillette snoopers.

Wicks Fights for Probe

Dewey's state Senate leader, dapper but tenacious Arthur H. Wicks, says bluntly that he is battling to have the New York city probe undertaken.

He says it would be "ridiculous" for the G.O.P. not to go through with the investigation in view of the serious accusations in the Mitchell-Roman resolution and in the fact of disclosures by two probing prosecutors, Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan and Miles McDonald of Brooklyn.

The Mitchell-Roman resolution devotes considerable wordage to the alleged influence of gambler Frank Costello in Tammany Hall, Manhattan's Democratic organization.

Not Aimed at Mayor

Backers of the resolution emphasize that it is not aimed at Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, elected last fall as an Independent Democrat and apparently with Dewey's tacit support.

Some of Impy's friends are not too happy about it, however. They say there's no telling where a probe like that might end.

Three Have Doubts

At least three high-level Republicans in the Dewey administration doubt seriously that the New York city probe will be undertaken. Two of them say they would bet against it as of now.

The fate of the resolution undoubtedly will be affected by much political maneuvering and even some horse-trading.

Politics resembles a chess or checker game. A move on one side of the board leads to action on the other. By the time the game is concluded there often is a confusing back trail of moves and counter-moves.

The Dewey administration, to use the terminology of still another game, is playing its cards close to its chest. So, don't worry if you are confused over the lack of action on the New York city investigation resolution.

Persons on the inside don't know what is going to happen, either.

Commission on Schools Turns Down Building Aid

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—The Dewey administration has killed municipal hopes of special state financial aid for school construction.

The temporary State Commission on School Buildings, headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, reported last night that of New York's 4,000 school districts, only about 50 in rapidly growing suburban communities needed some state help.

It recommended $300,000 for limited assistance.

Otherwise, the 15-member commission said in a voluminous report, "school building problems can be solved without any undue financial hardship upon either local school districts or the state, if materials and labor are available."

The commission recommended many revisions in the education and local finance laws to make it easier for localities to finance school construction without state aid.

The report was expected to touch off a noisy controversy in the Legislature. The Democratic minority long has been clamoring for a state bond issue—they proposed $200,000,000 last year—to help localities finance school construction.

Recommendations

The Moore Commission's final report, dealing with districts outside of New York city, recommended:

1—Appropriation of $300,000 to continue a limited state program of emergency loans to rural and suburban school districts hard-pressed to meet debt-service payments on school bonds.

2—Action by the state to match up to $233,000 of available federal

Texan Testifies at RFC Hearing

RFC Director Admits Giving Aid to Friend

Willett Testifies Situation Very Unusual in Rowe Case

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—One director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today admitted giving a special break to the loan application of a personal friend, who recently became an RFC director himself.

William E. Willett, the director, testified to the Senate investigators that he departed from usual procedure "as a personal favor" to C. Edward Rowe, a loan applicant who subsequently was named an RFC director last September.

Willett said he personally assigned the R.F.C. examiner who made recommendations on a $300,000 loan the R.F.C. board made last April 10 to the Harrington and Richards Arms Co., of Worcester, Mass., of which Rowe was principal owner.

Willett's Reply

When Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) asked Willett if he had not "departed from the usual procedure" in personally assigning the examiner, Willett answered:

"Yes, sir * * * it is very unusual. . . . I did it as a personal favor to Judge Rowe. Judge Rowe has been a personal friend of mine for years."

Committee members closed in with questions on Willett, who had opened his testimony with a denial of ever having "consciously yielded" to influence, as charged in a recent report of the committee.

"You would do that (personally assign the loan examiner) for any friend of yours?" Senator Douglas asked.

"I would," Willett said.

'Would Be All Right'

"Do you believe it proper for an R.F.C. director to depart from the usual procedure set up for the general public to do a favor for a personal friend?" asked Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), the subcommittee chairman.

"I think it would be all right as I do not have authority to make a loan by myself—a majority of the (R.F.C. Board) members present (when a loan is being considered) must approve it," Willett answered.

Willett testified at a Senate Banking subcommittee's hearings on whether there has been favoritism in R.F.C. loans.

A subcommittee report to the Senate earlier this month included a statement that two former R.F.C. directors had described Rowe as "Willett's candidate" for a vacancy on the R.F.C. Board.

Rowe Is Vice Chairman

Rowe is now vice chairman of the board, although the Senate has never confirmed the nomination President Truman gave him last fall.

Willett maintained the loan to Rowe's arms company was a good one. He pointed out it has been repaid in full.

Willett denied specifically that

Patrolmen Circulate Petition on Hours

Members of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association today began circulating a petition in support of a 40-hour work week for police officers.

A measure seeking the shorter work week has been introduced in the state Legislature and the purpose of the petition is to obtain names to indicate the backing of the proposal by the public.

Patrolmen throughout the state are circulating the same petition. Any voter may sign regardless of whether he is a resident of the city.

Tells Why Striking Force for Air Arm Should Get Priority

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Ennis Whitehead, air defense commander, told senators today a long range striking air force should be given top priority on building defenses for this country.

Second priority, he said, should go to a defensive air force capable of preventing American long range bombers from being destroyed at their bases and protecting the industrial might of the nation.

Whitehead, whose headquarters are at Colorado Springs, Colo., gave his views to a joint Senate group considering the troops-to-Europe issue.

He appeared as the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees prepared to wind up military testimony on the controversy. The groups plan to call top Republican leaders next for testimony that may have repercussions in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Whitehead declined to be drawn out on whether or not troops

Kelly Appeal Set February 28 in Albany

The appeal in the Edward H. Kelly murder case is scheduled for argument before the Court of Appeals in Albany on February 28, according to official notification received by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn. A further extension of time may be granted, however, due to the time element in having briefs printed as required by law.

Kelly, 51, was convicted on September 29 in Ulster county court of the first degree murder of Eloise McHugh, 44, on May 22, 1950, on Main street in Kingston. He was sentenced to death in the electric chair. An appeal is mandatory in first degree murder cases.

Bradley Says U. S. Has Strength to Share With Allies

Hudson Valley Residents Share in Annual Foundation Awards

Valley Forge, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the United States has "ample strength" to share with its free-world allies until they become "self sufficient and independent of our aid."

And the combined industrial production and skill of the free nations "will assure our military supremacy if we need it," the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said.

He added, however, that the avowed intentions of communism provide little chance that America's military load can be lightened soon.

The North Atlantic treaty organization is a stronger combination than "the compulsory league of Soviet satellites," Bradley said in a speech prepared for the Freedoms Foundation's annual presentation of awards for "outstanding contributions to the cause of freedom."

The Foundation awarded $100,000 to more than 800 American individuals and organizations. The ceremonies were held in a flag-draped hall not far from the hallowed grounds where General George Washington and his soldiers spent the bitter winter of 1776.

Resulted From Freedom

The greater strength Bradley claimed for the democracies, he said, resulted in part from their individual freedom. Calling on the U. S. to give its allies "more guns for soldiers, * * * for starving people, * * * thought for hungry minds," Bradley added:

"We must show them our faith to bolster theirs."

The American people "will be endowed with the genius for development and invention only so long as their energies are devoted to greater good," Bradley declared. He described the present ideological conflict as "a global

U.S. Would Quit Parts Of Alaska

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Sub-committee said today all-out war with Russia would force this country to abandon certain isolated areas of Alaska.

It gave assurance, however, that "critical areas can be held." No specific places were named in either category.

A 120-page report prepared by the sub-committee's three-man Alaska Task Force stated:

"The military in Alaska, within the limit of the forces made available * * * is embarked upon a realistic plan for the defense of the territory."

But, the Senators added, there is a need for additional combat and service troops and more airpower.

"Service troops," the report continued, "are inadequate to properly support the forces in the area plus the remaining increments of the authorized establishment. They are nowhere near adequate to support an increased effort in the event of the emergency movement of troops to Alaska."

Studied Since Fall

The task force, headed by Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.) and including Senators Morse (R-Ore.) and Saltonstall (R-Mass.), has been studying the Alaska program since last fall. It spent six days in the territory and conducted other studies here.

Declaring it found the military establishment alert and ready for any eventuality, the task force asserted that "if the present state of alertness and vigilance is maintained, there can be no Pearl Harbor in Alaska."

Despite this, however, the report stated that the defense program was crippled by numerous factors.

"Housing appears to be the big bottleneck," Hunt explained. "The little bottlenecks within that big one are a scarcity of labor, unreasonably high costs of construction and transportation, outrageous cost of living, and a strangling amount of governmental red tape upon which the whole program exists.

Found Less Than 1,000

The task force said it found less than 1,000 of the territory's approximate 126,000 population to be participating in the National Guard and various military reserve programs, and urged that the defense department develop a properly coordinated program and take immediate steps to put it into operation.

It recommended a high priority for construction projects at the military port of Whittier. Port facilities at Seward should be maintained "at no less than present operating capacity." Decks in the latter terminal should be repaired.

The rail connection between Seward and Portage, which the Alaska railroad has indicated it would like to abandon, should not be discontinued without the prior approval of congress, the report asserted.

Credit Is Proposed

The task force also proposed that the Alaska railroad be permitted to credit into its accounts the cost of services rendered purely for defense purposes and on which it is incurring a loss, thereby enabling a proportionate reduction of tariffs for other rail users.

Other conclusions listed in the report called for improvement of the Port of Haines; maintenance of the Haines cut-off on a year-round basis; immediate establishment of a cost-of-living index for

East Sector Gains Made To 12 Miles

Resistance Gets Stiffer as Times Goes On; Objective to Wipe Out 40,000 Reds

Weather Hinders

Despite Clouds, Aircraft Give Support Against Enemy

Tokyo, Feb. 22 (AP)—Allied forces smashed northward today on a 60-mile rainswept front aiming to kill, maim or capture all Reds in the mired mountains and valleys of central Korea.

Resistance was spotty most of the day but was stiffening at dusk as allied spearheads neared the main forces of the dug-in Chinese and North Korean Reds. An estimated 40,000 Reds are south of Parallel 38. The allied objective is to wipe them out.

General MacArthur announced the new push today, nearly 24 hours after it began without fanfare.

Splashes 12 Miles

Field dispatches tonight reported an American division on the right flank of the United Nations line splashed 12 miles to within three miles south of the valley town of Pyongchang. Deep mud and Red mines slowed the advance of other units in the area.

The main Chinese Communist strength was arrayed in and around Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonju in the central sector.

A tank-led American spearhead advanced to within four road miles of Hoengsong by nightfall. The Chinese earlier had fought briefly and then ran—some in panic.

A field dispatch said that at dusk Thursday American machinegunners and riflemen were duelling from neighboring ridges with Chinese machinegunners and burp (automatic rifle) gunners.

The U. N. forces were moving carefully over every hill and dale, leaving no foxhole or crag uncovered. But no major contact with the Reds was reported.

Weather Is Hindrance

The greatest obstacle to the allied troops of five nations was the weather.

They were beset by rain, snow, fog, mud, washed-out bridges, raging streams and landslides. Such conditions virtually ruled out close aerial support at the outset. But U. S. air force, marine, navy, Australian and South African warplanes roared through holes in the clouds Thursday to plaster Red targets.

Teamed up in the new hunter-killer drive were American, British, Australian, New Zealand and South Korean troops. They moved up behind tanks, self-propelled guns, weapons carriers and jeeps.

The rugged front extends in an arc from a point near Yangpyong, 27 miles east-southeast of Seoul, to Pyongchang, on the east-central sector. Wonju, 25 miles west of Pyongchang, is roughly in the center of the kick-off point.

A senior staff officer said fresh Chinese Reds of the 198th Division with 10,000 men and other Chinese units were in the Hoengsong area. He said the Chinese had orders to hold the town at all costs.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton said it appeared another big battle was in the offing for Hoengsong. Its outcome could materially affect the whole war, he surmised.

Applying Pincers

At Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported the allied forces are applying a pincers on Hoengsong from the west and south. By nightfall Wednesday, a South Korean spearhead had rolled more than eight miles to within six miles west of the town. An American force was five miles to the south.

Correspondent Swinton said

May Use Nationalists

Tokyo, Feb. 22 (AP)—The prospect of using Chinese Nationalist troops in the Korean campaign remains a live military issue here, informed sources said today. But they added that this was no connection with the visit of Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble to Formosa. Struble, U. S. Seventh Fleet commander, is at the Chinese Nationalist Island on a routine visit connected with his fleet's patrol action around Formosa.

Wappingers Man and Wife Fight Kidnap Extradition

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—A former New York man accused of kidnaping his own son from his own mother testified tearfully yesterday that his mother thought of him as "just something to show off."

Wilford Needs, Jr., 26, a Long Beach, Calif., construction worker formerly from Wappingers Falls, N. Y., made the statement as he fought extradition to New York on the kidnaping charge.

He is accused of kidnaping by his mother, Mrs. George A. Turkel, of Wappingers Falls. Also charged are his wife, Joan Robinson Needs, 25, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, 55, of Long Beach.

The young Needs were divorced in New York last July and remarried on Dec. 29.

The cause of the fight is six-year-old Wilford B. Needs, Jr.,

His custody was given to Mrs. Turkel and her husband after the divorce, with the other grandmother, Mrs. Robinson, to be allowed custody of the child during July and August each year.

The divorce settlement forbade Mrs. Robinson to take the child out of New York state.

Mrs. Turkel charged in the New York complaint that Mrs. Robinson on Dec. 31 went to Wendover Farms, a roadhouse operated by the Turkels, and asked to have the child for one day.

When she failed to return him, Mrs. Turkel charged, she and her husband went to Poughkeepsie

'Would Be All Right'

"Do you believe it proper for an R.F.C. director to depart from the usual procedure set up for the general public to do a favor for a personal friend?" asked Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), the subcommittee chairman.

"I think it would be all right as I do not have authority to make a loan by myself—a majority of the (R.F.C. Board) members present (when a loan is being considered) must approve it," Willett answered.

Willett testified at a Senate Banking subcommittee's hearings on whether there has been favoritism in R.F.C. loans.

A subcommittee report to the Senate earlier this month included a statement that two former R.F.C. directors had described Rowe as "Willett's candidate" for a vacancy on the R.F.C. Board.

Whitehead Gives Views on Defenses

Tells Why Striking Force for Air Arm Should Get Priority

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Ennis Whitehead, air defense commander, told senators today a long range striking air force should be given top priority on building defenses for this country.

Second priority, he said, should go to a defensive air force capable of preventing American long range bombers from being destroyed at their bases and protecting the industrial might of the nation.

Whitehead, whose headquarters are at Colorado Springs, Colo., gave his views to a joint Senate group considering the troops-to-Europe issue.

He appeared as the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees prepared to wind up military testimony on the controversy. The groups plan to call top Republican leaders next for testimony that may have repercussions in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Kelly Appeal Set February 28 in Albany

Bradley Says U. S. Has Strength to Share With Allies

Hudson Valley Residents Share in Annual Foundation Awards

Valley Forge, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the United States has "ample strength" to share with its free-world allies until they become "self sufficient and independent of our aid."

And the combined industrial production and skill of the free nations "will assure our military supremacy if we need it," the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said.

He added, however, that the avowed intentions of communism provide little chance that America's military load can be lightened soon.

The North Atlantic treaty organization is a stronger combination than "the compulsory league of Soviet satellites," Bradley said in a speech prepared for the Freedoms Foundation's annual presentation of awards for "outstanding contributions to the cause of freedom."

The Foundation awarded $100,000 to more than 800 American individuals and organizations. The ceremonies were held in a flag-draped hall not far from the hallowed grounds where General George Washington and his soldiers spent the bitter winter of 1776.

Resulted From Freedom

The greater strength Bradley claimed for the democracies, he said, resulted in part from their individual freedom. Calling on the U. S. to give its allies "more guns for soldiers, * * * for starving people, * * * thought for hungry minds," Bradley added:

"We must show them our faith to bolster theirs."

The American people "will be endowed with the genius for development and invention only so long as their energies are devoted to greater good," Bradley declared. He described the present ideological conflict as "a global

U.S. Would Quit Parts Of Alaska

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Sub-committee said today all-out war with Russia would force this country to abandon certain isolated areas of Alaska.

It gave assurance, however, that "critical areas can be held." No specific places were named in either category.

A120-page report prepared by the sub-committee's three-man Alaska Task Force stated:

"The military in Alaska, within the limit of the forces made available * * * is embarked upon a realistic plan for the defense of the territory."

But, the Senators added, there is a need for additional combat and service troops and more airpower.

"Service troops," the report continued, "are inadequate to properly support the forces in the area plus the remaining increments of the authorized establishment. They are nowhere near adequate to support an increased effort in the event of the emergency movement of troops to Alaska."

Studied Since Fall

The task force, headed by Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.) and including Senators Morse (R-Ore.) and Saltonstall (R-Mass.), has been studying the Alaska program since last fall. It spent six days in the territory and conducted other studies here.

Declaring it found the military establishment alert and ready for any eventuality, the task force asserted that "if the present state of alertness and vigilance is maintained, there can be no Pearl Harbor in Alaska."

Despite this, however, the report stated that the defense program was crippled by numerous factors.

"Housing appears to be the big bottleneck," Hunt explained. "The little bottlenecks within that big one are a scarcity of labor, unreasonably high costs of construction and transportation, outrageous cost of living, and a strangling amount of governmental red tape upon which the whole program exists.

Found Less Than 1,000

The task force said it found less than 1,000 of the territory's approximate 126,000 population to be participating in the National Guard and various military reserve programs, and urged that the defense department develop a properly coordinated program and take immediate steps to put it into operation.

It recommended a high priority for construction projects at the military port of Whittier. Port facilities at Seward should be maintained "at no less than present operating capacity." Decks in the latter terminal should be repaired.

The rail connection between Seward and Portage, which the Alaska railroad has indicated it would like to abandon, should not be discontinued without the prior approval of congress, the report asserted.

Credit Is Proposed

The task force also proposed that the Alaska railroad be permitted to credit into its accounts the cost of services rendered purely for defense purposes and on which it is incurring a loss, thereby enabling a proportionate reduction of tariffs for other rail users.

Other conclusions listed in the report called for improvement of the Port of Haines; maintenance of the Haines cut-off on a year-round basis; immediate establishment of a cost-of-living index for

East Sector Gains Made To 12 Miles

Resistance Gets Stiffer as Times Goes On; Objective to Wipe Out 40,000 Reds

Weather Hinders

Despite Clouds, Aircraft Give Support Against Enemy

Tokyo, Feb. 22 (AP)—Allied forces smashed northward today on a 60-mile rainswept front aiming to kill, maim or capture all Reds in the mired mountains and valleys of central Korea.

Resistance was spotty most of the day but was stiffening at dusk as allied spearheads neared the main forces of the dug-in Chinese and North Korean Reds. An estimated 40,000 Reds are south of Parallel 38. The allied objective is to wipe them out.

General MacArthur announced the new push today, nearly 24 hours after it began without fanfare.

Splashes 12 Miles

Field dispatches tonight reported an American division on the right flank of the United Nations line splashed 12 miles to within three miles south of the valley town of Pyongchang. Deep mud and Red mines slowed the advance of other units in the area.

The main Chinese Communist strength was arrayed in and around Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonju in the central sector.

A tank-led American spearhead advanced to within four road miles of Hoengsong by nightfall. The Chinese earlier had fought briefly and then ran—some in panic.

A field dispatch said that at dusk Thursday American machine-gunners and riflemen were dueling from neighboring ridges with Chinese machinegunners and burp (automatic rifle) gunners.

The U. N. forces were moving carefully over every hill and dale, leaving no foxhole or crag uncovered. But no major contact with the Reds was reported.

Weather Is Hindrance

The greatest obstacle to the allied troops of five nations was the weather.

They were beset by rain, snow, fog, mud, washed-out bridges, raging streams and landslides. Such conditions virtually ruled out close aerial support at the outset. But U. S. air force, marine, navy, Australian and South African warplanes roared through holes in the clouds Thursday to plaster Red targets.

Teamed up in the new hunter-killer drive were American, British, Australian, New Zealand and South Korean troops. They moved up behind tanks, self-propelled guns, weapons carriers and jeeps.

The rugged front extends in an arc from a point near Yangpyong, 27 miles east-southeast of Seoul, to Pyongchang, on the east-central sector. Wonju, 25 miles west of Pyongchang, is roughly in the center of the kick-off point.

A senior staff officer said fresh Chinese Reds of the 196th Division with 10,000 men and other Chinese units were in the Hoengsong area. He said the Chinese had orders to hold the town at all costs.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton said it appeared another big battle was in the offing for Hoengsong. Its outcome could materially affect the whole war, he surmised.

Applying Pincers

At Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported the allied forces are applying a pincers on Hoengsong from the west and south. By nightfall Wednesday, a South Korean spearhead had rolled more than eight miles to within six miles west of the town. An American force was five miles to the south.

Correspondent Swinton said

May Use Nationalists

Tokyo, Feb. 22 (AP)—The prospect of using Chinese Nationalist troops in the Korean campaign remains a live military issue here, informed sources said today. But they added that this was no connection with the visit of Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble to Formosa. Struble, U. S. Seventh Fleet commander, is at the Chinese Nationalist Island on a routine visit connected with his fleet's patrol action around Formosa.

Commission on Schools Turns Down Building Aid

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—The Dewey administration has killed municipal hopes of special state financial aid for school construction.

The temporary State Commission on School Buildings, headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, reported last night that of New York's 4,000 school districts, only about 50 in rapidly growing suburban communities needed some state help.

It recommended $300,000 for limited assistance.

Otherwise, the 15-member commission said in a voluminous report, "school building problems can be solved without any undue financial hardship upon either local school districts or the state, if materials and labor are available."

The commission recommended many revisions in the education and local finance laws to make it easier for localities to finance school construction without state aid.

The report was expected to touch off a noisy controversy in the Legislature. The Democratic minority long has been clamoring for a state bond issue—they proposed $200,000,000 last year—to help localities finance school construction.

Recommendations

The Moore Commission's final report, dealing with districts outside of New York city, recommended:

1—Appropriation of $300,000 to continue a limited state program of emergency loans to rural and suburban school districts hard-pressed to meet debt-service payments on school bonds.

2—Action by the state to match up to $233,000 of available federal

Wappingers Man and Wife Fight Kidnap Extradition

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—A former New York man accused of kidnaping his own son from his own mother testified tearfully yesterday that his mother thought of him as "just something to show off."

Wilford Needs, Jr., 26, a Long Beach, Calif., construction worker formerly from Wappingers Falls, N. Y., made the statement as he fought extradition to New York on the kidnaping charge.

He is accused of kidnaping by his mother, Mrs. George A. Turkel, of Wappingers Falls. Also charged are his wife, Joan Robinson Needs, 25, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, 55, of Long Beach.

The young Needs were divorced in New York last July and remarried on Dec. 29.

The cause of the fight is six-year-old Wilford B. Needs, Jr.,

His custody was given to Mrs. Turkel and her husband after the divorce, with the other grandmother, Mrs. Robinson, to be allowed custody of the child during July and August each year.

The divorce settlement forbade Mrs. Robinson to take the child out of New York state.

Mrs. Turkel charged in the New York complaint that Mrs. Robinson on Dec. 31 went to Wendover Farms, a roadhouse operated by the Turkels, and asked to have the child for one day.

When she failed to return him, Mrs. Turkel charged, she and her husband went to Poughkeepsie

Acheson Points Need of Markets

Foreign Countries Would Be Made to Do Trade in Russia

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson told Congress today friendly countries will be forced to step up their trade with the Soviet bloc if they are needlessly denied access to American markets.

Acheson advanced that contention in urging the Senate Finance Committee to approve a three-year extension of the administration's reciprocal trade program without some of the strings tied to it by the House. He declared the House restrictions would make the program "unworkable."

The secretary was the leadoff witness as the committee began hearings on extension legislation. The trade program, aimed at reducing barriers to world trade, permits the administration to lower tariff rates in return for similar concession by other countries.

Could Be Acceptable

Acheson said in a prepared statement that some of the House curbs could be made more acceptable to the administration with modifications, but said others should be disregarded entirely.

"If the United States starts in the direction of restricting trade, of protectionism, of economic isolationism, or if we lead other countries to believe that is what we are going to do," he testified, "the trend (toward freeing trade) will be reversed and we will move rapidly in the direction of more restriction, more bi-lateralism and more discrimination in world trading conditions."

Has Most at Stake

He said that is so because the United States is the most important trading nation in the world and because it "has the most at stake in the preservation of the private, competitive enterprise system."

He said many other countries now cooperating with the United States in denying war potential goods to Russia and its satellites normally have much more extensive trade relations with the Soviet bloc than the United States.

"If we deny our market unnecessarily to those friendly countries," Acheson said, "or if we act in such a way as to make them believe that such is our intention, they must turn elsewhere to dispose of their products in order to get things they need. It is, therefore, to our interest in the immediate struggle to develop and expand our trade with these countries."

Takes Up Amendments

Acheson took up one by one the four amendments added by the House to the bill.

One would limit the administration's authority to negotiate tariff cuts from products by tying and reductions to parity price levels which are calculated to give the American farmer a fair return for his products. Acheson said this would have the opposite effect from that desired because United States products having parity price support are among those for which the government mainly seeks export markets and it is export markets which are opened up by tariff negotiations.

Another House change is a so-called "peril-point" amendment impowering the U. S. Tariff Commission to fix a point below which the tariff on any item could not be cut. Acheson said this amendment could be modified to make it more workable by letting the tariff commission participate directly in negotiation of trade agreements.

A third amendment would give the tariff commission the right to recommend withdrawal of a concession when a complaining citizen could show a downward trend in his business in terms of production, employment or inventory increase. Again offering compromise, Acheson said this amendment too

Reservoirs Spill Over

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—The city's upstate reservoirs spilled over today. Water storage totaled 254,083,000,000 gallons, or 100.4 per cent of capacity, contrasted to a year ago when the reservoirs held 118,395,000,000 gallons, or 46.8 per cent of capacity. The spilling probably will continue for some time, Division Engineer Fred Stein said. An inch of rainfall over the watershed areas yesterday will provide a runoff of 8,300,000,000 gallons unless a "deep freeze" sets in. Stein said this appeared unlikely from weather forecasts.

Manhattan Probe Rule May Be Late

Opinion Divided

Even High Republican Legislators Not Agreed on Action

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—Governor Dewey's political high command probably will not make a final decision until a few days before the Legislature adjourns on whether to launch a state investigation into New York city government and Democratic politics.

The session is moving toward a March 15 or 16 adjournment.

There is divided opinion, even among highly-placed Republican sources on the proposed probe into the big town's government and alleged Democratic-racketeer tieups.

May Depend on Probes

Many observers believe the final decision well might depend on what two U. S. Senate investigating committees do in New York state—and how long they do it.

They are the Kefauver Crime Committee, which is investigating activities in Republican-controlled Saratoga county as well as New York city, and the Gillette subcommittee probing the Hanley letter.

Despite denials by Dewey administration leaders, there is much feeling in Capitol circles that the Mitchell-Roman resolution to probe New York city was introduced as a possible "lever" to east any squeeze by the Kefauver or Gillette snoopers.

Wicks Fights for Probe

Dewey's state Senate leader, dapper but tenacious Arthur H. Wicks, says bluntly that he is battling to have the New York city probe undertaken.

He says it would be "ridiculous" for the G.O.P. not to go through with the investigation in view of the serious accusations in the Mitchell-Roman resolution and in the fact of disclosures by two probing prosecutors, Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan and Miles McDonald of Brooklyn.

The Mitchell-Roman resolution devotes considerable wordage to the alleged influence of gambler Frank Costello in Tammany Hall, Manhattan's Democratic organization.

Not Aimed at Mayor

Backers of the resolution emphasize that it is not aimed at Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, elected last fall as an Independent Democrat and apparently with Dewey's tacit support.

Some of Impy's friends are not too happy about it, however. They say there's no telling where a probe like that might end.

Three Have Doubts

At least three high-level Republicans in the Dewey administradoubt seriously that the New York city probe will be undertaken. Two of them say they would bet against it as of now.

The fate of the resolution undoubtedly will be affected by much political maneuvering and even some horse-trading.

Politics resembles a chess or checker game. A move on one side of the board leads to action on the other. By the time the game is concluded there often is a confusing back trail of moves and counter-moves.

The Dewey administration, to use the terminology of still another game, is playing its cards close to its chest. So, don't worry if you are confused over the lack of action on the New York city investigation resolution.

Persons on the inside don't know what is going to happen, either.

Willett Testifies Situation Very Unusual in Rowe Case

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—One director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today admitted giving a special break to the loan application of a personal friend, who recently became an RFC director himself.

William E. Willett, the director, testified to the Senate investigators that he departed from usual procedure "as a personal favor" to C. Edward Rowe, a loan applicant who subsequently was named an RFC director last September.

Willett said he personally assigned the R.F.C. examiner who made recommendations on a $300,000 loan the R.F.C. board made last April 10 to the Harrington and Richards Arms Co., of Worcester, Mass., of which Rowe was principal owner.

Willett's Reply

When Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) asked Willett if he had not "departed from the usual procedure" in personally assigning the examiner, Willett answered:

"Yes, sir * * * it is very unusual. . . . I did it as a personal favor to Judge Rowe. Judge Rowe has been a personal friend of mine for years."

Committee members closed in with questions on Willett, who had opened his testimony with a denial of ever having "consciously yielded" to influence, as charged in a recent report of the committee.

"You would do that (personally assign the loan examiner) for any friend of yours?" Senator Douglas asked.

"I would," Willett said.

'Would Be All Right'

"Do you believe it proper for an R.F.C. director to depart from the usual procedure set up for the general public to do a favor for a personal friend?" asked Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), the subcommittee chairman.

A tank-led American spearhead advanced to within four road miles of Hoengsong by nightfall. The Chinese earlier had fought briefly and then ran—some in panic.

A field dispatch said that at dusk Thursday American machine-gunners and riflemen were dueling from neighboring ridges with Chinese machinegunners and burp (automatic rifle) gunners.

The U. N. forces were moving carefully over every hill and dale, leaving no foxhole or crag uncovered. But no major contact with the Reds was reported.

Weather Is Hindrance

The greatest obstacle to the allied troops of five nations was the weather.

They were beset by rain, snow, fog, mud, washed-out bridges, raging streams and landslides. Such conditions virtually ruled out close aerial support at the outset. But U. S. air force, marine, navy, Australian and South African warplanes roared through holes in the clouds Thursday to plaster Red targets.

Teamed up in the new hunter-killer drive were American, British, Australian, New Zealand and South Korean troops. They moved up behind tanks, self-propelled guns, weapons carriers and jeeps.

The rugged front extends in an arc from a point near Yangpyong, 27 miles east-southeast of Seoul, to Pyongchang, on the east-central sector. Wonju, 25 miles west of Pyongchang, is roughly in the center of the kick-off point.

A senior staff officer said fresh Chinese Reds of the 196th Division with 10,000 men and other Chinese units were in the Hoengsong area. He said the Chinese had orders to hold the town at all costs.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton said it appeared another big battle was in the offing for Hoengsong. Its outcome could materially affect the whole war, he surmised.

Applying Pincers

At Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported the allied forces are applying a pincers on Hoengsong from the west and south. By nightfall Wednesday, a South Korean spearhead had rolled more than eight miles to within six miles west of the town. An American force was five miles to the south.

Correspondent Swinton said

May Use Nationalists

Tokyo, Feb. 22 (AP)—The prospect of using Chinese Nationalist troops in the Korean campaign remains a live military issue here, informed sources said today. But they added that this was no connection with the visit of Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble to Formosa. Struble, U. S. Seventh Fleet commander, is at the Chinese Nationalist Island on a routine visit connected with his fleet's patrol action around Formosa.

Wappingers Man and Wife Fight Kidnap Extradition

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—A former New York man accused of kidnaping his own son from his own mother testified tearfully yesterday that his mother thought of him as "just something to show off."

Wilford Needs, Jr., 26, a Long Beach, Calif., construction worker formerly from Wappingers Falls, N. Y., made the statement as he fought extradition to New York on the kidnaping charge.

He is accused of kidnaping by his mother, Mrs. George A. Turkel, of Wappingers Falls. Also charged are his wife, Joan Robinson Needs, 25, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, 55, of Long Beach.

The young Needs were divorced in New York last July and remarried on Dec. 29.

The cause of the fight is six-year-old Wilford B. Needs, Jr.,

His custody was given to Mrs. Turkel and her husband after the divorce, with the other grandmother, Mrs. Robinson, to be allowed custody of the child during July and August each year.

The divorce settlement forbade Mrs. Robinson to take the child out of New York state.

Mrs. Turkel charged in the New York complaint that Mrs. Robinson on Dec. 31 went to Wendover Farms, a roadhouse operated by the Turkels, and asked to have the child for one day.

When she failed to return him, Mrs. Turkel charged, she and her husband went to Poughkeepsie

Mental Patient Finally Subdued

New Orleans, Feb. 22 (AP)—A pajama-clad mental patient, who hurled iron pipe, slate, and invective from a three-story hospital roof for nine hours, was finally subdued by tear gas last night.

The 30-year-old New Orleans veteran dropped from the roof of the U. S. Marine Hospital to an attic room a few feet below.

When police entered the attic room, he started hurling water and gas pipe. Then a tear gas bomb was exploded. The veteran leaped through a trap door to a lower floor where attendants grabbed him.

Police Lieut. Harold Fordyce said the man was "overcome by tear gas and exhaustion."

Hospital attendants said it all started when the patient gave an orderly the slip and was later discovered on the roof, 80 feet above the ground.

Firemen and police raised ladders to the roof. But the firemen decided not to go up the ladders when the patient threatened to topple them over.

W. W. Nesbit, the hospital's director, blamed it all on the patient's desire to "play-act" before an audience. The patient was not identified.

"When this hand was played," writes a Los Angeles correspondent, "South was sure of five tricks in the major suits and needed four tricks in the minors to make his contract.

"He saw at once that he had to find either the queen of clubs or the king of diamonds in the West hand. If the diamond finesse worked, he would have four tricks in that suit alone. If the club finesse worked, he would make three club tricks and the ace of diamonds.

"As it happened, South tried the diamond finesse. It lost to East's king, and East knocked out South's remaining spade stopper.

"Now South was dead. He could (and did) run eight tricks; but the moment he touched the clubs, East took his ace and made the rest of the tricks with spades.

"Obviously, South could have made the contract by trying the club finesse instead of the diamond. But should he have known—or was it a guess? Please tell the truth—don't dig up a strained reason just because you can see all the hands."

I cannot tell a lie; South should have tried the club finesse for a very good reason.

East was sure to have the ace of clubs for his vulnerable overcall. Hence it would be fatal to lose the diamond finesse (as South found out when he actually played the hand).

If South tried the club finesse and happened to lose to the queen of clubs, his remaining spade stopper would be knocked out. Then, however, he could still try the diamond finesse. And if that worked, he would still make his contract.

In other words, South can try both finesses if he begins with the clubs and loses his first try. But if he begins with diamonds and loses his first try, he is dead then and there.

Will Have Full Brigade

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (AP) — Canada soon will have a full brigade of 5,000 men in Korea, Defense Minister Brooke Claxton told the House of Commons last night. Claxton said that some 4,000 men from Canada's 9,000-man special force now training at Fort Lewis, Wash., would leave soon to join the 2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry already in Korea. He said the United Nations unified command had asked Canada how soon it could draw on this special force for Korean duty.

Measure Approved

London, Feb. 22 (AP) — Parliament last night approved an emergency powers measure enabling the Labor government to speed its arms program and prevent strategic supplies from reaching Communist countries. The bill, which passed its second reading in Commons without a vote, grants no new powers but permits the government to apply certain regulations now on the books to the rearmament plan.

$40,000 in Gold Concealed in Cans; American Arrested

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 22 (AP)—An attempt to smuggle $40,000 worth of gold into Germany in meat cans has led to the arrest of an American official of the International Refugee Organization (IRO).

U. S. District Attorney James F. Phelps of Houston, Tex., told an American court that U. S. agents arrested IRO administrative officer Arthur Gershon when he picked up several cans marked "kosher meat" at the U. S. Army postoffice in Bremen.

Phelps said the cans contained 40 pounds of gold with a black market value of $40,000.

Officials speculated whether it might be part of a big smuggling operation with links in New York. They recalled that an attempt had been made recently to send gold to Europe in the body of an automobile. The car was seized in New York as it was being loaded on a ship.

Link Is Sought

Authorities also thought the gold traffic might be linked with diamond smuggling uncovered recently in New York, where several persons were arrested as they tried to bring concealed jewels into the United States. The officials theorized that perhaps the gold is being sent to Europe in exchange for diamonds.

An anonymous letter in German received three weeks ago by U. S. customs officials here warned to watch for packages labelled "meat" and addressed to an I.R.O. officer.

One Can Breaks Open

When the packages arrived at the Bremen army post office last week, an officer said, one can broke open, disclosing strips of gold packed in cotton and paper.

The cans had been addressed to apparently fictitious names at Camp Grohn, an I.R.O. center for displaced persons near Bremen. As postal officer at the camp, Gershon was permitted to collect mail for the DP's.

Gehshon is being held under $10,000 bond in the U. S. military stockade in Bremen. Phelps said he was perparing charges against Gershon.

Students Beg for Opening

Indianapolis, Feb. 22 (AP)—Suburban Southport High School reopened its doors today to pupils who begged that canceled classes be restored. The school had been closed temporarily because muddy roads stalled school buses.

Qualified Nurses Sought for Jobs

The Ulster County Civil Service Commission is cooperating with 42 other civil service commissions in a statewide recruitment drive to attract qualified candidates for public health nurse.

An examination for the position of public health nurse will be held April 14. Ulster county has six positions available at present, and offers an entrance salary of $2,520 plus a $240 cost-of-living adjustment.

"The aim of our public health agency is to protect health and to prevent illness," Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the commission, stated. "The public health nurse is equipped by education and experience to teach and to interpret disease prevention facts to us in simple, everyday language. The position is a highly important one."

The position offers opportunity to advance in the nursing profession through promotion examinations. It offers steady income with three annual increments of $120, as well as membership in "one of the best" retirement systems in the country, and liberal vacations and sick leave with pay, Bohan said.

"The biggest selling point to nurses is the opportunity to serve not only the individual but the community as a whole," Bohan said.

The Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 32 Main street, has detailed circulars listing qualifications and the necessary forms for filing applications for examination. Last date for filing the application is March 9.

Would Win Approval

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senate leaders hoped to win quick approval today of a bill to give $10,000 worth of cost-free government insurance to every person in the armed services. A similar bill was passed last month by the House. In the past most persons in the armed services have been required to pay premiums to get goverment insurance. Both the Senate and House bills would assure a payment of $10,000 on all deaths since the Korean war started, without payment of premiums. The free insurance, however, could not be converted when a man left the service. That is permissible under the present system.

$40,000 in Gold Concealed in Cans; American Arrested

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 22 (AP)—An attempt to smuggle $40,000 worth of gold into Germany in meat cans has led to the arrest of an American official of the International Refugee Organization (IRO).

U. S. District Attorney James F. Phelps of Houston, Tex., told an American court that U. S. agents arrested IRO administrative officer Arthur Gershon when he picked up several cans marked "kosher meat" at the U. S. Army postoffice in Bremen.

Phelps said the cans contained 40 pounds of gold with a black market value of $40,000.

Officials speculated whether it might be part of a big smuggling operation with links in New York. They recalled that an attempt had been made recently to send gold to Europe in the body of an automobile. The car was seized in New York as it was being loaded on a ship.

Link Is Sought

Authorities also thought the gold traffic might be linked with diamond smuggling uncovered recently in New York, where several persons were arrested as they tried to bring concealed jewels into the United States. The officials theorized that perhaps the gold is being sent to Europe in exchange for diamonds.

An anonymous letter in German received three weeks ago by U. S. customs officials here warned to watch for packages labelled "meat" and addressed to an I.R.O. officer.

One Can Breaks Open

When the packages arrived at the Bremen army post office last week, an officer said, one can broke open, disclosing strips of gold packed in cotton and paper.

The cans had been addressed to apparently fictitious names at Camp Grohn, an I.R.O. center for displaced persons near Bremen. As postal officer at the camp, Gershon was permitted to collect mail for the DP's.

Gehshon is being held under $10,000 bond in the U. S. military stockade in Bremen. Phelps said he was perparing charges against Gershon.

Students Beg for Opening

Indianapolis, Feb. 22 (AP)—Suburban Southport High School reopened its doors today to pupils who begged that canceled classes be restored. The school had been closed temporarily because muddy roads stalled school buses.

Qualified Nurses Sought for Jobs

The Ulster County Civil Service Commission is cooperating with 42 other civil service commissions in a statewide recruitment drive to attract qualified candidates for public health nurse.

An examination for the position of public health nurse will be held April 14. Ulster county has six positions available at present, and offers an entrance salary of $2,520 plus a $240 cost-of-living adjustment.

"The aim of our public health agency is to protect health and to prevent illness," Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the commission, stated. "The public health nurse is equipped by education and experience to teach and to interpret disease prevention facts to us in simple, everyday language. The position is a highly important one."

The position offers opportunity to advance in the nursing profession through promotion examinations. It offers steady income with three annual increments of $120, as well as membership in "one of the best" retirement systems in the country, and liberal vacations and sick leave with pay, Bohan said.

"The biggest selling point to nurses is the opportunity to serve not only the individual but the community as a whole," Bohan said.

The Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 32 Main street, has detailed circulars listing qualifications and the necessary forms for filing applications for examination. Last date for filing the application is March 9.

Would Win Approval

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senate leaders hoped to win quick approval today of a bill to give $10,000 worth of cost-free government insurance to every person in the armed services. A similar bill was passed last month by the House. In the past most persons in the armed services have been required to pay premiums to get goverment insurance. Both the Senate and House bills would assure a payment of $10,000 on all deaths since the Korean war started, without payment of premiums. The free insurance, however, could not be converted when a man left the service. That is permissible under the present system.

THE SPIRIT OF WASHINGTON

All of us know that Washington and his ragged but gallant armies had to overcome extreme hardships before they finally defeated British forces and gained America her independence.

But perhaps not too many of us realize that for almost seven years Washington did not win a single major victory in the Revolutionary War. The record of those years is a dismal catalog of heartbreaking reverses. The bitter winter at Valley Forge is the universal symbol of that military misfortune.

The tide did not turn for Washington until the very end. The siege of Yorktown, begun in September of 1781, was a masterly operation. Washington's forces combined with allied French armies under LaFayette to compress Cornwallis' men into an ever-narrowing beachhead based on the broad York River.

With Chesapeake Bay blockaded by the French fleet, Cornwallis could not reinforce his troops nor keep them adequately supplied by sea. He had no land communications. Under intense bombardment in a small area from American and French cannon, Cornwallis finally surrendered.

His defeat was the climax of the Revolution. That single action wiped out at a stroke the long series of disheartening American reverses and insured ultimate triumph and freedom from British domination.

Washington's victory unquestionably owed much to LaFayette's assistance. But basically it was a triumph of unquenchable spirit, the spirit that simply would not admit defeat. Men who are really determined to be free are armed with a weapon that no oppressor, no tyrant can equal, no matter how frenzied or fanatic his following.

That spirit still lives in America. If it should ever be put to the test by the new tyrants in Russia, they will get the same dramatic demonstration of it that Washington gave the British nearly 200 years ago.

Don't fret when fame seems to have passed you by. General MacArthur once experienced delay in receiving a telegram because it lacked "addressee's serial number and APO."

SURVEY OF HEADACHES

After their lapse in popularity following the last presidential election, polls are coming into their own again. There is seemingly no limit to the number of subjects on which public opinion is gauged.

One of the recent surveys endeavored to discover who gets the most headaches and why. It is not surprising to note that farmers have fewer than any other group. Highly educated people pay the penalty for exercising their mental capacities by having more headaches than the relatively unlettered. Women suffer more than men, it was found, while doctors and lawyers make up the highest percentage of sufferers from this complaint. As between the married and the unmarried, some may be surprised to learn that the former have fewer headaches.

It has been said that the prevalence of headaches nowadays is the result of the stresses and strains of modern living. Evidently this has some bearing on the case. According to this poll, those who are most likely to feel such strains seem to be the individuals who suffer the most from pain in the head. Some headaches come from physical causes, of course, and those should not be treated lightly. Others are, as has so often been said, all in the head. One way to avoid them is to limit your worrying.

The harder you work, the higher your income tax bracket.

FAITH IN MEMORY

One of the major manufacturers of plumbing fixtures has taken the bit in his teeth and begun to design fixtures on the premise that man is not essentially a forgetful creature. Henceforth this firm's lavatories will no longer have the overflow vent which is supposed to carry the water harmlessly away if someone forgets to close the tap.

Ignoring the fact that the overflow pipe is not universally successful in preventing flooded bathrooms, anyway, this manufacturer's faith in the citizen must be admired. He gives us credit for becoming acclimated to running water. In return, we should justify his faith by henceforth remembering to turn the water off in the bathroom. Do you hear water running, somewhere?

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE BRITISH POSITION

The other day, a friend telephones complaining that when I speak of China, I grow too emotional. Naturally, I responded that I cannot avoid a rising temper when I think of the huge loss of life in an avoidable war which is the direct response to errors made by men who knew the facts but lacked soundness of judgment in their evaluation.

From that we got on to the unfortunate British position, which has done America so much damage and yet which is of no benefit to the British. They can only say that Mao Tze-tung might have been a Tito, to which the reply can only be, what is a Tito? And that gets no one anywhere.

So the friend asked, "What would you have done were you British?"

To which I replied, "I would be British."

Now, even if I do say it myself, that was a very profound remark, since the real trouble is that the British have deserted their traditional policies and techniques and that most of their troubles with us come from that. For the traditional British attitude has always been to support the second country against the strongest. And the strongest is Soviet Russia, which now possesses in its amalgam 800,000,000 persons, the largest land mass running from the Pacific to the Adriatic, and immediate access under its own roof to the largest deposits of natural resources.

Historically, Great Britain's policy has been to prevent any one country from dominating Europe and Asia. And when Britain was at her greatest, she never failed in that.

However, this the British can say, and were I British, I would say it: Two wars had to be fought to prevent Germany from achieving hegemony over Europe. Great Britain invested her total strength in this effort and although there has been the appearance of success, historically Great Britain lost these wars. For while Germany was defeated, the British Empire was destroyed.

The British became conscious of this huge cost before World War II but were unable to retreat. World, particularly American, public opinion was embarrassing and a benighted liberalism drove all countries to deal not with the facts of life but with glamorized curiosities such as Gandhi and Stalin and the urge of youth toward internationalism.

So the British lost India and Egypt and her influence in Spain and Italy, and Russia emerged as a "liberator." The loss of empire, the emergence of the United States in international banking and trade, the Roosevelt policy of truckling to Stalin, the cost of war, left Britain so dependent upon the United States that at Teheran and Yalta, Churchill, with all his genius and finesse, became a follower to Roosevelt's leadership.

Then came the peace and Britain was impoverished. The tortuous balancing between Russia and the United States produced lack of confidence among Americans and lack of leadership in Europe.

In this confusing situation, Britain faced three problems: 1. Economic rehabilitation under socialism; 2. Reconstruction of empire into a commonwealth that included an independent India and Pakistan, with some relationship to the Arab world as a third political force; 3. The maintenance of a balance between Russia and the United States, restoring East-West trade without losing America.

Great Britain might have succeeded were it not that historic logic drove China into the arms of Russia, and India became neutral, and the Korean war made indecision too costly in American lives.

At that point, Socialist Britain faltered. Such minds as Disraeli or Milner would have pursued British traditional policy, which would have called for a support of Pakistan against India and the strengthening of Germany, Spain and Yugoslavia against Russia, and the use of Chiang Kai-shek against Mao Tze-tung.

But such a program would have violated liberal socialism; it would have outraged those in America as well as the British dominions who had become absorbed in Marxian dialectics, even if unconsciously. So, the British hesitated and lost a chance at leadership.

This is the story, cold, relentless, historical. All the fantasies about the virtues of Mao Tze-tung as a Titoist and of Nehru as a moralist are only covers for errors due to socialist inability to be British. The trouble is that these errors have been more costly to the United States than to Great Britain—costly in blood as well as money.

But Americans could understand if they were told the truth, for they would then know that they had been partners in responsibility for the historic tragedy.

RAPID HEART OFTEN DUE TO NERVOUSNESS

A patient undergoing a heart test was very nervous, as he suspected that he had heart disease. As he was about to undergo examination for a life insurance policy to protect his family, he was more than usually nervous. In addition to rapid heart beat, there was slight trembling of his hands, and he was underweight. His physician had him undergo a metabolism test which showed 110 instead of the normal 100. The rapid heart beat, the trembling, and the plus metabolism all pointed to goiter but his physician, knowing the patient, suspected that his nervousness was to blame.

As the man's wife was a trained nurse the physician asked the wife to take her husband's pulse occasionally, in a casual way any morning, afternoon or evening, and also at any time when he was resting or asleep. She found his pulse rate before breakfast to be 72, at 4:00 p. m. it was 70, and in the evening 90. Resting at 4:00 p. m. it was 76, and when asleep, 70. She telephoned these figures to the physician. The physician then explained to the patient that it was his nervous make-up which caused the symptoms pointing to goiter and that if he would get his metabolism test early in the morning, resting for fifteen minutes after reaching the insurance examiner's office, he would be accepted as far as his heart was concerned, as his pulse rate was not always fast. Whether he was asleep or awake, with goiter present the heart rate would vary but it would always be faster than normal.

In the Proceedings, Royal Society of Medicine, England, Dr. William Everist states: "The serious form of goiter (thyrotoxicosis) should not be diagnosed unless rapid heart beat auricular fibrillation (irregular or worm-like action of a portion of the heart) or other fault of the pulse or heart is found. This will avert the tragedy of removing the thyroid gland in a neurotic or nervous patients." The heart rate during sleep is often slower than the usual or habitual rate but the difference between the heart rate sleeping and the heart rate waking is greater in the neurotic or nervous individual.

It is known that quieting drugs have more effect in slowing the pulse in nervous individuals than with goiter patients.

Don't worry if your heart beat is very rapid at times if it is at normal rate in the morning or after a good rest.

"Right!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Whether justified or not, organized labor is near the breaking point with the administration, with top labor leaders as full of venom against Harry Truman as a union league club discussion of the late FDR.

In private conversations, A. F. of L.'s Bill Green and C.I.O.'s Phil Murray make no bones of their bitterness. But since they begged union members to vote for him in 1948, it's a little hard to attack him publicly.

But a telltale sign of labor's revolt is a stinging editorial, "Wake Up, Labor," in the newspaper of the Brotherhod of Railroad Trainmen now being reproduced in labor papers across the country without comment. It says: "If the rest of the labor movement still has any Fair Deal stardust flecks obscuring its vision, now is the time to apply the towel and face reality. Labor's interests were sidetracked in practically every move and major appointment the President has made since his re-election by the U. S. working man and women."

The editorial opens the gate for rapprochement with the Republican party, and recommends Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon as GOP standard bearer. Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is suggested on the Democratic ticket.

The disillusionment of the labor leaders who went down the line for Truman in 1948 began soon after his inauguration when they found themselves no longer invited to the White House for conferences. Instead, Mr. Truman insisted that labor relations be handled through amiable John Steelman. Within weeks, both Green and Murray were complaining to sympathetic congressmen that Steelman was not carrying their messages to the President, that labor's requests for policy appointments were sidetracked.

It's Mutual

Labor's coolness also had an effect on the 1950 elections where Democratic losses in the cities were heavy.

What brought the rebellion to a head were:

1. Truman's failure to consult with labor chiefs on the price-wage freeze formula. Roosevelt, though often disagreeing with Green and Murray, always made it easier for them to sell disagreeable news to their members by frequent consultation.

2. The absence of a top-flight labor man on Charlie Wilson's staff. When Stuart Symington ran defense mobilization, he appointed a labor advisory council, but not Wilson.

3. Truman's crack comparing railroad strikers to Russians. This convinced labor chieftains that the President was against them for keeps.

Now it's mutual.

Heroic 2nd Division

One of the best things about the new victorious advance in Korea is the way the gallant 2nd Division has staged a comeback. Last November, in the tragic retreat from Korea, the 2nd Division took the heaviest punishment of all. It was given the tough assignment of holding off the enemy while the rest of the 8th Army pulled back below the 38 Parallel.

This resulted in some bitter, bloody punishment, with casualties so heavy that General MacArthur cabled Washington that the 2nd Division was "unfit for further combat."

However, the 2nd Division has now staged one of the most magnificent comebacks of the Korean War. Under Lieut. Gen. Matt Ridgway, it went back into the line along the Taebak Mountains in the bitterly contested Wonju area and heroically stopped a North Korean epd run around the U.N. right flank.

Then the 2nd Division reversed the tables, pulled back 12 miles, drew the North Koreans into a trap, hit the trapped Communists on their flank and wiped them out. It was a brilliant maneuver, proving that this division, with an outstanding record in two previous wars, is now carrying on its tradition as proudly as ever.

Cow College Diplomat

No one would ever associate an Oklahoma cow college professor with career diplomats, but Secretary of State Acheson has now mixed the two together. He has placed Dr. Henry Garland Bennett, president of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, in charge of the Point Four program in the State Department. This is the program charged with helping the underdeveloped areas of the world.

Dr. Bennett has a Lincolnesque knack of reducing every situation to its simplest terms and then illuminating his point with an earthy story. His approach to the Point Four program is simple.

"Food," says Dr. Bennett, "is the key to lots of things. Most people in underdeveloped countries depend on the land for their livelihood. It takes the total efforts of nearly everybody just to grow enough food to keep alive.

"That is the same predicament our own people were in 100 years ago. But we learned better ways to farm. Now less than one-third of us can feed all of us, and provide a surplus besides. Consequently, more than two-thirds can engage in industry and the professions. In order to obtain a better life people must first find ways to grow more food per acre per man. We can't do it for them, but we can show them how to help themselves, and at a very small cost.

"Wherever people free themselves from the threat of hunger," says the cow college president, "they go a long way toward freeing themselves from the threat of communism also."

Dr. Bennett is now on a trip to several Latin-American countries where he is setting a new style of diplomacy. While in Costa Rica he accidentally met President Ulate on a street corner and to the consternation of the diplomatic entourage, they walked over to a sidewalk bench, sat down and discussed the Point Four program for Costa Rica.

Circumstances Bring Easing of Tension in Capital—All Emanate From Moscow

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 22—There's an easing of tension hereabouts. It isn't due to any one thing but to a number of circumstances—all of them, however, emanating from Moscow.

Beginning with the Stalin interview in Pravda, the world generally became aware that the Soviet Union wasn't thinking in terms of immediate war. But even before this—for several weeks now—officials have been wondering just why the Russian government has been so eager to bring about the four-power conference about which notes have been exchanged.

At first, at the instance of Russia, the scope of the conference was to be narrow. Then the western powers to whom the note was sent asked that the subjects be broadened so as to include all the major points in controversy. Instead of balking at this, the Russians have agreed to changes, and now it looks as if the conference will discuss not merely German rearmament but just about everything else that has been causing friction with Russia.

In one breath, on the other hand, the spokesmen of the Allied powers say they are glad to have such a meeting and in another they express doubt whether anything constructive can be accomplished. When it is asked what reason they have to explain why the Russians have insisted on the holding of the conference, the usual answer is that the Communists have in mind some sort of propaganda drive.

This explanation does not seem to fit the case. For the Communists have plenty of vehicles for propaganda. They could make speeches at the U.N. or they could start more propaganda blasts on the peace front and achieve as much publicity.

The real reason might well be sought in some other direction. The Russian dictatorship is fearful of the tension being created in the western world. News of the program for rearmament of Germany must inevitably percolate through the iron curtain countries. Certainly it is being talked about in the satellite states.

While the "great debate" in the United States Senate is primarily domestic in its origin, the fact remains that any public discussion of how many American divisions are to be sent to Europe brings up the question of how many divisions the European countries are about to mobilize. And when there's any mobilization going on, European nations always feel nervous—and dictators particularly so.

The probability is that the Politburo is aware of the apprehensions being stirred among their own people generally as a result of the rearmament planning of the western allies. To offset this, the Russian government must reassure its people that certainly there is no intention on its part to start a war. This means that more emphasis must be placed by the Russian rulers on the "peaceful intentions" of the Soviet regime, and no better way can be devised than to call a formal conference with the other powers and let the Russian people learn of the efforts to achieve peace which the Moscow envoys will try to make. Anyway, the record will soon show the Russian people, to the satisfaction of the Soviet government, that it is striving for peace.

It could mean that at the forthcoming conference some agreements might be made. Some minor points may be disposed of, and the conference may agree to meet at a later date. This might satisfy Russian public opinion.

The interview Stalin gave to Pravda stresses the belief that, at present, war is not inevitable and places the blame for ultimate war on the aggressive groups in the allied countries. But, in the same statement, the Russian chieftain points out that the peoples of the western countries do not want war either.

Despite the fact that these utterances are regarded as in the nature of propaganda designed perhaps to slow down our rearmament program, there is nevertheless a relaxing of pressure here. This does not imply any expected curtailment of the program as to size or scope, but it does mean that drastic controls may be slower in coming. Nobody is in a hurry except in a crisis.

There still is a basic desire to try to impose the armament program on a civilian economy that is to be disturbed as little as possible. There is also talk of such increased capacity by 1952 as to meet both military and civilian needs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My respect for Judge Michael L. Igoe of Chicago exceeds my regard for most of our judiciary, but it would be well to read him a lesson on the essentially evil nature of our unionism. Judge Igoe revealed a want of knowledge in his pointless lecture from the bench in the switchmen's case at an hour when most of the railroads were out of business.

He teed off with several irrelevancies, such as the hard and hazardous nature of the switchmen's work and the debatable "conditions" of their employment.

"Nobody has questioned the patriotism of these men," he continued. "The only issue here is whether or not the sovereignty of the United States is going to be sustained."

If it please the court, but whether or not, these men went over the hill by a conspiracy that could not have been effective without orders from above. They did so knowing that the success of their disloyal act could be measured only by its harmful effect on those poor, abandoned wretches who are being killed in American uniforms but under a banner with a strange device in Korea. That was treasonous conduct.

Even though our American soldiers were formally disowned and consigned to a monstrosity called the United Nations, the switchmen, nevertheless, well knew that they were American soldiers. They knew that no patriotic American could justify the slightest interference with the flow of supplies to their beaches.

So, yes, these switchmen were guilty of a deliberate, shocking, sustained violation of patriotism and Judge Igoe was guilty of flagrant, political soft-soapery in his gratuitous false statement that they were not.

The judge tipped his hand, disclosing an ignorance common to even the best of that sordid bund known as the New Deal, when he said the issue here was an issue of the sovereignty of the United States. No such issue was present. A fraudulent edifice of assumptions had been erected since 1933 by a great band of traitors and racketeers on the pretext of a spontaneous, peaceful revolution by labor.

In the fateful days which debauched the workers, Judge Igoe may not have been able to grasp the deep meaning of the acts that were put over, they were contrived to confuse. One, which seemed benevolent, was the assumption that the government could umpire disputes over wages without becoming, in the end, the arbiter of wages.

When the government says how much you shall get and no more, that is fascism. That interference violates your right of contract. Then, having delivered you into this fix under unionism, the government appoints a judge out of its own political ranks who says you violated the sovereignty of your country in going off the job, en masse, in protest against the insufficiency of the wages which the government has fixed. It is sedition to flout the sovereignty of government. The penalty of sedition may be death.

Why didn't Judge Igoe get to grips with those facts?

The railroads were put under legal compulsions right away. But the unions are a political annex of the party in power and a source of campaign funds. The unions never have been put under serious compulsions.

Theoretically, the union in the case before Judge Igoe was guilty of a crime. But the total punishment which he imposed on both civil and criminal counts was a mere fine of $25,000. So, working

THE SPIRIT OF WASHINGTON

All of us know that Washington and his ragged but gallant armies had to overcome extreme hardships before they finally defeated British forces and gained America her independence.

But perhaps not too many of us realize that for almost seven years Washington did not win a single major victory in the Revolutionary War. The record of those years is a dismal catalog of heartbreaking reverses. The bitter winter at Valley Forge is the universal symbol of that military misfortune.

The tide did not turn for Washington until the very end. The siege of Yorktown, begun in September of 1781, was a masterly operation. Washington's forces combined with allied French armies under LaFayette to compress Cornwallis' men into an ever-narrowing beachhead based on the broad York River.

With Chesapeake Bay blockaded by the French fleet, Cornwallis could not reinforce his troops nor keep them adequately supplied by sea. He had no land communications. Under intense bombardment in a small area from American and French cannon, Cornwallis finally surrendered.

His defeat was the climax of the Revolution. That single action wiped out at a stroke the long series of disheartening American reverses and insured ultimate triumph and freedom from British domination.

Washington's victory unquestionably owed much to LaFayette's assistance. But basically it was a triumph of unquenchable spirit, the spirit that simply would not admit defeat. Men who are really determined to be free are armed with a weapon that no oppressor, no tyrant can equal, no matter how frenzied or fanatic his following.

That spirit still lives in America. If it should ever be put to the test by the new tyrants in Russia, they will get the same dramatic demonstration of it that Washington gave the British nearly 200 years ago.

Don't fret when fame seems to have passed you by. General MacArthur once experienced delay in receiving a telegram because it lacked "addressee's serial number and APO."

SURVEY OF HEADACHES

After their lapse in popularity following the last presidential election, polls are coming into their own again. There is seemingly no limit to the number of subjects on which public opinion is gauged.

One of the recent surveys endeavored to discover who gets the most headaches and why. It is not surprising to note that farmers have fewer than any other group. Highly educated people pay the penalty for exercising their mental capacities by having more headaches than the relatively unlettered. Women suffer more than men, it was found, while doctors and lawyers make up the highest percentage of sufferers from this complaint. As between the married and the unmarried, some may be surprised to learn that the former have fewer headaches.

It has been said that the prevalence of headaches nowadays is the result of the stresses and strains of modern living. Evidently this has some bearing on the case. According to this poll, those who are most likely to feel such strains seem to be the individuals who suffer the most from pain in the head. Some headaches come from physical causes, of course, and those should not be treated lightly. Others are, as has so often been said, all in the head. One way to avoid them is to limit your worrying.

The harder you work, the higher your income tax bracket.

FAITH IN MEMORY

One of the major manufacturers of plumbing fixtures has taken the bit in his teeth and begun to design fixtures on the premise that man is not essentially a forgetful creature. Henceforth this firm's lavatories will no longer have the overflow vent which is supposed to carry the water harmlessly away when someone forgets to close the tap.

Ignoring the fact that the overflow pipe is not universally successful in preventing flooded bathrooms, anyway, this manufacturer's faith in the citizen must be admired. He gives us credit for becoming acclimated to running water. In return, we should justify his faith by henceforth remembering to turn the water off in the bathroom. Do you hear water running, somewhere?

'These Days'

THE BRITISH POSITION

The other day, a friend telephones complaining that when I speak of China, I grow too emotional. Naturally, I responded that I cannot avoid a rising temper when I think of the huge loss of life in an avoidable war which is the direct response to errors made by men who knew the facts but lacked soundness of judgment in their evaluation.

From that we got on to the unfortunate British position, which has done America so much damage and yet which is of no benefit to the British. They can only say that Mao Tze-tung might have been a Tito, to which the reply can only be, what is a Tito? And that gets no one anywhere.

So the friend asked, "What would you have done were you British?"

To which I replied, "I would be British."

Now, even if I do say it myself, that was a very profound remark, since the real trouble is that the British have deserted their traditional policies and techniques and that most of their troubles with us come from that. For the traditional British attitude has always been to support the second country against the strongest. And the strongest is Soviet Russia, which now possesses in its amalgam 800,000,000 persons, the largest land mass running from the Pacific to the Adriatic, and immediate access under its own roof to the largest deposits of natural resources.

Historically, Great Britain's policy has been to prevent any one country from dominating Europe and Asia. And when Britain was at her greatest, she never failed in that.

However, this the British can say, and were I British, I would say it: Two wars had to be fought to prevent Germany from achieving hegemony over Europe. Great Britain invested her total strength in this effort and although there has been the appearance of success, historically Great Britain lost these wars. For while Germany was defeated, the British Empire was destroyed.

The British became conscious of this huge cost before World War II but were unable to retreat. World, particularly American, public opinion was embarrassing and a benighted liberalism drove all countries to deal not with the facts of life but with glamorized curiosities such as Gandhi and Stalin and the urge of youth toward internationalism.

So the British lost India and Egypt and her influence in Spain and Italy, and Russia emerged as a "liberator." The loss of empire, the emergence of the United States in international banking and trade, the Roosevelt policy of truckling to Stalin, the cost of war, left Britain so dependent upon the United States that at Teheran and Yalta, Churchill, with all his genius and finesse, became a follower to Roosevelt's leadership.

Then came the peace and Britain was impoverished. The tortuous balancing between Russia and the United States produced lack of confidence among Americans and lack of leadership in Europe.

In this confusing situation, Britain faced three problems: 1. Economic rehabilitation under socialism; 2. Reconstruction of empire into a commonwealth that included an independent India and Pakistan, with some relationship to the Arab world as a third political force; 3. The maintenance of a balance between Russia and the United States, restoring East-West trade without losing America.

Great Britain might have succeeded were it not that historic logic drove China into the arms of Russia, and India became neutral, and the Korean war made indecision too costly in American lives.

At that point, Socialist Britain faltered. Such minds as Disraeli or Milner would have pursued British traditional policy, which would have called for a support of Pakistan against India and the strengthening of Germany, Spain and Yugoslavia against Russia, and the use of Chiang Kai-shek against Mao Tze-tung.

But such a program would have violated liberal socialism; it would have outraged those in America as well as the British dominions who had become absorbed in Marxian dialectics, even if unconsciously. So, the British hesitated and lost a chance at leadership.

This is the story, cold, relentless, historical. All the fantasies about the virtues of Mao Tze-tung as a Titoist and of Nehru as a moralist are only covers for errors due to socialist inability to be British. The trouble is that these errors have been more costly to the United States than to Great Britain—costly in blood as well as money.

But Americans could understand if they were told the truth, for they would then know that they had been partners in responsibility for the historic tragedy.

In private conversations, A. F. of L.'s Bill Green and C.I.O.'s Phil Murray make no bones of their bitterness. But since they begged union members to vote for him in 1948, it's a little hard to attack him publicly.

But a telltale sign of labor's revolt is a stinging editorial, "Wake Up, Labor," in the newspaper of the Brotherhod of Railroad Trainmen now being reproduced in labor papers across the country without comment. It says: "If the rest of the labor movement still has any Fair Deal stardust flecks obscuring its vision, now is the time to apply the towel and face reality. Labor's interests were sidetracked in practically every move and major appointment the President has made since his re-election by the U. S. working man and women."

The editorial opens the gate for rapprochement with the Republican party, and recommends Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon as GOP standard bearer. Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is suggested on the Democratic ticket.

The disillusionment of the labor leaders who went down the line for Truman in 1948 began soon after his inauguration when they found themselves no longer invited to the White House for conferences. Instead, Mr. Truman insisted that labor relations be handled through amiable John Steelman. Within weeks, both Green and Murray were complaining to sympathetic congressmen that Steelman was not carrying their messages to the President, that labor's requests for policy appointments were sidetracked.

It's Mutual

Labor's coolness also had an effect on the 1950 elections where Democratic losses in the cities were heavy.

What brought the rebellion to a head were:

1. Truman's failure to consult with labor chiefs on the price-wage freeze formula. Roosevelt, though often disagreeing with Green and Murray, always made it easier for them to sell disagreeable news to their members by frequent consultation.

2. The absence of a top-flight labor man on Charlie Wilson's staff. When Stuart Symington ran defense mobilization, he appointed a labor advisory council, but not Wilson.

3. Truman's crack comparing railroad strikers to Russians. This convinced labor chieftains that the President was against them for keeps.

Now it's mutual.

Heroic 2nd Division

One of the best things about the new victorious advance in Korea is the way the gallant 2nd Division has staged a comeback. Last November, in the tragic retreat from Korea, the 2nd Division took the heaviest punishment of all. It was given the tough assignment of holding off the enemy while the rest of the 8th Army pulled back below the 38 Parallel.

This resulted in some bitter, bloody punishment, with casualties so heavy that General MacArthur cabled Washington that the 2nd Division was "unfit for further combat."

However, the 2nd Division has now staged one of the most magnificent comebacks of the Korean War. Under Lieut. Gen. Matt Ridgway, it went back into the line along the Taebak Mountains in the bitterly contested Wonju area and heroically stopped a North Korean epd run around the U.N. right flank.

Then the 2nd Division reversed the tables, pulled back 12 miles, drew the North Koreans into a trap, hit the trapped Communists on their flank and wiped them out. It was a brilliant maneuver, proving that this division, with an outstanding record in two previous wars, is now carrying on its tradition as proudly as ever.

Cow College Diplomat

No one would ever associate an Oklahoma cow college professor with career diplomats, but Secretary of State Acheson has now mixed the two together. He has placed Dr. Henry Garland Bennett, president of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, in charge of the Point Four program in the State Department. This is the program charged with helping the underdeveloped areas of the world.

Dr. Bennett has a Lincolnesque knack of reducing every situation to its simplest terms and then illuminating his point with an earthy story. His approach to the Point Four program is simple.

"Food," says Dr. Bennett, "is the key to lots of things. Most people in underdeveloped countries depend on the land for their livelihood. It takes the total efforts of nearly everybody just to grow enough food to keep alive.

"That is the same predicament our own people were in 100 years ago. But we learned better ways to farm. Now less than one-third of us can feed all of us, and provide a surplus besides. Consequently, more than two-thirds can engage in industry and the professions. In order to obtain a better life people must first find ways to grow more food per acre per man. We can't do it for them, but we can show them how to help themselves, and at a very small cost.

"Wherever people free themselves from the threat of hunger," says the cow college president, "they go a long way toward freeing themselves from the threat of communism also."

Dr. Bennett is now on a trip to several Latin-American countries where he is setting a new style of diplomacy. While in Costa Rica he accidentally met President Ulate on a street corner and to the consternation of the diplomatic entourage, they walked over to a sidewalk bench, sat down and discussed the Point Four program for Costa Rica.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 22—There's an easing of tension hereabouts. It isn't due to any one thing but to a number of circumstances—all of them, however, emanating from Moscow.

Beginning with the Stalin interview in Pravda, the world generally became aware that the Soviet Union wasn't thinking in terms of immediate war. But even before this—for several weeks now—officials have been wondering just why the Russian government has been so eager to bring about the four-power conference about which notes have been exchanged.

At first, at the instance of Russia, the scope of the conference was to be narrow. Then the western powers to whom the note was sent asked that the subjects be broadened so as to include all the major points in controversy. Instead of balking at this, the Russians have agreed to changes, and now it looks as if the conference will discuss not merely German rearmament but just about everything else that has been causing friction with Russia.

In one breath, on the other hand, the spokesmen of the Allied powers say they are glad to have such a meeting and in another they express doubt whether anything constructive can be accomplished. When it is asked what reason they have to explain why the Russians have insisted on the holding of the conference, the usual answer is that the Communists have in mind some sort of propaganda drive.

This explanation does not seem to fit the case. For the Communists have plenty of vehicles for propaganda. They could make speeches at the U.N. or they could start more propaganda blasts on the peace front and achieve as much publicity.

The real reason might well be sought in some other direction. The Russian dictatorship is fearful of the tension being created in the western world. News of the program for rearmament of Germany must inevitably percolate through the iron curtain countries. Certainly it is being talked about in the satellite states.

While the "great debate" in the United States Senate is primarily domestic in its origin, the fact remains that any public discussion of how many American divisions are to be sent to Europe brings up the question of how many divisions the European countries are about to mobilize. And when there's any mobilization going on, European nations always feel nervous—and dictators particularly so.

The probability is that the Politburo is aware of the apprehensions being stirred among their own people generally as a result of the rearmament planning of the western allies. To offset this, the Russian government must reassure its people that certainly there is no intention on its part to start a war. This means that more emphasis must be placed by the Russian rulers on the "peaceful intentions" of the Soviet regime, and no better way can be devised than to call a formal conference with the other powers and let the Russian people learn of the efforts to achieve peace which the Moscow envoys will try to make. Anyway, the record will soon show the Russian people, to the satisfaction of the Soviet government, that it is striving for peace.

It could mean that at the forthcoming conference some agreements might be made. Some minor points may be disposed of, and the conference may agree to meet at a later date. This might satisfy Russian public opinion.

The interview Stalin gave to Pravda stresses the belief that, at present, war is not inevitable and places the blame for ultimate war on the aggressive groups in the allied countries. But, in the same statement, the Russian chieftain points out that the peoples of the western countries do not want war either.

Despite the fact that these utterances are regarded as in the nature of propaganda designed perhaps to slow down our rearmament program, there is nevertheless a relaxing of pressure here. This does not imply any expected curtailment of the program as to size or scope, but it does mean that drastic controls may be slower in coming. Nobody is in a hurry except in a crisis.

There still is a basic desire to try to impose the armament program on a civilian economy that is to be disturbed as little as possible. There is also talk of such increased capacity by 1952 as to meet both military and civilian needs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My respect for Judge Michael L. Igoe of Chicago exceeds my regard for most of our judiciary, but it would be well to read him a lesson on the essentially evil nature of our unionism. Judge Igoe revealed a want of knowledge in his pointless lecture from the bench in the switchmen's case at an hour when most of the railroads were out of business.

He teed off with several irrelevancies, such as the hard and hazardous nature of the switchmen's work and the debatable "conditions" of their employment.

"Nobody has questioned the patriotism of these men," he continued. "The only issue here is whether or not the sovereignty of the United States is going to be sustained."

If it please the court, but whether or not, these men went over the hill by a conspiracy that could not have been effective without orders from above. They did so knowing that the success of their disloyal act could be measured only by its harmful effect on those poor, abandoned wretches who are being killed in American uniforms but under a banner with a strange device in Korea. That was treasonous conduct.

Even though our American soldiers were formally disowned and consigned to a monstrosity called the United Nations, the switchmen, nevertheless, well knew that they were American soldiers. They knew that no patriotic American could justify the slightest interference with the flow of supplies to their beaches.

So, yes, these switchmen were guilty of a deliberate, shocking, sustained violation of patriotism and Judge Igoe was guilty of flagrant, political soft-soapery in his gratuitous false statement that they were not.

The judge tipped his hand, disclosing an ignorance common to even the best of that sordid bund known as the New Deal, when he said the issue here was an issue of the sovereignty of the United States. No such issue was present. A fraudulent edifice of assumptions had been erected since 1933 by a great band of traitors and racketeers on the pretext of a spontaneous, peaceful revolution by labor.

In the fateful days which debauched the workers, Judge Igoe may not have been able to grasp the deep meaning of the acts that were put over, they were contrived to confuse. One, which seemed benevolent, was the assumption that the government could umpire disputes over wages without becoming, in the end, the arbiter of wages.

When the government says how much you shall get and no more, that is fascism. That interference violates your right of contract. Then, having delivered you into this fix under unionism, the government appoints a judge out of its own political ranks who says you violated the sovereignty of your country in going off the job, en masse, in protest against the insufficiency of the wages which the government has fixed. It is sedition to flout the sovereignty of government. The penalty of sedition may be death.

Why didn't Judge Igoe get to grips with those facts?

The railroads were put under legal compulsions right away. But the unions are a political annex of the party in power and a source of campaign funds. The unions never have been put under serious compulsions.

Theoretically, the union in the case before Judge Igoe was guilty of a crime. But the total punishment which he imposed on both civil and criminal counts was a mere fine of $25,000. So, working

THE SPIRIT OF WASHINGTON

All of us know that Washington and his ragged but gallant armies had to overcome extreme hardships before they finally defeated British forces and gained America her independence.

But perhaps not too many of us realize that for almost seven years Washington did not win a single major victory in the Revolutionary War. The record of those years is a dismal catalog of heartbreaking reverses. The bitter winter at Valley Forge is the universal symbol of that military misfortune.

The tide did not turn for Washington until the very end. The siege of Yorktown, begun in September of 1781, was a masterly operation. Washington's forces combined with allied French armies under LaFayette to compress Cornwallis' men into an ever-narrowing beachhead based on the broad York River.

With Chesapeake Bay blockaded by the French fleet, Cornwallis could not reinforce his troops nor keep them adequately supplied by sea. He had no land communications. Under intense bombardment in a small area from American and French cannon, Cornwallis finally surrendered.

His defeat was the climax of the Revolution. That single action wiped out at a stroke the long series of disheartening American reverses and insured ultimate triumph and freedom from British domination.

Washington's victory unquestionably owed much to LaFayette's assistance. But basically it was a triumph of unquenchable spirit, the spirit that simply would not admit defeat. Men who are really determined to be free are armed with a weapon that no oppressor, no tyrant can equal, no matter how frenzied or fanatic his following.

That spirit still lives in America. If it should ever be put to the test by the new tyrants in Russia, they will get the same dramatic demonstration of it that Washington gave the British nearly 200 years ago.

Don't fret when fame seems to have passed you by. General MacArthur once experienced delay in receiving a telegram because it lacked "addressee's serial number and APO."

SURVEY OF HEADACHES

After their lapse in popularity following the last presidential election, polls are coming into their own again. There is seemingly no limit to the number of subjects on which public opinion is gauged.

One of the recent surveys endeavored to discover who gets the most headaches and why. It is not surprising to note that farmers have fewer than any other group. Highly educated people pay the penalty for exercising their mental capacities by having more headaches than the relatively unlettered. Women suffer more than men, it was found, while doctors and lawyers make up the highest percentage of sufferers from this complaint. As between the married and the unmarried, some may be surprised to learn that the former have fewer headaches.

It has been said that the prevalence of headaches nowadays is the result of the stresses and strains of modern living. Evidently this has some bearing on the case. According to this poll, those who are most likely to feel such strains seem to be the individuals who suffer the most from pain in the head. Some headaches come from physical causes, of course, and those should not be treated lightly. Others are, as has so often been said, all in the head. One way to avoid them is to limit your worrying.

The harder you work, the higher your income tax bracket.

FAITH IN MEMORY

One of the major manufacturers of plumbing fixtures has taken the bit in his teeth and begun to design fixtures on the premise that man is not essentially a forgetful creature. Henceforth this firm's lavatories will no longer have the overflow vent which is supposed to carry the water harmlessly away when someone forgets to close the tap.

Ignoring the fact that the overflow pipe is not universally successful in preventing flooded bathrooms, anyway, this manufacturer's faith in the citizen must be admired. He gives us credit for becoming acclimated to running water. In return, we should justify his faith by henceforth remembering to turn the water off in the bathroom. Do you hear water running, somewhere?

THE BRITISH POSITION

The other day, a friend telephones complaining that when I speak of China. I grow too emotional. Naturally, I responded that I cannot avoid a rising temper when I think of the huge loss of life in an avoidable war which is the direct response to errors made by men who knew the facts but lacked soundness of judgment in their evaluation.

From that we got on to the unfortunate British position, which has done America so much damage and yet which is of no benefit to the British. They can only say that Mao Tze-tung might have been a Tito, to which the reply can only be, what is a Tito? And that gets no one anywhere.

So the friend asked, "What would you have done were you British?"

To which I replied, "I would be British."

Now, even if I do say it myself, that was a very profound remark, since the real trouble is that the British have deserted their traditional policies and techniques and that most of their troubles with us come from that. For the traditional British attitude has always been to support the second country against the strongest. And the strongest is Soviet Russia, which now possesses in its amalgam 800,000,000 persons, the largest land mass running from the Pacific to the Adriatic, and immediate access under its own roof to the largest deposits of natural resources.

Historically, Great Britain's policy has been to prevent any one country from dominating Europe and Asia. And when Britain was at her greatest, she never failed in that.

However, this the British can say, and were I British, I would say it: Two wars had to be fought to prevent Germany from achieving hegemony over Europe. Great Britain invested her total strength in this effort and although there has been the appearance of success, historically Great Britain lost these wars. For while Germany was defeated, the British Empire was destroyed.

The British became conscious of this huge cost before World War II but were unable to retreat. World, particularly American, public opinion was embarrassing and a benighted liberalism drove all countries to deal not with the facts of life but with glamorized curiosities such as Gandhi and Stalin and the urge of youth toward internationalism.

So the British lost India and Egypt and her influence in Spain and Italy, and Russia emerged as a "liberator." The loss of empire, the emergence of the United States in international banking and trade, the Roosevelt policy of truckling to Stalin, the cost of war, left Britain so dependent upon the United States that at Teheran and Yalta, Churchill, with all his genius and finesse, became a follower to Roosevelt's leadership.

Then came the peace and Britain was impoverished. The tortuous balancing between Russia and the United States produced lack of confidence among Americans and lack of leadership in Europe.

In this confusing situation, Britain faced three problems: 1. Economic rehabilitation under socialism; 2. Reconstruction of empire into a commonwealth that included an independent India and Pakistan, with some relationship to the Arab world as a third political force; 3. The maintenance of a balance between Russia and the United States, restoring East-West trade without losing America.

Great Britain might have succeeded were it not that historic logic drove China into the arms of Russia, and India became neutral, and the Korean war made indecision too costly in American lives.

At that point, Socialist Britain faltered. Such minds as Disraeli or Milner would have pursued British traditional policy, which would have called for a support of Pakistan against India and the strengthening of Germany, Spain and Yugoslavia against Russia, and the use of Chiang Kai-shek against Mao Tze-tung.

But such a program would have violated liberal socialism; it would have outraged those in America as well as the British dominions who had become absorbed in Marxian dialectics, even if unconsciously. So, the British hesitated and lost a chance at leadership.

This is the story, cold, relentless, historical. All the fantasies about the virtues of Mao Tze-tung as a Titoist and of Nehru as a moralist are only covers for errors due to socialist inability to be British. The trouble is that these errors have been more costly to the United States than to Great Britain—costly in blood as well as money.

But Americans could understand if they were told the truth, for they would then know that they had been partners in responsibility for the historic tragedy.

RAPID HEART OFTEN DUE TO NERVOUSNESS

A patient undergoing a heart test was very nervous, as he suspected that he had heart disease. As he was about to undergo examination for a life insurance policy to protect his family, he was more than usually nervous. In addition to rapid heart beat, there was slight trembling of his hands, and he was underweight. His physician had him undergo a metabolism test which showed 110 instead of the normal 100. The rapid heart beat, the trembling, and the plus metabolism all pointed to goiter but his physician, knowing the patient, suspected that his nervousness was to blame.

As the man's wife was a trained nurse the physician asked the wife to take her husband's pulse occasionally, in a casual way any morning, afternoon or evening, and also at any time when he was resting or asleep. She found his pulse rate before breakfast to be 72, at 4:00 p. m. it was 70, and in the evening 90. Resting at 4:00 p. m. it was 76, and when asleep, 70. She telephoned these figures to the physician. The physician then explained to the patient that it was his nervous make-up which caused the symptoms pointing to goiter and that if he would get his metabolism test early in the morning, resting for fifteen minutes after reaching the insurance examiner's office, he would be accepted as far as his heart was concerned, as his pulse rate was not always fast. Whether he was asleep or awake, with goiter present the heart rate would vary but it would always be faster than normal.

In the Proceedings, Royal Society of Medicine, England, Dr, William Everist states: "The serious form of goiter (thyrotoxicosis) should not be diagnosed unless rapid heart beat auricular fibrillation (irregular or worm-like action of a portion of the heart) or other fault of the pulse or heart is found. This will avert the tragedy of removing the thyroid gland in a neurotic or nervous patients." The heart rate during sleep is often slower than the usual or habitual rate but the difference between the heart rate sleeping and the heart rate waking is greater in the neurotic or nervous individual.

It is known that quieting drugs have more effect in slowing the pulse in nervous individuals than with goiter patients.

Don't worry if your heart beat is very rapid at times if it is at normal rate in the morning or after a good rest.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Whether justified or not, organized labor is near the breaking point with the administration, with top labor leaders as full of venom against Harry Truman as a union league club discussion of the late FDR.

In private conversations, A. F. of L.'s Bill Green and C.I.O.'s Phil Murray make no bones of their bitterness. But since they begged union members to vote for him in 1948, it's a little hard to attack him publicly.

But a telltale sign of labor's revolt is a stinging editorial, "Wake Up, Labor," in the newspaper of the Brotherhod of Railroad Trainmen now being reproduced in labor papers across the country without comment. It says: "If the rest of the labor movement still has any Fair Deal stardust flecks obscuring its vision, now is the time to apply the towel and face reality. Labor's interests were sidetracked in practically every move and major appointment the President has made since his re-election by the U. S. working man and women."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 22—There's an easing of tension hereabouts. It isn't due to any one thing but to a number of circumstances—all of them, however, emanating from Moscow.

Beginning with the Stalin interview in Pravda, the world generally became aware that the Soviet Union wasn't thinking in terms of immediate war. But even before this—for several weeks now—officials have been wondering just why the Russian government has been so eager to bring about the four-power conference about which notes have been exchanged.

At first, at the instance of Russia, the scope of the conference was to be narrow. Then the western powers to whom the note was sent asked that the subjects be broadened so as to include all the major points in controversy. Instead of balking at this, the Russians have agreed to changes, and now it looks as if the conference will discuss not merely German rearmament but just about everything else that has been causing friction with Russia.

In one breath, on the other hand, the spokesmen of the Allied powers say they are glad to have such a meeting and in another they express doubt whether anything constructive can be accomplished. When it is asked what reason they have to explain why the Russians have insisted on the holding of the conference, the usual answer is that the Communists have in mind some sort of propaganda drive.

This explanation does not seem to fit the case. For the Communists have plenty of vehicles for propaganda. They could make speeches at the U.N. or they could start more propaganda blasts on the peace front and achieve as much publicity.

The real reason might well be sought in some other direction. The Russian dictatorship is fearful of the tension being created in the western world. News of the program for rearmament of Germany must inevitably percolate through the iron curtain countries. Certainly it is being talked about in the satellite states.

While the "great debate" in the United States Senate is primarily domestic in its origin, the fact remains that any public discussion of how many American divisions are to be sent to Europe brings up the question of how many divisions the European countries are about to mobilize. And when there's any mobilization going on, European nations always feel nervous—and dictators particularly so.

The probability is that the Politburo is aware of the apprehensions being stirred among their own people generally as a result of the rearmament planning of the western allies. To offset this, the Russian government must reassure its people that certainly there is no intention on its part to start a war. This means that more emphasis must be placed by the Russian rulers on the "peaceful intentions" of the Soviet regime, and no better way can be devised than to call a formal conference with the other powers and let the Russian people learn of the efforts to achieve peace which the Moscow envoys will try to make. Anyway, the record will soon show the Russian people, to the satisfaction of the Soviet government, that it is striving for peace.

It could mean that at the forthcoming conference some agreements might be made. Some minor points may be disposed of, and the conference may agree to meet at a later date. This might satisfy Russian public opinion.

The interview Stalin gave to Pravda stresses the belief that, at present, war is not inevitable and places the blame for ultimate war on the aggressive groups in the allied countries. But, in the same statement, the Russian chieftain points out that the peoples of the western countries do not want war either.

Despite the fact that these utterances are regarded as in the nature of propaganda designed perhaps to slow down our rearmament program, there is nevertheless a relaxing of pressure here. This does not imply any expected curtailment of the program as to size or scope, but it does mean that drastic controls may be slower in coming. Nobody is in a hurry except in a crisis.

There still is a basic desire to try to impose the armament program on a civilian economy that is to be disturbed as little as possible. There is also talk of such increased capacity by 1952 as to meet both military and civilian needs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My respect for Judge Michael L. Igoe of Chicago exceeds my regard for most of our judiciary, but it would be well to read him a lesson on the essentially evil nature of our unionism. Judge Igoe revealed a want of knowledge in his pointless lecture from the bench in the switchmen's case at an hour when most of the railroads were out of business.

He teed off with several irrelevancies, such as the hard and hazardous nature of the switchmen's work and the debatable "conditions" of their employment.

"Nobody has questioned the patriotism of these men," he continued. "The only issue here is whether or not the sovereignty of the United States is going to be sustained."

If it please the court, but whether or not, these men went over the hill by a conspiracy that could not have been effective without orders from above. They did so knowing that the success of their disloyal act could be measured only by its harmful effect on those poor, abandoned wretches who are being killed in American uniforms but under a banner with a strange device in Korea. That was treasonous conduct.

Even though our American soldiers were formally disowned and consigned to a monstrosity called the United Nations, the switchmen, nevertheless, well knew that they were American soldiers. They knew that no patriotic American could justify the slightest interference with the flow of supplies to their beaches.

So, yes, these switchmen were guilty of a deliberate, shocking, sustained violation of patriotism and Judge Igoe was guilty of flagrant, political soft-soapery in his gratuitous false statement that they were not.

The judge tipped his hand, disclosing an ignorance common to even the best of that sordid band known as the New Deal, when he said the issue here was an issue of the sovereignty of the United States. No such issue was present. A fraudulent edifice of assumptions had been erected since 1933 by a great band of traitors and racketeers on the pretext of a spontaneous, peaceful revolution by labor.

In the fateful days which debauched the workers, Judge Igoe may not have been able to grasp the deep meaning of the acts that were put over, they were contrived to confuse. One, which seemed benevolent, was the assumption that the government could umpire disputes over wages without becoming, in the end, the arbiter of wages.

When the government says how much you shall get and no more, that is fascism. That interference violates your right of contract. Then, having delivered you into this fix under unionism, the government appoints a judge out of its own political ranks who says you violated the sovereignty of your country in going off the job, en masse, in protest against the insufficiency of the wages which the government has fixed. It is sedition to flout the sovereignty of government. The penalty of sedition may be death.

Why didn't Judge Igoe get to grips with those facts?

The railroads were put under legal compulsions right away. But the unions are a political annex of the party in power and a source of campaign funds. The unions never have been put under serious compulsions.

Theoretically, the union in the case before Judge Igoe was guilty of a crime. But the total punishment which he imposed on both civil and criminal counts was a mere fine of $25,000. So, working men are, constructively, subject to the punishment for treason for going sick in concert, but the union, which managed this challenge to national sovereignty, was dealt with almost affectionately.

Why didn't the union bosses go to prison for the maximum term?

Judge Igoe was nasty to the civilian railroad executives, poor, embarrassed masqueraders in soldier suits, who were ordered into the "army" months ago to accommodate a fraudulent subterfuge of the President.

These men are not soldiers. They are railroad men. They include some of the best railroad men in the world. As soldiers, they couldn't make corporal but when Truman again invoked the fraudulent device of "seizing" the railroads and turning them over to the "army," the process consisted solely of a change of clothing by a few hundred sedentary civilians who can't even salute.

But, even in their masquerade, these railroad men still couldn't cope with the unions which Roosevelt and Truman had embraced as their political partners in crime.

Finally, the farce exploded in the sick-strike. The railroad executives weren't malingering. They were on the job long hours, doing their best while Truman's friends in the unions were holding up supplies for the army that he sends away and disowns as soon as the ships tie loose from our ports.

Igoe bawled out "some of those army officers who have been strutting around this courtroom. Not men from the Fifth Army but the individuals who have been appointed to run the railroads. If they were performing the duties of an officer of the army, they would get some men to run the trains and they would get some soldiers to see that the roads operate. They might better be concerned with that kind of activity rather than sitting around this courtroom and displaying the uniform that the government has put on them."

Even a New Deal jurist could wish he never had said that. Those men weren't strutting. They were in uniform against their own will to help a corrupt political administration to redeem its mischief.

If we are ever to untangle this horrible situation we will have to first abandon such hypocrisy and start fresh.

Chinese Reds Turning Priests Into Torches

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—A favorite Red Chinese punishment for priests today, says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, "is to slit their backs, fill the wounds with cotton soaked in gasoline and ignite it, turning the men into living torches."

The Roman Catholic churchman-orator said yesterday that Chinese Communists are torturing Catholics who refuse to join a Red campaign to establish an independent Catholic Church in China.

Msgr. Sheen, issuing a statement through the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, of which he is director, declared:

"The efforts of the Chinese Communists to win Chinese Catholics to their cause have been pursued simultaneously with a most severe and ruthless persecution of the faithful—Chinese as well as foreign.

"Nuns, both foreign and Chinese, have been stripped naked and dragged through the streets of Chinese cities tied to the tail of a horse.

"The whereabouts of numerous priests, and of at least one Catholic bishop, is unknown."

The monsignor also said Chinese Communists have been dynamiting missions.

Will Offer Course In Atom First Aid

How to give emergency care to civilian victims of an atomic bombing, or similar enemy attack, will be taught at the Red Cross first aid instructors course to be held the week of February 26 at the Kingston Laboratory, 8 to 10 p. m. Harold Mason, safety representative with American Red Cross Eastern Headquarters in Alexandria, Va., will conduct the course.

Harold A. Sanford, first aid chairman in the local Red Cross chapter, points out, "The federal government has asked the Red Cross to train millions of persons in first aid. To accomplish this task, the Red Cross, in cooperation with the federal civil defense administration, has prepared a supplementary civil defense course."

"The new first aid material," Sanford added, "will outline the injuries which would follow an atom bomb attack and the best methods of giving them emergency care. Of extreme importance is the order in which large numbers of casualties are treated."

Persons who hold current advanced and instructor course certificates are eligible for the 15th hour instructor course the week of February 26. The local chapter urges those who are eligible to take advantage of this instruction and thereby make it possible for Red Cross to train large numbers of persons in protective training in cooperation with Civil Defense.

Chinese Reds Turning Priests Into Torches

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—A favorite Red Chinese punishment for priests today, says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, "is to slit their backs, fill the wounds with cotton soaked in gasoline and ignite it, turning the men into living torches."

The Roman Catholic churchman-orator said yesterday that Chinese Communists are torturing Catholics who refuse to join a Red campaign to establish an independent Catholic Church in China.

Msgr. Sheen, issuing a statement through the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, of which he is director, declared:

"The efforts of the Chinese Communists to win Chinese Catholics to their cause have been pursued simultaneously with a most severe and ruthless persecution of the faithful—Chinese as well as foreign.

"Nuns, both foreign and Chinese, have been stripped naked and dragged through the streets of Chinese cities tied to the tail of a horse.

"The whereabouts of numerous priests, and of at least one Catholic bishop, is unknown."

The monsignor also said Chinese Communists have been dynamiting missions.

Royal Party Planned

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will meet nearly 600 embassy and legation folk—126 of them Americans—at the season's first royal presentation party in the lush state rooms of Buckingham Palace tonight. The guests, in full military or civilian evening regalia, will file before the crowned heads from 9:30 p. m. on and then will make for food-pyramided buffet tables in the King's gilded supper room.

Will Offer Course In Atom First Aid

How to give emergency care to civilian victims of an atomic bombing, or similar enemy attack, will be taught at the Red Cross first aid instructors course to be held the week of February 26 at the Kingston Laboratory, 8 to 10 p. m. Harold Mason, safety representative with American Red Cross Eastern Headquarters in Alexandria, Va., will conduct the course.

Harold A. Sanford, first aid chairman in the local Red Cross chapter, points out, "The federal government has asked the Red Cross to train millions of persons in first aid. To accomplish this task, the Red Cross, in cooperation with the federal civil defense administration, has prepared a supplementary civil defense course."

"The new first aid material," Sanford added, "will outline the injuries which would follow an atom bomb attack and the best methods of giving them emergency care. Of extreme importance is the order in which large numbers of casualties are treated."

Persons who hold current advanced and instructor course certificates are eligible for the 15-hour instructor course the week of February 26. The local chapter urges those who are eligible, to take advantage of this instruction and thereby make it possible for Red Cross to train large numbers of persons in protective training in cooperation with Civil Defense.

Meeting Called To Discuss Plans For Anniversary

Sherwood Davis, chairman of the planning committee for the 300th anniversary celebration here in 1952, has called a general meeting for 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, Feb. 27, in the junior dining room of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Organizations are invited to send representatives. Interested individuals and guests will also be welcome.

The planning or steering committee has had several meetings over a period of three months and is now prepared to report on a proposed name of the celebration, form of organization, a finance plan, type and duration, and other details.

Davis would like to have a large representation group present to consider the proposed plans. The meeting at which this committee was authorized was largely attended and great enthusiasm shown for a 300th anniversary celebration.

Although a national emergency now exists, Davis stated that plans would be developed so they could be carried out if the world situation permits.

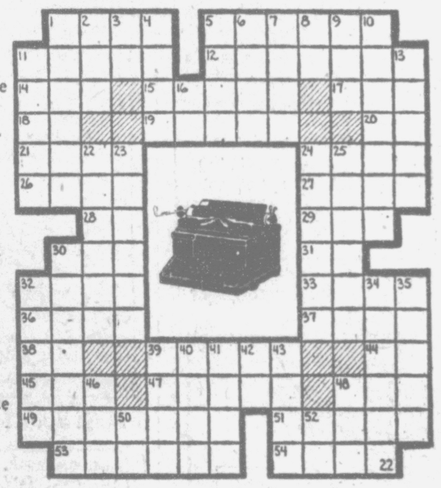
Answer to Previous Puzzle



As Pegler Sees It

men are, constructively, subject to the punishment for treason for going sick in concert, but the union, which managed this challenge to national sovereignty, was dealt with almost affectionately.

Why didn't the union bosses go to prison for the maximum term?

Judge Igoe was nasty to the civilian railroad executives, poor, embarrassed masqueraders in soldier suits, who were ordered into the "army" months ago to accommodate a fraudulent subterfuge of the President.

These men are not soldiers. They are railroad men. They include some of the best railroad men in the world. As soldiers, they couldn't make corporal but when Truman again invoked the fraudulent device of "seizing" the railroads and turning them over to the "army," the process consisted solely of a change of clothing by a few hundred sedentary civilians who can't even salute.

But, even in their masquerade, these railroad men still couldn't cope with the unions which Roosevelt and Truman had embraced as their political partners in crime.

Finally, the farce exploded in the sick-strike. The railroad executives weren't malingering. They were on the job long hours, doing their best while Truman's friends in the unions were holding up supplies for the army that he sends away and disowns as soon as the ships tie loose from our ports.

Igoe bawled out "some of those army officers who have been strutting around this courtroom. Not men from the Fifth Army but the individuals who have been appointed to run the railroads. If they were performing the duties of an officer of the army, they would get some men to run the trains and they would get some soldiers to see that the roads operate. They might better be concerned with that kind of activity rather than sitting around this courtroom and displaying the uniform that the government has put on them."

Even a New Deal jurist could wish he never had said that. Those men weren't strutting. They were in uniform against their own will to help a corrupt political administration to redeem its mischief.

If we are ever to untangle this horrible situation we will have to first abandon such hypocrisy and start fresh.

Rotary Program On Air Friday

Rotary International will celebrate its 46th anniversary this year and in connection with the observance the Kingston Rotary Club will conduct a program Friday evening from 8 to 8:30 over Station WKNY.

President James P. Byrne of the local club will talk on the origin and accomplishments of Rotary International and Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, will discuss the Rotary Foundation, which finances exchange students between this country and foreign countries.

At the luncheon-meeting held Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston, D.D., pastor of St. James Methodist Church, gave a very interesting talk on the origin of the Bible.

Reports Reveal Progress at Y. M.

The directors of the Y.M.C.A. at their regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 20, heard reports from all departments that showed continued growth in the young men's and boys' work. Of the 941 men and boys 674 are under 30 years of age, 488 of these 674 were active participants in the boys' program during January. The average attendance in the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Club room was 112.

The bowling committee of which Ted Young is chairman reported the season coming toward a successful close on May 3 with a banquet for the Church Federation and Mercantile leagues.

Chairman James Guttridge reported additional replacement work of water pipes in the dormitory section which completes all the major replacement work in the building. He also reported after inspecting the new handball courts that they will be ready for use about March first.

It was reported that informal fellowship meetings were being held around the fireplace each Monday night at 7:30 during Lent.

The directors decided to again offer the facilities of the building for U.S.O. services if they are needed in connection with the present privileges always open to service men.

The meeting was conducted by President C. S. Rowland. In opening the meeting he referred to the Y.M.C.A. in America being 100 years old and in Kingston 85 years old. He read from minutes of the first meeting in 1866. This will be a special anniversary year in recognition of the local and national dates.

The meeting was attended by directors, Clarence S. Rowland, C. C. Rose, Clarence Dumm, C. A. Baltz, Sr., James Guttridge, Herman Schwenk, C. E. Wonderly, A. T. Young, William O'Reilly, B. C. Van Ingen, Dwight McEntee, Sr., Frederick DuBois, G. Herbert DeKay, Elmer Rylance.

Bevan Holds Conference On Looming Rail Strike

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan met for 50 minutes this morning with the heads of three rail unions in a last ditch effort to avert a strike of some 600,000 British railroad workers for higher wages.

Bevan told reporters "nothing yet" as he hurried from the conference to the weekly cabinet meeting at 10 Downing street to report on the situation.

If the unions call the strike in an effort to get higher wages—and thousands of workers already have walked out to show they mean business — Britain would face one of her gravest industrial crisis since the 1926 general strike.

Coal stocks already are at a dangerously low level. Even a brief stoppage of shipments would mean a widespread industrial shutdown.

Unless Bevan can solve the impasse, a widespread rail stoppage seemed certain by the week-end through extension of unofficial strikes which the government claims union heads are doing nothing to discourage.

Catholics Told No Fast During Flu, Cold Spread

Boston, Feb. 22 (AP)—Catholics of the Boston archdiocese were advised last night by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing they need not observe the Lenten law of fast and abstinence until further notice because of the widespread wave of colds and grippe.

He explained the relaxation of religious rules was designed to insure that everyone gets enough nourishment to help fight off the existing illness.

The dispensation suspends indefinitely the Lenten law that Catholics consume only one meat meal a day on weekdays other than Friday and that the other two meals of the day combined amount to less than one full meal.

The outbreak of colds and the grippe closed many schools, taxes hospitals and caused hundreds to remain away from their jobs.

Health officials say the worst of it should be over by the end of the week.

Davis Is Arrested

Robert Davis, 31, of 522 Broadway was arrested Wednesday night by John Goumas, proprietor of the Texas Lunch, 522 Broadway on a third degree assault charge. The case was put over to March 5 when Davis appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. Goumas charges, according to the information, that Davis grabbed and pushed him and tore his clothing. Police reported the arrest at 7:06 p. m.

Electrical power output in the United States increased 58 times from 1902 to 1940.

Catholics Told No Fast During Flu, Cold Spread

Boston, Feb. 22 (AP)—Catholics of the Boston archdiocese were advised last night by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing they need not observe the Lenten law of fast and abstinence until further notice because of the widespread wave of colds and grippe.

He explained the relaxation of religious rules was designed to insure that everyone gets enough nourishment to help fight off the existing illness.

The dispensation suspends indefinitely the Lenten law that Catholics consume only one meat meal a day on weekdays other than Friday and that the other two meals of the day combined amount to less than one full meal.

The outbreak of colds and the grippe closed many schools, taxes hospitals and caused hundreds to remain away from their jobs.

Health officials say the worst of it should be over by the end of the week.

Davis Is Arrested

Robert Davis, 31, of 522 Broadway was arrested Wednesday night by John Goumas, proprietor of the Texas Lunch, 522 Broadway on a third degree assault charge. The case was put over to March 5 when Davis appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. Goumas charges, according to the information, that Davis grabbed and pushed him and tore his clothing. Police reported the arrest at 7:06 p. m.

Electrical power output in the United States increased 58 times from 1902 to 1940.

Georgetown Player Reported 'Easy Money'

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Barry Sullivan, 19-year-old sophomore star for Georgetown University's basketball team, received several telephone calls on Feb. 7 asking if he wanted to "pick up some easy money."

Georgetown authorities said today Sullivan immediately told his coach, Buddy O'Grady, of the calls. A date was made to meet the caller in a drug store, and, with plainclothesmen waiting to arrest the phone caller, Sullivan stayed around for an hour. No one showed up.

At no time, Sullivan said, did the mysterious caller say how the "easy money" was to be made. But with basketball fixes reported in New York, he wanted to take no chances.

The story of the bribe attempt was held up, school authorities said, in the hope that the caller coud be nabbed.

Sullivan is from New York city.

Canada Correspondent Says 68 Yanks Killed

Toronto, Feb. 22 (AP)—A Canadian Press Correspondent reported from Korea today that 68 American soldiers were slaughtered in a village they had captured because they posted only a single sentry, and then went to sleep.

Correspondent Bill Boss, with Canadian soldiers of the Princess Patricia Regiment, wrote that the Canadians advancing in the Chipyong sector yesterday, saw a picture of horror at the tiny village of Kudun:

"The Canadians saw the bodies of the Americans — 68 — many stark naked, killed in flight as they struggled to get out of their sleeping bags and attempted to get away," the dispatch said.

Says He Was Approached

Denver, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lee Robbins, former Colorado University basketball player, said today that he was approached in New York by gamblers four years ago. He said they asked him to help in "fixing" conference games played by the Buffaloes. Robbins said nothing about the proposition until after Colorado returned to Boulder from New York, at which time he reported it to Forrest (Frosty) Cox, then C.U. coach, and Harry Carlson, director of athletics.

Blow to Communism

Istanbul, Turkey, Feb. 22 (AP)—Assistant U. S. Secretary of State George McGhee said yesterday there is a growing trend in the Middle East towards collective security to head off any Communist threat. McGhee told reporters he saw no present indication of war.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—More business firms are explaining the facts of life to their employes. And now an airline is explaining about the economic flowers and bees to the businessmen in the nine states it serves.

But many businessmen are still tardy about discussing the economic facts of life—and then act startled when they find how misunderstood business men sometimes are.

The recent push toward industrial pensions has opened a wide new field for getting industry's views before the workers, by pointing out where the money to pay these benefits come from. A number of firms are taking this opportunity.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, however, reports sadly that only five per cent of the corporations it questioned are "explaining their benefit packages in terms of the economic factors which make them possible."

These benefit packages are becoming a major thing in industry. By 1949 industry in general, was spending $5.5 billion in non-wage payments, exclusive of vacations and holidays, and $7.8 billion in dividends. But the big drive for pensions came after that and the chamber thinks that soon the total spent for employe benefits may top dividends.

Companies that are explaining their financial set-up to employes report satisfactory results, according to the National Industrial Conference Board, a business research organization. Here are a few:

Owens-Illinois Glass Co. officials advocate that business use direct language to tell how the employe benefits came about, how the costs are borne, and to stress that the plan can't be carried on without the pofits that result "from increased productivity."

The Bell System uses a moving picture to depict its benefit plans for retirement, illness and death, and to point out that the funds for the non-contributory plan derive from earnings.

The Ideal Electric and Manufacturing Co. executives go out on the shop floor and talk to the individual employe about pensions and other problems. "We got results because we talked to the people, heard their problems and talked about them," an official says.

Braniff International Airways is also talking about the economic facts of life. But it is discussing them with the businessmen in the nine states where it flies: Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois and Tennessee.

The airline has set up the Braniff Business Bureau to make an economic survey of the nine states and the bureau has gone out on the limb with predictions of business conditions there for the rest of this year.

Here are some of the things it sees ahead for its nine states collectively: industrial production, up 18 to 25 per cent this year; mineral output, up 10 to 12 per cent; oil production, increased by 12 to 15 per cent; oil drilling, up 5 to 7 per cent; but construction down by 25 to 30 per cent.

Job chances look good to the airline. It thinks manufacturing employment will be up 12 to 15 per cent in the area. It believes the cash income of the farmers will gain 25 to 30 per cent. And it predicts a 10 to 15 per cent gain in retail sales.

The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania has a program of explaining basic economics to its employes. An economics professor gives a course for management personnel. The company has issued a series of cartoon-illustrated economic pamphlets for all employes. One explains: "Profit is simply payment for the use of tools. Every thinking employe realizes that his welfare and the welfare of his company are dependent on whether the company makes a fair profit."

Some Areas Report Increase in Colds

(By The Associated Press)

A few widely separated sections reported case increases today in the wave of colds and influenza which has afflicted some areas of the nation since the beginning of the year.

Health authorities, for the most part, however, contend the situation is not alarming. In most cases the influenza was reported of a mild type.

In the Archdiocese of Boston, Archbishop Richard J. Cushing notified all Catholics they need not observe Lenten laws of fast and abstinence until further notice. He explained the dispensation was designed to insure that everyone gets enough nourishment to fight off existing illness.

Philadelphia Has Gain

Philadelphia reported 139 new cases of ailments allied to influenza yesterday, a figure the city health director said may break all single day records since the influenza epidemic of 1918.

Philadelphia's total since the first of the year reached 416, compared with 12 for the same period last year. Deaths numbered eight, against three for the 1950 period. New cases yesterday included 48 in a dormitory at the Drexel Institute of Technology.

Influenza and colds were reported on the increase in Detroit and neighboring Windsor, Ont., with absenteeism running two to three times above normal in schools and industry. Hospitals restricted visitors. One death was reported in Windsor and that city's Assumption College High School closed after 150 of its 350 students became ill of influenza. The college remained open, with only a few of its 300 students ill. Health authorities said that although the number of cases was increasing, the disease was of a milder type.

91 at Fort Dix

Fort Dix, N. J., reported 91 new cases hospitalized yesterday, with 98 others discharged. Medical authorities at that army training center said 908 remained in the hospital today. Since Jan. 26, hospital admissions totaled 2,109. Of those 1,201 have been discharged as cured.

Elsewhere in New Jersey, four municipalities closed elementary schools for the remainder of the week. They were Belmar, Vineland, Riverside and Camden.

Arkansas reported 3,263 influenza cases since the first of the year, compared with 600 in the like period last year.

New York's health department said the state was "peppered with comparatively small, widely-scattered outbreaks of influenza-like infections."

"The scattered outbreaks," a health department spokesman said, "came on the heels of a large outbreak in Niagara county which has now subsided. The outbreak in Niagara county involved about 60,000 people. Part of this outbreak spilled over to Erie county (Buffalo) and this now is also on the wane."

Cases Are Mild

The New York authorities said the cases are mild, and additional counties in which cases have been reported are Onondaga, Madison, Columbia, Dutchess, Albany, Schenectady, Chautauqua, Saratoga, Franklin and Rensselaer. Most of these, health officials said, were in schools or colleges.

In West Virginia, Cabell and Wayne counties reported the situation pretty well cleared up. Last month that area reported 75 per cent of the population had an "influenza-like" ailment during December and January.

Texas reported its latest compilation—for the week ended Feb. 17—showed an increase to 9,391, compared with 5,663 the previous week, and a seven-year median of 3,187.

The Carolinas reported only a seasonal incidence of colds.

Senate Committee Probes BB Fixes

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said today the Senate Crime Investigating Committee is inquiring into basketball "pools and fixes."

"But we can't go into it fully because our time is about to run out and we have a very crowded schedule," he told a reporter.

A widening basketball scandal has broken out with the recent arrest of seven college players in New York accused of accepting bribes from professional gamblers to throw games or keep the score within certain limits.

Kefauver said his committee started inquiries about three months ago and intends to find out what it can about basketball betting pools and the fixing of games.

The Senate committee will expire on March 31, however, and Kefauver said its investigation will necessarily be limited.

He said the basketball situation may figure in the committee's hearings in New York city next month but he added, in referring to an investigation already being made there by District Attorney Frank Hogan, that "the matter is in mighty good hands."

"I am sure he will bring out all matters much more fully than we could in our hearing," Kefauver said.

Drury P.R.V.F. who was the celebrant of the Mass. Rev. John A. Flaherty was the deacon and Rev. Edward I. Farrelly was sub-deacon. The responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Theodore Riccobono at the organ. On Tuesday evening Father Flaherty called at the home and led the assembled relatives and friends in the recitation of the Rosary. There were many beautiful floral bouquets and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which attested to the high esteem Mr. Colao was held. Georgetown Player Reported 'Easy Money'

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Barry Sullivan, 19-year-old sophomore star for Georgetown University's basketball team, received several telephone calls on Feb. 7 asking if he wanted to "pick up some easy money."

Georgetown authorities said today Sullivan immediately told his coach, Buddy O'Grady, of the calls. A date was made to meet the caller in a drug store, and, with plainclothesmen waiting to arrest the phone caller, Sullivan stayed around for an hour. No one showed up.

At no time, Sullivan said, did the mysterious caller say how the "easy money" was to be made. But with basketball fixes reported in New York, he wanted to take no chances.

The story of the bribe attempt was held up, school authorities said, in the hope that the caller coud be nabbed.

Sullivan is from New York city.

Canada Correspondent Says 68 Yanks Killed

Toronto, Feb. 22 (AP)—A Canadian Press Correspondent reported from Korea today that 68 American soldiers were slaughtered in a village they had captured because they posted only a single sentry and then went to sleep.

Correspondent Bill Boss, with Canadian soldiers of the Princess Patricia Regiment, wrote that the Canadians advancing in the Chipyong sector yesterday, saw a picture of horror at the tiny village of Kudun.

"The Canadians saw the bodies of the Americans — 68 — many stark naked, killed in flight as they struggled to get out of their sleeping bags and attempted to get away," the dispatch said.

Says He Was Approached

Denver, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lee Robbins, former Colorado University basketball player, said today that he was approached in New York by gamblers four years ago. He said they asked him to help in "fixing" conference games played by the Buffaloes. Robbins said nothing about the proposition until after Colorado returned to Boulder from New York, at which time he reported it to Forrest (Frosty) Cox, then C.U. coach, and Harry Carlson, director of athletics.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—More business firms are explaining the facts of life to their employes. And now an airline is explaining about the economic flowers and bees to the businessmen in the nine states it serves.

But many businessmen are still tardy about discussing the economic facts of life—and then act startled when they find how misunderstood business men sometimes are.

The recent push toward industrial pensions has opened a wide new field for getting industry's views before the workers, by pointing out where the money to pay these benefits come from. A number of firms are taking this opportunity.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, however, reports sadly that only five per cent of the corporations it questioned are "explaining their benefit packages in terms of the economic factors which make them possible."

These benefit packages are becoming a major thing in industry. By 1949 industry in general, was spending $5.5 billion in non-wage payments, exclusive of vacations and holidays, and $7.8 billion in dividends. But the big drive for pensions came after that and the chamber thinks that soon the total spent for employe benefits may top dividends.

Companies that are explaining their financial set-up to employes report satisfactory results, according to the National Industrial Conference Board, a business research organization. Here are a few:

Owens-Illinois Glass Co. officials advocate that business use direct language to tell how the employe benefits came about, how the costs are borne, and to stress that the plan can't be carried on without the pofits that result "from increased productivity."

The Bell System uses a moving picture to depict its benefit plans for retirement, illness and death, and to point out that the funds for the non-contributory plan derive from earnings.

The Ideal Electric and Manufacturing Co. executives go out on the shop floor and talk to the individual employe about pensions and other problems. "We got results because we talked to the people, heard their problems and talked about them," an official says.

Braniff International Airways is also talking about the economic facts of life. But it is discussing them with the businessmen in the nine states where it flies: Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois and Tennessee.

The airline has set up the Braniff Business Bureau to make an economic survey of the nine states and the bureau has gone out on the limb with predictions of business conditions there for the rest of this year.

Here are some of the things it sees ahead for its nine states collectively: industrial production, up 18 to 25 per cent this year; mineral output, up 10 to 12 per cent; oil production, increased by 12 to 15 per cent; oil drilling, up 5 to 7 per cent; but construction down by 25 to 30 per cent.

Job chances look good to the airline. It thinks manufacturing employment will be up 12 to 15 per cent in the area. It believes the cash income of the farmers will gain 25 to 30 per cent. And it predicts a 10 to 15 per cent gain in retail sales.

The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania has a program of explaining basic economics to its employes. An economics professor gives a course for management personnel. The company has issued a series of cartoon-illustrated economic pamphlets for all employes. One explains: "Profit is simply payment for the use of tools. Every thinking employe realizes that his welfare and the welfare of his company are dependent on whether the company makes a fair profit."

Some Areas Report Increase in Colds

(By The Associated Press)

A few widely separated sections reported case increases today in the wave of colds and influenza which has afflicted some areas of the nation since the beginning of the year.

Health authorities, for the most part, however, contend the situation is not alarming. In most cases the influenza was reported of a mild type.

In the Archdiocese of Boston, Archbishop Richard J. Cushing notified all Catholics they need not observe Lenten laws of fast and abstinence until further notice. He explained the dispensation was designed to insure that everyone gets enough nourishment to fight off existing illness.

Philadelphia Has Gain

Philadelphia reported 139 new cases of ailments allied to influenza yesterday, a figure the city health director said may break all single day records since the influenza epidemic of 1918.

Philadelphia's total since the first of the year reached 416, compared with 12 for the same period last year. Deaths numbered eight, against three for the 1950 period. New cases yesterday included 48 in a dormitory at the Drexel Institute of Technology.

Influenza and colds were reported on the increase in Detroit and neighboring Windsor, Ont., with absenteeism running two to three times above normal in schools and industry. Hospitals restricted visitors. One death was reported in Windsor and that city's Assumption College High School closed after 150 of its 350 students became ill of influenza. The college remained open, with only a few of its 300 students ill. Health authorities said that although the number of cases was increasing, the disease was of a milder type.

Fort Dix, N. J., reported 91 new cases hospitalized yesterday, with 98 others discharged. Medical authorities at that army training center said 908 remained in the hospital today. Since Jan. 26, hospital admissions totaled 2,109. Of those 1,201 have been discharged as cured.

Elsewhere in New Jersey, four municipalities closed elementary schools for the remainder of the week. They were Belmar, Vineland, Riverside and Camden.

Arkansas reported 3,263 influenza cases since the first of the year, compared with 600 in the like period last year.

New York's health department said the state was "peppered with comparatively small, widely scattered outbreaks of influenza-like infections."

"The scattered outbreaks," a health department spokesman said, "came on the heels of a large outbreak in Niagara county which has now subsided. The outbreak in Niagara county involved about 60,000 people. Part of this outbreak spilled over to Erie county (Buffalo) and this now is also on the wane."

Cases Are Mild

The New York authorities said the cases are mild, and additional counties in which cases have been reported are Onondaga, Madison, Columbia, Dutchess, Albany, Schenectady, Chautauqua, Saratoga, Franklin and Rensselaer. Most of these, health officials said, were in schools or colleges.

In West Virginia, Cabell and Wayne counties reported the situation pretty well cleared up. Last month that area reported 75 per cent of the population had an "influenza-like" ailment during December and January.

Texas reported its latest compilation—for the week ended Feb. 17—showed an increase to 9,391, compared with 5,663 the previous week, and a seven-year median of 3,187.

The Carolinas reported only a seasonal incidence of colds.

Senate Committee Probes BB Fixes

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said today the Senate Crime Investigating Committee is inquiring into basketball "pools and fixes."

"But we can't go into it fully because our time is about to run out and we have a very crowded schedule," he told a reporter.

A widening basketball scandal has broken out with the recent arrest of seven college players in New York accused of accepting bribes from professional gamblers to throw games or keep the score within certain limits.

Kefauver said his committee started inquiries about three months ago and intends to find out what it can about basketball betting pools and the fixing of games.

The Senate committee will expire on March 31, however, and Kefauver said its investigation will necessarily be limited.

He said the basketball situation may figure in the committee's hearings in New York city next month but he added, in referring to an investigation already being made there by District Attorney Frank Hogan, that "the matter is in mighty good hands."

"I am sure he will bring out all matters much more fully than we could in our hearing," Kefauver said.

The Carolinas reported only a seasonal incidence of colds.

Senate Committee Probes BB Fixes

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said today the Senate Crime Investigating Committee is inquiring into basketball "pools and fixes."

"But we can't go into it fully because our time is about to run out and we have a very crowded schedule," he told a reporter.

A widening basketball scandal has broken out with the recent arrest of seven college players in New York accused of accepting bribes from professional gamblers to throw games or keep the score within certain limits.

Kefauver said his committee started inquiries about three months ago and intends to find out what it can about basketball betting pools and the fixing of games.

The Senate committee will expire on March 31, however, and Kefauver said its investigation will necessarily be limited.

He said the basketball situation may figure in the committee's hearings in New York city next month but he added, in referring to an investigation already being made there by District Attorney Frank Hogan, that "the matter is in mighty good hands."

"I am sure he will bring out all matters much more fully than we could in our hearing," Kefauver said.

The pearl is the only precious gem to come from the sea, and the only one produced by a living process.

The number of U. S. land offices has declined from 120 to 15 in 60 years as available homestead land decreased.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office, submits the following in a series of articles on the new Social Security Law:

Under the new social security law, the title "Widow's Current Insurance benefits" is changed to "Mothers' Insurance Benefits."

This means more than a change of title. While, as before, insurance benefit payments will be made to a widow with a child in her care, provision is now made for payment of such benefits to a divorced wife of a deceased insured worker. It is now possible for a widow, and one or more divorced wives of a deceased insured worker to be entitled at the same time to insurance benefit payments based on his social security wage record.

In order to qualify as a former wife, as far as social security is concerned, the divorcee must be the natural mother of his son or daughter, or have legally adopted the insured worker's son or daughter while she was married to him, or have been married to him at the time both of them adopted a child. In either case, the child must have been under 18 at the time of adoption.

In the case of a divorced wife, the old requirement of "living with" him at the time of his death, is changed to "receiving at least half of her support" from him at the time of his death.

We have received many inquiries about maids, laundresses, housekeepers, gardeners, handymen, practical nurses or even babysitters. They are covered if they receive cash wages of at least $50 in any calendar quarter for (full or parttime) service on at least 24 days, or on fewer days if the worker was employed on at least 24 days in the preceding quarter.

Write immediately to your social security or internal revenue office for the booklet "Do You Have a Maid?" If after study of this material you still feel the employe will qualify, fill out and mail the post card on the last page. Where the employer already reports for business employes, his household workers may be included on the regular Form 941.

Eighth Hi Neighbor Radio Feature Saturday

Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman of the mental health committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced today that the eighth program in the Hi Neighbor series will be presented over Station WKNY on Saturday at 10:30 a. m.

Discussing the play, "Everybody Gets Into the Act," will be Andrew Murphy, III, director of the Kingston Recreation Department; Mrs. Raymond Craft, director of the Golden Age Club; Jimmie Young and Clarence Corell of the Y.M.C.A., and Lorraine McGinnis, a girl from the Kingston City Recreation Center.

Captain William Kidd, famed pirate, was a well-known citizen of New York and lived at Pearl and Hanover streets when not at sea.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office, submits the following in a series of articles on the new Social Security Law:

Under the new social security law, the title "Widow's Current Insurance benefits" is changed to "Mothers' Insurance Benefits."

This means more than a change of title. While, as before, insurance benefit payments will be made to a widow with a child in her care, provision is now made for payment of such benefits to a divorced wife of a deceased insured worker. It is now possible for a widow, and one or more divorced wives of a deceased insured worker to be entitled at the same time to insurance benefit payments based on his social security wage record.

In order to qualify as a former wife, as far as social security is concerned, the divorcee must be the natural mother of his son or daughter, or have legally adopted the insured worker's son or daughter while she was married to him, or have been married to him at the time both of them adopted a child. In either case, the child must have been under 18 at the time of adoption.

In the case of a divorced wife, the old requirement of "living with" him at the time of his death, is changed to "receiving at least half of her support" from him at the time of his death.

We have received many inquiries about maids, laundresses, housekeepers, gardeners, handymen, practical nurses or even babysitters. They are covered if they receive cash wages of at least $50 in any calendar quarter for (full or parttime) service on at least 24 days, or on fewer days if the worker was employed on at least 24 days in the preceding quarter.

Write immediately to your social security or internal revenue office for the booklet "Do You Have a Maid?" If after study of this material you still feel the employe will qualify, fill out and mail the post card on the last page. Where the employer already reports for business employes, his household workers may be included on the regular Form 941.

Tuberculosis and Children

Tuberculosis, a disease which kills approximatey 40,000 Americans annually, leads the causes of death from disease among young people between 15 and 35, although the median age at which tuberculosis takes lives has been advanced in the last decade from 38 to 46.

But tuberculosis can and does kill at any age, infants and octogenarians as well as young and middle-aged adults. Although tuberculosis is primarily a disease of adults, it killed 1,636 children under 15 in 1948.

Tuberculosis is not inherited. The young child who gets it contracts it from someone who has the disease — usually from an adult with whom he is in close contact.

Unfortunately, children who contract tuberculosis often suffer from one or more severe complications, such as tuberculous meningitis, an infection of the covering of the brain, and miliary tuberculosis, a type of the disease in which tuberculosis germs spread rapidly throughout the body. Until recent years, these complications were almost invariably fatal but now the drug, streptomycin, is showing promise in treating both.

At one time, many young children caught tuberculosis from the bovine or cattle, type of germs. It frequently attacked the bones and joints and often crippled its victims for life. This type of tuberculosis was usually transmitted to children who drank raw milk from diseased cows.

To combat the menace of bovine tuberculosis, a nationwide campaign was started in 1917 to eliminate the disease in cattle. Dairy herds were tuberculin tested and cattle showing signs of the disease were slaughtered. County by county, bovine tuberculosis among cattle in the United States was gradually wiped out.

In addition, the pasteurization of milk, which kills all germs, including TB germs, is now a requirement wherever milk is sold.

Mainly as a result of the tuberculin testing of cattle and milk pasteurization programs, bovine tuberculosis has been virtually eradicated in this country.

Since most children who contract tuberculosis these days get it from an older person with whom they come in contact, adults protect their children, as well as themselves, when they keep a check on their health.

There is a reliable way in which a person can keep a check on the health of his lungs. This is by periodic chest X-rays which can show up damage—even slight and early damage—done to the lungs by tuberculosis. Every adult should have a chest X-ray as part of his annual physical examination.

Tuberculosis and Children

Tuberculosis, a disease which kills approximatey 40,000 Americans annually, leads the causes of death from disease among young people between 15 and 35, although the median age at which tuberculosis takes lives has been advanced in the last decade from 39 to 46.

But tuberculosis can and does kill at any age, infants and octogenarians as well as young and middle-aged adults. Although tuberculosis is primarily a disease of adults, it killed 1,636 children under 15 in 1948.

Tuberculosis is not inherited. The young child who gets it contracts it from someone who has the disease — usually from an adult with whom he is in close contact.

Unfortunately, children who contract tuberculosis often suffer from one or more severe complications, such as tuberculous meningitis, an infection of the covering of the brain, and miliary tuberculosis, a type of the disease in which tuberculosis germs spread rapidly throughout the body. Until recent years, these complications were almost invariably fatal but now the drug, streptomycin, is showing promise in treating both.

At one time, many young children caught tuberculosis from the bovine or cattle type of germs. It frequently attacked the bones and joints and often crippled its victims for life. This type of tuberculosis was usually transmitted to children who drank raw milk from diseased cows.

To combat the menace of bovine tuberculosis, a nationwide campaign was started in 1917 to eliminate the disease in cattle. Dairy herds were tuberculin tested and cattle showing signs of the disease were slaughtered. County by county, bovine tuberculosis among cattle in the United States was gradually wiped out.

In addition, the pasteurization of milk, which kills all germs, including TB germs, is now a requirement wherever milk is sold.

Mainly as a result of the tuberculin testing of cattle and milk pasteurization programs, bovine tuberculosis has been virtually eradicated in this country.

Since most children who contract tuberculosis these days get it from an older person with whom they come in contact, adults protect their children, as well as themselves, when they keep a check on their health.

There is a reliable way in which a person can keep a check on the health of his lungs. This is by periodic chest X-rays which can show up damage—even slight and early damage—done to the lungs by tuberculosis. Every adult should have a chest X-ray as part of his annual physical examination.

he measure was sent to Gover- Dewey, who is expected to ap- e it.

Amendment Killed

Opposition by the State Re- ment System virtually killed roval this year of a proposed stitutional amendment to per- increases in pensions of for- state and local employes.

The State Civil Service Em- es' Association, Inc., rejected Dewey administration proposal increase state employes' salaries 10 per cent, or $300, whichever reater. State Budget Director Norman Hurd will confer Sun- with Dewey and legislative ers on the next move.

Two Republicans proposed the use of stray dogs and in medical and scientific ex- ments be permitted. Senator rge R. Metcalf of Auburn and mblyman A. Gould Hatch of heater said their bill would end "black market" in the sale of mals.

The Assembly approved, and to the Senate, a bill to permit wlmen stationed in New York e to fish and hunt small game hout licenses until July 1, 1952.

Completes Study

arguing for a year's extension the Erwin commission, Repub- n Assemblyman Leo A. Law- e of Herkimer said the agency completed its study of the t-price spread, and would con- rate in the future on other icultural problems, such as the condition of farm-to-market highways.

The spread is the difference between what the farmer receives for his milk and what the consumer pays.

Assemblyman Sharon J. Mauhs, Cobleskill Democrat, spearheaded the minority's attack on the commission's activities.

Mauhs, a dairy farmer and lawyer, contended that the agency had "wasted" more than $600,000 in its milk-price survey without producing "real results" or "doing any good."

Republicans who joined Assembly Democrats in voting against the commission-extension bill were Allan P. Sill of Massena, Benjamin H. Demo of Croghan, Robert G. Main of Malone, Orin S. Wilcox of Theresa and Lewis W. Olliffe of Brooklyn.

The rainmakers' control bill was introduced by GOP Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz of South Fallsburg.

Grows from Claims

He said his measure stemmed from claims totalling nearly $1,300,000 against New York city for damages the claimants contend resulted from the city's rainmaking activities in the Catskill Mountains last year.

His bill would require approval by a State Supreme Court justice for each artificial cloud-seeding experiment. The rainmaker would have to assume liability for all claims resulting from his activities.

Many Sullivan county resort owners in Mintz' district contend that New York city's cloud-seeding last year jeopardized their properties and their business.

The proposed constitutional amendment to permit the legislature to increase pensions for former state and local employes was tabled for final consideration Feb. 28, after the State Retirement System protested that it might upset the actuarial soundness of the system.

Lee B. Mailler, assembly majority leader, said protests had been received from State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and officials of the retirement system.

The measure would permit the legislature to provide state funds or credit for increases in pensions. The state constitution now forbids the state to appropriate funds for the benefit of private individuals.

It was learned, meanwhile, that the comptroller's office was making preliminary studies of possible changes in the present retirement system, with an eye to increasing benefits.

The studies include the possibility of setting a minimum pension. The problem of a possible integration of the Federal Social Security program into the State Retirement System also is under consideration.

The system now pays out approximately $10,000,000 annually to about 10,000 pensioners and beneficiaries of pensioners.

Jamming of Lines Would Be Offense

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP) — "Wilful jamming of telephone lines" to obstruct business would be a penal offense, under an Assembly-approved bill sent to the Senate today.

Republican Assemblyman Anthony P. Savrese, Jr., of Queens, who sponsored the measure, said it was aimed at curtailing "Communists or other anti-American forces seeking to sabotage the civil defense program."

He also claimed that "telephone-jamming tactics have been applied by Communists in labor disputes."

He added:

"A well organized band of Communists could successfully tie up New York city's communication lines for hours. They could sabotage the entire civil defense program."

The measure would fix a maximum penalty of two years in prison for conviction on charges of wilful jamming.

Port Ewen's Low Fire Loss Reveals Vols Serve Well

During 1950 members of the Port Ewen Fire Department were called to answer four house alarms, a school alarm, fire in a shed, four grass fires and a tractor trailer truck loaded with bags. Damage in all instances was nominal and the insurance allowed for damage was $322.50 on property insured for $6,500.

This unusually low damage result is an indication that the Port Ewen firemen under Chief Edward F. Mains, is an efficient fire fighting unit.

In his annual report to the Board of Fire Commisioners, Chief Mains states that 80 per cent of fires are due to carelessness and calls for a program to make people more "fire conscious." Fire Prevention Week, which is observed by his department each October, tends to make the public more conscious of the dangers of fire but he reports this education should be carried out all during the year with particular concern being given to schools, places of public assembly and boarding houses, tourist places and other public buildings.

Firemen have been given an opportunity recently to attend training schools where fire prevention and fire fighting is taught. Three officers and one fireman of the Port Ewen department will receive their New York state fire training certificates as a result of attendance.

Mains Reports

"Not many years ago the main qualification for membership in a volunteer company was physical proneness, coupled with good fellowship, and the spirit of the company was one of keen rivalry with other companies. While some of this is true today, there is a definite tendency toward cooperation, sociability and education, the need for the later becomes more evident each day," reports Chief Mains.

During the year the Port Ewen department in responding to fire calls laid 450 feet of 2½ inch hose; 150 feet of 1½ inch hose and 200 feet of booster hose and traveled 28½ miles in responding to alarms in the fire district. The department was called out on one Mutual Aid call to the city of Kingston, one to Ulster Park and one to St. Remy for a total of 20 miles. Other travel by the department amounted to 32½ miles.

During the year the commissioners purchased one 1500-watt portable lighting plant, a 2½-inch Rockwood fog nozzle and a 1½-inch nozzle and 200 feet of 1½ inch hose.

Need for an addition to the present firehouse to house the hook and ladder equipment in the same building as the pumper, is called to the attention of the commissioners and members. Work toward raising the necessary money is now under way. Chief Mains also recommends purchase of an extra piece of pumping equipment and having the hook and ladder rack placed on a new chassis. Additional hose is also needed.

In his report Chief Mains thanks the fire board for its cooperation, expresses appreciation to Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston department and his firemen for their willingness to help and also thanks all members of fire departments of the town of Esopus for assistance and cooperation. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department are also recognized in his report and he thanks them for always being ready to stand by and render help.

During Fire Prevention Week all of the schools in the fire district were visited, fire drills held and fire prevention literature was handed out.

In concluding Chief Mains makes the following recommendations:

"The town board of our town should try to regulate the parking on some of our streets, for in case of fire the fire truck would be unable to pass through the streets, and some vehicles park in front of the fire hydrants.

"Our members are bringing new members into our department and some day we will be able to have two fire companies which would make a fine fire department.

"I am thankful to the officers and members who have cooperated in making this one of the finest fire departments of volunteers."

In the statistical portion of his report Chief Mains gives the following:

House fires, 4, cause oil burner-chimney.

School fire, space oil heater.

Garage, cause unknown.

Combination house and garage, caused by children. Fire in a hut and a shed was also caused by children.

Four grass fires, cause railroad, burning brush and one unknown cause.

Trailer load of bags, caused by charcoal salamander.

The department also responded to a call for a broken gas main and stood by during repairs.

Only twice was it necessary to connect with a hydrant for water. In other cases quick response of the department made use of other extinguishers sufficient.

funds by July 1, 1953, for surveying school facilities.

3—Authority for the proposed State Defense Council to assign construction priorities for school facilities, subject to federal allocations of materials and manpower.

The commission said the "most serious school building problems in the state are found in the suburban districts."

Nassau Hit Hard

It mentioned "particularly Nassau County where there has been at least a 75 per cent increase in public school enrollment since 1945 and where large future increases can be anticipated."

"Other rapidly growing counties," the report added, "are Erie, Schenectady, Monroe, Onondaga, Niagara, Rensselaer, Broome and Oneida."

The impact of the postwar increases in births, the commission said, "probably will be the least in cities as a group."

"Cities like Long Beach, Rensselaer, Tonawanda, Schenectady, Glen Cove, Troy and North Tonawanda," the report went on, "could have large school building problems unless migration to the suburbs and the rise in private and parochial school attendance continues to offset the effects of increased birth on enrollments."

Localities Know Problems

The commission said, however, that "localities generally are alert to the problems that they will face in school construction beginning in September, 1952."

It added:

"The commissioner of education during 1950 approved plans for nearly $140,000,000 of school building in localites under 70,000 population."

But, the report cautioned, "a serious problem will arise if labor and materials are not available to erect the school required."

The Republican-controlled Legislature, expected to carry out the Moore Commission recommendations, also will give the required second approved to a proposed constitutional amendment to increase localities' borrowing capacities.

The proposed amendment would permit localities to base their debt limits on the five-year average of their full, rather than assessed valuations. Municipal debt limits in the state range from eight to 10 per cent of the five-year average of their total real estate valuations.

After second approval by the Legislature the amendment will be submitted to the voters Nov. 6.

and found that the child's father, mother and grandmother had taken him away.

At the extradition hearing James Welsh, secretary on extradition matters to Gov. Earl Warren, took under advisement whether the three should be returned to New York for trial.

Needs testified that his mother had pressured him into getting a divorce after opposing his marriage from the beginning.

Saying that his mother never loved him, but only wanted something to show off, Needs said she had transfererd her "warped love" to his son.

Mrs. Robinson testified that she had felt she could not return the child to the Turkels "with a clear conscience" because of the environment in which he was being raised.

She said the boy had free run of the Turkels tavern.

Warren H. Eckert, attorney for the Needs, urged that they be "left alone to work out their own lives."

"The child is well and happy with his parents," he said.

The lawyer added that it would mean financial hardship for the Needs to return to New York for trial, and he doubted that there was sufficient evidence to convict them of kidnaping.

Says Truman Tax Plan to Hit State

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—The state comptroller sharply criticized today a Truman administration proposal to tax income from state and municipal bonds, now free from such levies.

Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern said the proposal would increase by 50 per cent the interest rates the state and municipalities would have to pay on future bond issues.

McGovern told local officials in a letter that he considered it his duty to warn them of "the very serious financial consequences such a proposal would impose on your community."

McGovern said he would attend a hearing in Washington Monday to protest adoption of the tax. He urged local officials to express their opposition to congressmen.

The comptroller said imposition of the tax could adversely affect school, hospital and housing construction programs, and would require the state to review many of its programs for local assistance for housing and highway purposes.

Port Ewen's Low Fire Loss Reveals Vols Serve Well

During 1950 members of the Port Ewen Fire Department were called to answer four house alarms, a school alarm, fire in a shed, four grass fires and a tractor trailer truck loaded with bags. Damage in all instances was nominal and the insurance allowed for damage was $322.50 on property insured for $6,500.

This unusually low damage result is an indication that the Port Ewen firemen under Chief Edward F. Mains, is an efficient fire fighting unit.

In his annual report to the Board of Fire Commisioners, Chief Mains states that 80 per cent of fires are due to carelessness and calls for a program to make people more "fire conscious." Fire Prevention Week, which is observed by his department each October, tends to make the public more conscious of the dangers of fire but he reports this education should be carried out all during the year with particular concern being given to schools, places of public assembly and boarding houses, tourist places and other public buildings.

Firemen have been given an opportunity recently to attend training schools where fire prevention and fire fighting is taught. Three officers and one fireman of the Port Ewen department will receive their New York state fire training certificates as a result of attendance.

Mains Reports

"Not many years ago the main qualification for membership in a volunteer company was physical proneness, coupled with good fellowship, and the spirit of the company was one of keen rivalry with other companies. While some of this is true today, there is a definite tendency toward cooperation, sociability and education, the need for the later becomes more evident each day," reports Chief Mains.

During the year the Port Ewen department in responding to fire calls laid 450 feet of 2½ inch hose; 150 feet of 1½ inch hose and 200 feet of booster hose and traveled 28½ miles in responding to alarms in the fire district. The department was called out on one Mutual Aid call to the city of Kingston, one to Ulster Park and one to St. Remy for a total of 20 miles. Other travel by the department amounted to 32½ miles.

During the year the commissioners purchased one 1500-watt portable lighting plant, a 2½-inch Rockwood fog nozzle and a 1½-inch nozzle and 200 feet of 1½ inch hose.

Need for an addition to the present firehouse to house the hook and ladder equipment in the same building as the pumper, is called to the attention of the commissioners and members. Work toward raising the necessary money is now under way. Chief Mains also recommends purchase of an extra piece of pumping equipment and having the hook and ladder rack placed on a new chassis. Additional hose is also needed.

In his report Chief Mains thanks the fire board for its cooperation, expresses appreciation to Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston department and his firemen for their willingness to help and also thanks all members of fire departments of the town of Esopus for assistance and cooperation. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department are also recognized in his report and he thanks them for always being ready to stand by and render help.

During Fire Prevention Week all of the schools in the fire district were visited, fire drills held and fire prevention literature was handed out.

In concluding Chief Mains makes the following recommendations:

"The town board of our town should try to regulate the parking on some of our streets, for in case of fire the fire truck would be unable to pass through the streets, and some vehicles park in front of the fire hydrants.

"Our members are bringing new members into our department and some day we will be able to have two fire companies which would make a fine fire department.

"I am thankful to the officers and members who have cooperated in making this one of the finest fire departments of volunteers."

In the statistical portion of his report Chief Mains gives the following:

House fires, 4, cause oil burner-chimney.

School fire, space oil heater.

Garage, cause unknown.

Combination house and garage, caused by children. Fire in a hut and a shed was also caused by children.

Four grass fires, cause railroad, burning brush and one unknown cause.

Trailer load of bags, caused by charcoal salamander.

The department also responded to a call for a broken gas main and stood by during repairs.

Only twice was it necessary to connect with a hydrant for water. In other cases quick response of the department made use of other extinguishers sufficient.

Bing Out Again

Santa Monica, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—Bing Crosby, fully recuperated from surgery, is out in the open again and hankering for the feel of his clubs against a golf ball. Dr. F. C. Schlumberger said Bing is feeling fine again and thoroughly enjoyed the rest from the demands of his career.

Commission on Wappingers Man

funds by July 1, 1953, for surveying school facilities.

3—Authority for the proposed State Defense Council to assign construction priorities for school facilities, subject to federal allocations of materials and manpower.

The commission said the "most serious school building problems in the state are found in the suburban districts."

Nassau Hit Hard

It mentioned "particularly Nassau County where there has been at least a 75 per cent increase in public school enrollment since 1945 and where large future increases can be anticipated."

"Other rapidly growing counties," the report added, "are Erie, Schenectady, Monroe, Onondaga, Niagara, Rensselaer, Broome and Oneida."

The impact of the postwar increases in births, the commission said, "probably will be the least in cities as a group."

"Cities like Long Beach, Rensselaer, Tonawanda, Schenectady, Glen Cove, Troy and North Tonawanda," the report went on, "could have large school building problems unless migration to the suburbs and the rise in private and parochial school attendance continues to offset the effects of increased birth on enrollments."

Localities Know Problems

The commission said, however, that "localities generally are alert to the problems that they will face in school construction beginning in September, 1952."

It added:

"The commissioner of education during 1950 approved plans for nearly $140,000,000 of school building in localites under 70,000 population."

But, the report cautioned, "a serious problem will arise if labor and materials are not available to erect the school required."

The Republican-controlled Legislature, expected to carry out the Moore Commission recommendations, also will give the required second approved to a proposed constitutional amendment to increase localities' borrowing capacities.

The proposed amendment would permit localities to base their debt limits on the five-year average of their full, rather than assessed valuations. Municipal debt limits in the state range from eight to 10 per cent of the five-year average of their total real estate valuations.

After second approval by the Legislature the amendment will be submitted to the voters Nov. 6.

and found that the child's father, mother and grandmother had taken him away.

At the extradition hearing James Welsh, secretary on extradition matters to Gov. Earl Warren, took under advisement whether the three should be returned to New York for trial.

Needs testified that his mother had pressured him into getting a divorce after opposing his marriage from the beginning.

Saying that his mother never loved him, but only wanted something to show off, Needs said she had transfererd her "warped love" to his son.

Mrs. Robinson testified that she had felt she could not return the child to the Turkels "with a clear conscience" because of the environment in which he was being raised.

She said the boy had free run of the Turkels tavern.

Warren H. Eckert, attorney for the Needs, urged that they be "left alone to work out their own lives."

"The child is well and happy with his parents," he said.

The lawyer added that it would mean financial hardship for the Needs to return to New York for trial, and he doubted that there was sufficient evidence to convict them of kidnaping.

Forget Border

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (AP)—American and Canadian officials report they have agreed on a plan to combine the civil defenses of the two nations "as if there were no border."

Says Truman Tax Plan to Hit State

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—The state comptroller sharply criticized today a Truman administration proposal to tax income from state and municipal bonds, now free from such levies.

Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern said the proposal would increase by 50 per cent the interest rates the state and municipalities would have to pay on future bond issues.

McGovern told local officials in a letter that he considered it his duty to warn them of "the very serious financial consequences such a proposal would impose on your community."

McGovern said he would attend a hearing in Washington Monday to protest adoption of the tax. He urged local officials to express their opposition to congressmen.

The comptroller said imposition of the tax could adversely affect school, hospital and housing construction programs, and would require the state to review many of its programs for local assistance for housing and highway purposes.

'Oliver Twist' Approved

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—The British film "Oliver Twist"—after subjection to "extensive eliminations"—has been approved by the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA), the producers' group. The film's portrayal of Dickens' criminal character, "Fagin," had been protested by a number of Jewish groups in this country as derogatory to their race and religion.

Bellone Is Expelled

Milan, Italy, Feb. 22 (AP)—Pino Bellone, a leading Communist here, said today he has been expelled from the Italian Communist Party for disagreeing with its leaders on economic matters. Bellone, an attorney and president of one of Milan's two big electrical companies, said he has aligned himself with the Socialist Unity Party, an anti-Communist splinter of the Italian Socialists. The case had no relation to the major rift in the party over Titoism, Bellone said.

To Undergo Operation

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Duchess of Windsor will undergo an operation today in the Harkness Pavilion of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. The nature of the operation was not revealed but hospital authorities said it was not serious. It will be performed by Dr. Henry Wisdom Cave, president of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Benjamin P. Watson, fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons in Edinburgh, a gynecologist, will be in attendance.

Resolution Honors Late Frank Shultis

Woodstock, Feb. 22—The annual policy-holders meeting of the Woodstock Mutual Insurance Association was held on Tuesday, at the association's office on Tinker street.

During the meeting the following officers and directors were elected: Sherman L. Short, Woodstock, president; Leonard A. Ford, Shandaken, vice president; LaMonte V. Simpkins, Woodstock, secretary and manager; Alice M. Bailey, Wittenberg, assistant secretary; Edmund C. Burgher, Shokan, treasurer. The following directors were elected for a period of three years: LaMonte V. Simpkins; Oscar W. Mosher, Woodstock; Nelson H. Shultis, Bearsville; Virgil Van Wagenen.

It was with regret that the policy-holders heard LaMonte V. Simpkins, secretary, report the death of one of the charter members of the Woodstock Fire Insurance Association. Frank Shultis was one of the twenty five citizens of the Town of Woodstock who agreed to organize the association, and for a number of years took an active part in its growth. He served as treasurer until 1939, when he retired and was elected honorary president for the rest of his life. The following resolution was passed: Resolved: that we express to all our sympathy in his passing, and that this be spread upon the minutes of this meeting.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Edward Curran, manager of the Underwriters Rating Board of Albany, Richard Clark of the Canton Cooperative Fire Insurance Association of Canton and Howard Pangburn, secretary and manager of the Olive Cooperative Fire Insurance Association of Kingston.

Highlighting his speech with special demonstrations Edward Curran cited certain fire hazards in the home and public buildings and methods for fire control. He also outlined a number of the problems which the insurance associations endeavor to solve.

Luncheon for those attending the meeting was served at the Methodist Church Hall.

Will Plant Trees At New School

Woodstock, Feb. 22—With the approach of spring, plans are underway to landscape the grounds of the new Woodstock school, and a suggestion has been made by a few individuals in the community that an avenue of trees be planted along the driveway in memory of some dear one. These trees will serve as a growing memorial and a message of inspiration to coming generations. It is hoped to have an official Arbor Day planting.

Anyone interested in this project is asked to communicate with Mrs. Katharine Boyd, telephone Woodstock 2851.

Business Credit Bureau Commended at Meeting

Woodstock, Feb. 22 — At a luncheon held for the members of the Woodstock Business Association, which had a large attendance, at the White Horse Inn, on Wednesday, reports were made concerning the activities of the association's credit bureau. After a lengthy discussion concerning matters that have arisen in the past few years, the members approved the actions of the credit bureau, which was commended on its results.

The map committee reported that the new map of Woodstock will be published in the near future.

Members of the association welcomed Woodstock's newest business, The Anderson Brothers Hardware Store, to the village.

Leon Carey, on behalf of the association, gave a message of welcome to William Hand, the new president.

Mrs. Bert Wangler attended the meeting as the representative of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, the newest member to join the association.

Snow, Cold Return To West and Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

Wintry weather, snow and cold, returned to western and midwest areas today, breaking a spell of mildness.

Colder Canadian air spread southward over Montana into the Dakotas and Wyoming, sending temperatures toward the zero mark in some regions. Some of the cold air and snow was forecast for parts of the north central region tonight.

It also was cooler over the South Atlantic states, the Ohio valley and Tennessee but in other areas temperatures generally were above normal. Light rain and some snow fell over parts of New York, Pennsylvania and the New England states.

Po'keepsie Honors Heroic Truckman

Charles F. Jacobs, 30, of 112 Academy street, Poughkeepsie, who stayed with the eight-ton truck which rolled brakeless down the Hasbrouck avenue hill and crashed into a Ferry street building Feb. 7 will receive an American Legion award Feb. 27.

The award to be presented by the Poughkeepsie Post, American Legion, will be for outstanding heroism in the saving of life. A similar award was given last year to a Poughkeepsie young man who saved a boy from drowning.

Meanwhile, Jacobs said yesterday, that he wanted through The Freeman "to express my thanks to the many kind people who sent cards and to an organization of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church which sent flowers."

The truck driver, who escaped the harrowing experience with four fractured ribs, indicated he was making satisfactory progress physically, but he added, "my nerves are upset." He was trying, he said, to make "compensation arrangements" to be sent away for a short rest before resuming his work.

The truck, owned by Dorn's Express, of Rensselaer, because Jacobs remained at the wheel during its runaway ride, missed hitting three city buses, pedestrians and other vehicles before it struck the gas station building of W. F. Carvell, Inc., 38 Ferry street. Two of the buses were loaded with school children.

The driver said a day after the mishap, that after he failed to "dump" the truck near the top of the hill because of a woman crossing the street, he was heading it for the Rondout creek when it crashed into the building.

William Mac Harg Dies in New Jersey

Alpine, N. J., Feb. 22 (AP)—William MacHarg, 78, creator of an "O'Malley the Cop' series of stories for the Saturday Evening Post and Collier's, died at his home here yesterday of a heart ailment.

A native of Dover Plains, N. Y., he began his career as a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. In 1899 he became the Tribune's Sunday editor.

Later, MacHarg came to New York and made friends with a number of policemen.

He drew on their experiences for his O'Malley stories.

He was author or co-author also of a number of books, the latest "The Affairs of O'Malley" in 1940.

One of the earliest balloon ascensions on record was made at the coronation of the Chinese emperor Fo-Kien in 1306.

Resolution Honors Late Frank Shultis

Woodstock, Feb. 22—The annual policy-holders meeting of the Woodstock Mutual Insurance Association was held on Tuesday, at the association's office on Tinker street.

During the meeting the following officers and directors were elected: Sherman L. Short, Woodstock, president; Leonard A. Ford, Shandaken, vice president; LaMonte V. Simpkins, Woodstock, secretary and manager; Alice M. Bailey, Wittenberg, assistant secretary; Edmund C. Burgher, Shokan, treasurer. The following directors were elected for a period of three years: LaMonte V. Simpkins; Oscar W. Mosher, Woodstock; Nelson H. Shultis, Bearsville; Virgil Van Wagenen.

It was with regret that the policy-holders heard LaMonte V. Simpkins, secretary, report the death of one of the charter members of the Woodstock Fire Insurance Association. Frank Shultis was one of the twenty five citizens of the Town of Woodstock who agreed to organize the association, and for a number of years took an active part in its growth. He served as treasurer until 1939, when he retired and was elected honorary president for the rest of his life. The following resolution was passed: Resolved: that we express to all our sympathy in his passing, and that this be spread upon the minutes of this meeting.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Edward Curran, manager of the Underwriters Rating Board of Albany, Richard Clark of the Canton Cooperative Fire Insurance Association of Canton and Howard Pangburn, secretary and manager of the Olive Cooperative Fire Insurance Association of Kingston.

Highlighting his speech with special demonstrations Edward Curran cited certain fire hazards in the home and public buildings and methods for fire control. He also outlined a number of the problems which the insurance associations endeavor to solve.

Luncheon for those attending the meeting was served at the Methodist Church Hall.

Will Plant Trees At New School

Woodstock, Feb. 22—With the approach of spring, plans are underway to landscape the grounds of the new Woodstock school, and a suggestion has been made by a few individuals in the community that an avenue of trees be planted along the driveway in memory of some dear one. These trees will serve as a growing memorial and a message of inspiration to coming generations. It is hoped to have an official Arbor Day planting.

Anyone interested in this project is asked to communicate with Mrs. Katharine Boyd, telephone Woodstock 2651.

Business Credit Bureau Commended at Meeting

Woodstock, Feb. 22 — At a luncheon held for the members of the Woodstock Business Association, which had a large attendance, at the White Horse Inn, on Wednesday, reports were made concerning the activities of the association's credit bureau. After a lengthy discussion concerning matters that have arisen in the past few years, the members approved the actions of the credit bureau, which was commended on its results.

The map committee reported that the new map of Woodstock will be published in the near future.

Members of the association welcomed Woodstock's newest business, The Anderson Brothers Hardware Store, to the village.

Leon Carey, on behalf of the association, gave a message of welcome to William Hand, the new president.

Mrs. Bert Wangler attended the meeting as the representative of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, the newest member to join the association.

Insurance Officers Elected

Snow, Cold Return To West and Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

Wintry weather, snow and cold, returned to western and midwest areas today, breaking a spell of mildness.

Colder Canadian air spread southward over Montana into the Dakotas and Wyoming, sending temperatures toward the zero mark in some regions. Some of the cold air and snow was forecast for parts of the north central region tonight.

It also was cooler over the South Atlantic states, the Ohio valley and Tennessee but in other areas temperatures generally were above normal. Light rain and some snow fell over parts of New York, Pennsylvania and the New England states.

Po'keepsie Honors Heroic Truckman

Charles F. Jacobs, 30, of 112 Academy street, Poughkeepsie, who stayed with the eight-ton truck which rolled brakeless down the Hasbrouck avenue hill and crashed into a Ferry street building Feb. 7 will receive an American Legion award Feb. 27.

The award to be presented by the Poughkeepsie Post, American Legion, will be for outstanding heroism in the saving of life. A similar award was given last year to a Poughkeepsie young man who saved a boy from drowning.

Meanwhile, Jacobs said yesterday, that he wanted through The Freeman "to express my thanks to the many kind people who sent cards and to an organization of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church which sent flowers."

The truck driver, who escaped the harrowing experience with four fractured ribs, indicated he was making satisfactory progress physically, but he added, "my nerves are upset." He was trying, he said, to make "compensation arrangements" to be sent away for a short rest before resuming his work.

The truck, owned by Dorn's Express, of Rensselaer, because Jacobs remained at the wheel during its runaway ride, missed hitting three city buses, pedestrians and other vehicles before it struck the gas station building of W. F. Carvell, Inc., 38 Ferry street. Two of the buses were loaded with school children.

The driver said a day after the mishap, that after he failed to "dump" the truck near the top of the hill because of a woman crossing the street, he was heading it for the Rondout creek when it crashed into the building.

He drew on their experiences for his O'Malley stories.

No One Knows, He Says

Chester, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP)—The Chinese Reds can push United Nations forces out of Korea "if they want to pay the high price," says Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staffs. Gen. Bradley made the statement last night at a news conference before receiving an honorary degree of doctor of international law from Pennsylvania Military College. In answer to a question whether "we are going up and down Korea for the next two or three years," the general replied: "No one knows."

there were indications the Reds had armor for the defense of Hoengsong.

He gave this graphic report of the advance:

"Slogging through ankle deep mud, long columns of grim-faced American soldiers moved forward for hours in a cold, driving rain.

"They swept the craggy ridge lines straddling the road as they moved along. Then, while harsh winds lashed a frigid rain against their wet clothing, the Americans gouged out foxholes from the muddy hilltops."

Flomes danced from huts here and there along the line of advance, but there was little left that would burn. Small villages, the Reds have tried to use for hiding troops and equipment, were patches of black ashes, ruins left by air and some artillery attacks.

One recommendation of the task force—elimination of work stoppages—already has been implemented. Hunt recently announced that a series of labor-management conferences had brought about a "no strike" pledge for the coming construction season.

Donald Dawson, a White House aide, or E. Merl Young, whose wife is a White House stenographer, can or do influence him.

Banking subcommittee, headed by Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.), said in a report to the Senate earlier this month that Willett and some other R.F.C. directors had been influenced by Dawson and Young. President Truman called the report asinine. The subcommittee then ordered the present hearings, frankly as a rebuttal to the President.

The senators put in the witness chair yesterday a Texas lawyer, Ross Bohannon, who said Merl Young once asked him for an $85,000 fee to "be influential" with the R.F.C.

Next they called Young who denied there was any truth in Bohannon's story and swore he had never received a commission or fee in connection with any R.F.C. loan.

The senators said somebody was lying. They talked of possible prosecution for perjury.

Acheson Points

could be made workable with modifications.

The fourth House change would require the President to end all tariff concessions to Communist countries. Trade agreements were negotiated in former years with Russia, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Acheson said that this would not increase American security and would give "good ammunition to Soviet propagandists." If the Senate wants to continue the amendment at all, he said, it should be limited to cases in which security might be involved in some particular item of trade "if such cases should exist."

12 Persons Sought

Guam, Feb. 22 (AP)—Rescue planes and ships hunted today for 12 persons believed adrift in a lifeboat from the Norwegian freighter Florentine which sank in a storm 150 miles off Iwo Jima. At least 20 of those aboard the freighter were reported picked up by the British steamer Silvermaple.

Duchin Estate

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—The will of Eddie Duchin, pianist and orchestra leader, filed yesterday, left his estate of "more than $500,000" to his widow and his son, Peter Olerichs Duchin.

Allies Press Forward in Korea

Arrows locate points where United Nations forces thrust forward Feb. 21, all along the Korean battle front in the wake of retreating Reds. Naval vessels (ship symbols) bombarded Tanchon and Wonsan areas on east coast and Inchon on west coast. Okinawa-based bombers blasted Hamhung (blast symbol).

Yanks Sweep . . .

there were indications the Reds had armor for the defense of Hoengsong.

He gave this graphic report of the advance:

"Slogging through ankle deep mud, long columns of grim-faced American soldiers moved forward for hours in a cold, driving rain.

"They swept the craggy ridge lines straddling the road as they moved along. Then, while harsh winds lashed a frigid rain against their wet clothing, the Americans gouged out foxholes from the muddy hilltops."

Flomes danced from huts here and there along the line of advance, but there was little left that would burn. Small villages, the Reds have tried to use for hiding troops and equipment, were patches of black ashes, ruins left by air and some artillery attacks.

the territory; improvement of the Juneau airport for commercial use "in accordance with plans approved by the military"; federal encouragement of territorial industry development; indefinite continuation of air navigational aids throughout the Aleutian chain; development by the Coast Guard of regulations to permit handling of explosives in ports so as not to interfere with the construction program; and government pursuance of a program to encourage and develop commercial aviation within the territory.

One recommendation of the task force—elimination of work stoppages—already has been implemented. Hunt recently announced that a series of labor-management conferences had brought about a "no strike" pledge for the coming construction season.

RFC Director . . .

Donald Dawson, a White House aide, or E. Merl Young, whose wife is a White House stenographer, can or do influence him.

Banking subcommittee, headed by Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.), said in a report to the Senate earlier this month that Willett and some other R.F.C. directors had been influenced by Dawson and Young. President Truman called the report asinine. The subcommittee then ordered the present hearings, frankly as a rebuttal to the President.

The senators put in the witness chair yesterday a Texas lawyer, Ross Bohannon, who said Merl Young once asked him for an $85,000 fee to "be influential" with the R.F.C.

Next they called Young who denied there was any truth in Bohannon's story and swore he had never received a commission or fee in connection with any R.F.C. loan.

The senators said somebody was lying. They talked of possible prosecution for perjury.

Acheson Points

could be made workable with modifications.

The fourth House change would require the President to end all tariff concessions to Communist countries. Trade agreements were negotiated in former years with Russia, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Acheson said that this would not increase American security and would give "good ammunition to Soviet propagandists." If the Senate wants to continue the amendment at all, he said, it should be limited to cases in which security might be involved in some particular item of trade "if such cases should exist."

12 Persons Sought

Guam, Feb. 22 (AP)—Rescue planes and ships hunted today for 12 persons believed adrift in a lifeboat from the Norwegian freighter Florentine which sank in a storm 150 miles off Iwo Jima. At least 20 of those aboard the freighter were reported picked up by the British steamer Silvermaple.

On Registration

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Passage of New York state legislation providing for permanent, personal registration of voters was urged last night by the New York Young Republican Club and the New York Young Democratic Club.

Indecent Books

London (AP)—Home Secretary Chuter Ede has ordered a country-wide drive against indecent publications. They are said to be mostly of American origin. They are reprinted by small-town printers in this country, and are believed to be circulated through a lending library which spreads indecent literature throughout Britain. Some of the books are typewritten and leave little for the imagination. Traffic in indecent literature and pictures is said to have had a startling increase in the past two years.

Retail Food Prices Are Mixed; Eggs Up, Vegetables Less

(By the Associated Press)

Retail food prices presented a mixed picture this week: most meats were unchanged and at price-ceiling levels in the majority of stores, eggs were up two to four cents a dozen and several fresh vegetables were lower as supplies increased.

Meat trade sources reported that consumer resistance to high prices had slowed demand for the better cuts of meat. Retailers were clamoring for lower prices from their wholesalers, and holding their purchases to a minimum.

As a consequence, said an agriculture department marketing specialist in New York, wholesale prices for several cuts, particularly beef, veal and lamb hindquarters, eased somewhat below wholesale ceilings early this week.

One Holiday—Boost

He said this would give some retailers a chance to trim prices on a few meat cuts this week-end and probably would show up in advertised "specials." The wholesale reductions are unlikely to start a trend, however, because reduced meat shipments caused by the holiday today may send prices back up again as retailers bid for the shorter supplies.

Higher egg prices were attributed again to good demand as housewives turned away from costly meat.

Some authorities say the supply situation points to even higher prices for eggs in coming weeks. Cold storage holdings in the nation are sharply smaller than they were at this time last year—76,000 cases at latest count, compared with 380,000 a year ago.

Best Buys, Vegetables

For the budget-minded shopper, the best food news this week was the abundance of fresh vegetables. Lettuce was selling at the lowest price in months in most places as supplies poured in from California and Arizona. This salad staple was headlined this week on the agriculture department's list of plentiful foods for thrifty buying, along with apples.

Also abundant and lower: Carrots, snap beans, cabbage, escarole, eastern onions, peppers, squash and tomatoes—the latter mostly from Florida, Mexico, Cuba and the Bahamas.

Florida was sending larger-than-usual shipments of green corn northward and honeydew mellons were reaching distant markets from Chile and Cuba. The only major vegetables in somewhat short supply, and hence higher this week, were bunch beets, cucumbers and eggplant.

Milk Price Climb

Other food notes:

The Agriculture Department reported retail prices of fluid milk in 24 major cities have climbed to a record high—averaging 21.7 cents a quart for standard home-delivered milk. A year ago the average was 20 cents, and the previous record was 21.6 cents in the fall of 1948.

Agriculture Secretary Brannan told the National Retail-owned Grocers, Inc., at Chicago this week that retail food prices probably would climb higher this year. But he suggested the grocers point out to complaining customers that while many items were at new highs in mid-January, farm commodities were still selling for two per cent less than they did two years ago. In the last half of 1950, he said, food went up only 5.3 per cent, compared with 6.2 per cent for clothing and 10.6 per cent for home furnishings.

Delegates to the National Canners Association convention in Chicago predicted higher prices for canned fruit and vegetables. They said grocers already are announcing they will demand more for their products, and that cans, cases and labor are costing around 12 per cent more than a year ago.

The National Peach Council estimated at its convention in St. Louis that the 1951 peach crop would total around 57,315,000 bushels — larger than last year but 11,000,000 bushels below the five-year production average. They blamed the hard winter weather.

There are 7,500,000,000 acres of productive forest land in the world, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

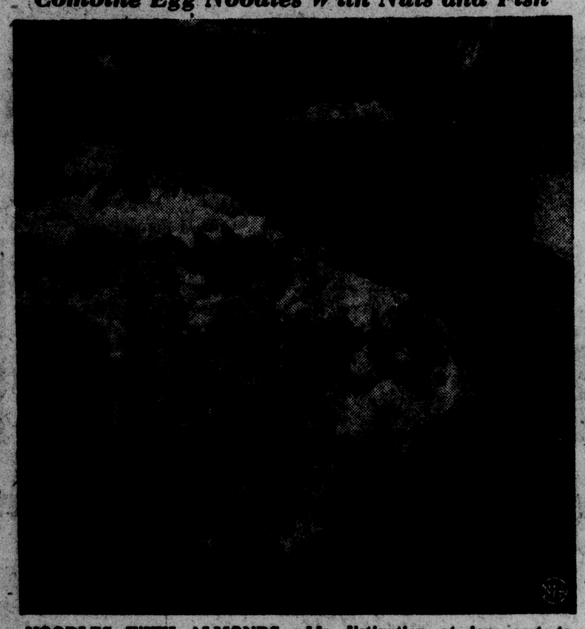
EAT WELL for Less

Combine Egg Noodles With Nuts and Fish



NOODLES WITH ALMONDS adds distinction at low cost to meatless meals. It requires little cooking skill.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

To eat well for less on days without meat, try these two combinations of egg noodles with nuts and canned fish.

Noodles Amandine
(Makes 4-6 servings)

One tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces egg noodles, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, ¾ cup blanched almonds, slivered, ¼ cup butter or fortified margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, white pepper, freshly ground, ⅛ cup grated American cheese.

Add salt to rapily boiling water. Gradualy add egg noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. While noodles are cooking, melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a small pan over low heat. Add slivered almonds and saute until, golden brown.

In a saucepan, melt ¼ cup butter or margarine over low heat. Add flour, blending well; simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in cream or evaporated milk and plain milk slowly; add seasonings; simmer until sauce is thickened.

Combine sauce with cooked noodles and half of the almonds, mixing thoroughly but gently. Mix together remaining slivered almonds and grated cheese; sprinkle across top of casserole in diagonal lines. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes.

Tuna Noodle Custard
(Makes 4 to 6 Servings)

Truckmen Gather Forces for Battle Against New Tax

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—Truck operators girded today for a last-ditch fight against a proposed weight-distance tax on big trucks and increases in other highway fees, designed to bring the state $24,000,000 a year.

A bill to impose the weight-distance tax was introduced in the Republican-controlled Legislature today. It was sponsored by the joint legislative commitee on highway and canal revenue.

Governor Dewey has indicated he favors a weight-distance tax. However, the committee chairman, Senator George T. Manning, Rochester Republican, said Dewey had not seen the bill.

Truckers were ready for a bitter but apparently futile behind-the-scenes battle to kill the weight-distance tax, which would become effective July 1.

They contended at a public hearing last month that such a levy would drive some small operators out of business.

Proponents of the tax claim it would impose a fair levy on those who use and damage the highways most.

In addition to the weight-distance tax, Manning said his committee also had sponsored bills to:

1. Boost truck registration fees next January 1, by changing the method of computing license costs, to add $5,500,000 revenue a year.

2. Increase the tax on diesel fuel for highway use from four to six cents a gallon, to produce $500,000 more a year.

3. Eliminate the one per cent commission paid to gasoline companies for collecting state gasoline taxes to save the state $1,000,000 a year.

Manning estimated the weight-distance tax would net the state $17,000,000 a year. He figured $10,000,000 would come from New York state truckers, and the remainder from out-of-state carriers.

Retail Food Prices Are Mixed; Eggs Up, Vegetables Less

(By the Associated Press)

Retail food prices presented a mixed picture this week: most meats were unchanged and at price-ceiling levels in the majority of stores, eggs were up two to four cents a dozen and several fresh vegetables were lower as supplies increased.

Meat trade sources reported that consumer resistance to high prices had slowed demand for the better cuts of meat. Retailers were clamoring for lower prices from their wholesalers, and holding their purchases to a minimum.

As a consequence, said an agriculture department marketing specialist in New York, wholesale prices for several cuts, particularly beef, veal and lamb hindquarters, eased somewhat below wholesale ceilings early this week.

One Holiday—Boost

He said this would give some retailers a chance to trim prices on a few meat cuts this weekend and probably would show up in advertised "specials." The wholesale reductions are unlikely to start a trend, however, because reduced meat shipments caused by the holiday today may send prices back up again as retailers bid for the shorter supplies.

Higher egg prices were attributed again to good demand as housewives turned away from costly meat.

Some authorities say the supply situation points to even higher prices for eggs in coming weeks. Cold storage holdings in the nation are sharply smaller than they were at this time last year—76,000 cases at latest count, compared with 380,000 a year ago.

Best Buys, Vegetables

For the budget-minded shopper, the best food news this week was the abundance of fresh vegetables. Lettuce was selling at the lowest price in months in most places as supplies poured in from California and Arizona. This salad staple was headlined this week on the agriculture department's list of plentiful foods for thrifty buying, along with apples.

Also abundant and lower: Carrots, snap beans, cabbage, escarole, eastern onions, peppers, squash and tomatoes—the latter mostly from Florida, Mexico, Cuba and the Bahamas.

Florida was sending larger-than-usual shipments of green corn northward and honeydew mellons were reaching distant markets from Chile and Cuba. The only major vegetables in somewhat short supply, and hence higher this week, were bunch beets, cucumbers and eggplant.

Milk Price Climb

Other food notes:

The Agriculture Department reported retail prices of fluid milk in 24 major cities have climbed to a record high—averaging 21.7 cents a quart for standard home-delivered milk. A year ago the average was 20 cents, and the previous record was 21.6 cents in the fall of 1948.

Agriculture Secretary Brannan told the National Retail-owned Grocers, Inc., at Chicago this week that retail food prices probably would climb higher this year. But he suggested the grocers point out to complaining customers that while many items were at new highs in mid-January, farm commodities were still selling for two per cent less than they did two years ago. In the last half of 1950, he said, food went up only 5.3 per cent, compared with 6.2 per cent for clothing and 10.6 per cent for home furnishings.

Delegates to the National Canners Association convention in Chicago predicted higher prices for canned fruit and vegetables. They said grocers already are announcing they will demand more for their products, and that cans, cases and labor are costing around 12 per cent more than a year ago.

The National Peach Council estimated at its convention in St. Louis that the 1951 peach crop would total around 57,315,000 bushels — larger than last year but 11,000,000 bushels below the five-year production average. They blamed the hard winter weather.

There are 7,500,000,000 acres of productive forest land in the world, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

To eat well for less on days without meat, try these two combinations of egg noodles with nuts and canned fish.

Noodles Amandine
(Makes 4-6 servings)

One tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces egg noodles, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, ¾ cup blanched almonds, slivered, ¼ cup butter or fortified margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, white pepper, freshly ground, ⅓ cup grated American cheese.

Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradualy add egg noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Johns Hopkins U. Ends Orthodoxy of Four-Year Study

Baltimore, Feb. 22 (AP)—Johns Hopkins University announced today it is doing away with the orthodox four-year program for its undergraduates. In its place will be a liberal, go-as-you-learn plan with no restrictions on time, scope or specific study.

"We propose to make this a university in which the sharp distinctions between undergraduates and graduates will be eliminated," said Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, Hopkins president.

Dr. Bronk's disclosure came in a statement prepared for delivery at ceremonies observing the 75th anniversary of the university's founding.

He set the transition period at from five to six years.

The president also reported the start of a drive for $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 to finance the changeover, add new facilities and increase the endowment.

He estimated the immediate transition period would cost approximately $6,000,000.

Would Confer

Under the new plan, a beginning student would confer with university officials concerning the direction his interests lie, and a program of work would be decided upon.

There will be no fixed pattern of required courses for new students when they enter from high school. Faculty advisors will devise a set of requirements for each student, tuned to his abilities and interests.

Although there would be no pressure exerted whatsoever to speed a student along, one university official explained, there would be an opportunity for those desiring to go as fast as they wished.

The "smart ones," he estimated, could finish work for a master's degree in about four years, presently the normal time for earning a bachelor's degree.

The enrollment currently is about 1,800 in both the graduate and undergraduate colleges. The university has been trying to curtail gradually the number of students and expects to continue this practice under the new system.

George Washington was the only President of the United States who never lived in the 19th century.

Some Answers Given in Poll Conducted by Local Hospital

Kingston Hospital, with the American Hospital Association, is conducting a patients' opinion poll on care given to patients, it was announced today.

A circular by the A.H.A., asks for an "X-ray" of opinion on "your experience in the Kingston Hospital." It is being sent to every third patient discharged from the hospital.

More than 20 questions pretain to services that did or did not satisfy, and there is room for comment, suggestions, or criticisms.

Reports on the first 90 replies show food of paramount interest. On coffee, the hospital said, some said, "too weak," others "too strong," some said, "not enough" and one said "too hot."

All agreed, the hospital report said, that "the food is of excellent quality, but naturally it does not have the same sauces and seasoning found in home cooking. Diets have to be considered in hospital cooking."

To the question "Do you feel that you have had good hospital care?" the report said, 85 out of 86 replied favorably.

With the heavy load of patients to be cared for in the morning, with breakfast to be served and patients to be prepared for doctors, the day cannot get under way at a later hour."

"In spite of the congested conditions at the hospital and the nurse shortage, we were gratified to find that 78 out of 82 agreed that they had had as much nursing care as they needed.

"Many favorable comments were received on the attractive conditions of the rooms and furnishings on the second floor. The work was completed and financed under the direction of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary.

"At present the first floor is being renovated. It has been difficult, particularly in the cleaning and painting of the wards and porches, but our patients have been good natured and understanding. Everyone knows the joys of housekeeping at home and it is bound to be a difficult procedure in a hospital.

4. "The change in the physical aspect of the hospital is excellent, particularly the bed tables help a patient's morale considerably."

Johns Hopkins U. Ends Orthodoxy of Four-Year Study

Baltimore, Feb. 22 (AP)—Johns Hopkins University announced today it is doing away with the orthodox four-year program for its undergraduates. In its place will be a liberal, go-as-you-learn plan with no restrictions on time, scope or specific study.

"We propose to make this a university in which the sharp distinctions between undergraduates and graduates will be eliminated," said Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, Hopkins president.

Dr. Bronk's disclosure came in a statement prepared for delivery at ceremonies observing the 75th anniversary of the university's founding.

He set the transition period at from five to six years.

The president also reported the start of a drive for $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 to finance the changeover, add new facilities and increase the endowment.

He estimated the immediate transition period would cost approximately $6,000,000.

Would Confer

Under the new plan, a beginning student would confer with University officials concerning the direction his interests lie, and a program of work would be decided upon.

There will be no fixed pattern of required courses for new students when they enter from high school. Faculty advisors will devise a set of requirements for each student, tuned to his abilities and interests.

Although there would be no pressure exerted whatsoever to speed a student along, one university official explained, there would be an opportunity for those desiring to go as fast as they wished.

The "smart ones," he estimated, could finish work for a master's degree in about four years, presently the normal time for earning a bachelor's degree.

The enrollment currently is about 1,800 in both the graduate and undergraduate colleges. The university has been trying to curtail gradually the number of students and expects to continue this practice under the new system.

George Washington was the only President of the United States who never lived in the 19th century.

Some Answers Given in Poll Conducted by Local Hospital

Kingston Hospital, with the American Hospital Association, is conducting a patients' opinion poll on care given to patients, it was announced today.

A circular by the A.H.A., asks for an "X-ray" of opinion on "your experience in the Kingston Hospital." It is being sent to every third patient discharged from the hospital.

More than 20 questions pretain to services that did or did not satisfy, and there is room for comment, suggestions, or criticisms.

Reports on the first 90 replies show food of paramount interest. On coffee, the hospital said, some said, "too weak," others "too strong," some said, "not enough" and one said "too hot."

All agreed, the hospital report said, that "the food is of excellent quality, but naturally it does not have the same sauces and seasoning found in home cooking. Diets have to be considered in hospital cooking."

Good Care

To the question "Do you feel that you have had good hospital care?" the report said, 85 out of 86 replied favorably.

On sleep, 29 out of 85 said they were wakened too early. That, said the hospital, "called for investigation and we found an age-old hospital problem. With the heavy load of patients to be cared for in the morning, with breakfast to be served and patients to be prepared for doctors, the day cannot get under way at a later hour."

"In spite of the congested conditions at the hospital and the nurse shortage, we were gratified to find that 78 out of 82 agreed that they had had as much nursing care as they needed.

"Many favorable comments were received on the attractive conditions of the rooms and furnishings on the second floor. The work was completed and financed under the direction of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary.

"At present the first floor is being renovated. It has been difficult, particularly in the cleaning and painting of the wards and porches, but our patients have been good natured and understanding. Everyone knows the joys of housekeeping at home and it is bound to be a difficult procedure in a hospital.

Favorable Comments

"We want you to share some of our favorable comments with you—

1. "I was so well pleased with my stay that I plan to add to my subscription to the building fund."
2. "I will assure you that your hospital is 'tops' for me and a lot of my friends."
3. "So much has been done to improve it in the last year."
4. "The change in the physical aspect of the hospital is excellent, particularly the bed tables help a patient's morale considerably."

"There is too much 'noise' in the hospital . . . we are working on that and the visitor's problem is a serious one. Four of five visitors for patients in the wards and in semi-private rooms are too many. We know that is true and so do you. Keep this in mind when you come in to see your friends or family. No more than two at one time."

Good Taste Today

MODERN VISITING

The visit of yesterday was part of an afternoon routine and amounted to no more than leaving your visiting a card first at this house and then at that one and only rarely finding anyone at home. Today we are very busy and paying these really empty visits are felt by most of us to be a waste of time. Therefore, we of today telephone and ask this or that friend if she will be at home that afternoon, and go to see her, or make a date for another day. Certainly this is a sensible custom.

Pictures by the Dozen

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it taking too much for granted to assume that friends and relatives would like to have a family photograph? Should these be given only to members of one's own family?

Answer: One reason why they are given to so few people is that the expense is for most of us, prohibitive. Another is the fear that those who receive them may not too joyfully accept the obligation of having them framed and finding room for them.

Engagement Cake

Dear Mrs. Post: I'd like to have a special cake decorated for my engagement party. Is there any marking customary for such a cake and if not, will you suggest one?

Answer: Although there is no prescribed marking, the long favorite one is their two first names enclosed in a heart.

An afternoon tea is the most popular as well as the simplest expression of hospitality that exists. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, details for an afternoon tea are included in her leaflet E-27. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Community Concert Group Discusses 1951-52 Program

FABIEN SEVITZKY

Fabien Sevitzky, conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra will play a return engagement here in January, 1952, the board of directors of the Kingston Community Concert Association announced today. The group met last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel with Lawrence J. Bernhardt, New York representative, and eastern manager of the Community Concert Service, to choose artists for the coming '51-'52 season. Several other artists were also discussed, and will be announced.

Mr. Sevitzky and the Indianapolis Symphony, which appeared in Kingston in the spring of '49, were hailed in a recent issue of "Holiday" magazine as one of the 10 best symphony orchestras in the country.

The following members attended last night's board meeting, held preparatory to the group's annual campaign which will open May 6: N. LeVan Haver, president; Lloyd LeFever, first vice president; Dr. Frederick Holcomb, Sr., second vice-president; Joseph Craig, treasurer; Mrs. Benjamin W. Johnston, campaign chairman; and Mrs. Arthur H. Wicks, Mrs. Bernard Forst, Miss Florence Cordts, Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, and Mrs. Harry C. Seitz, members of the board.

Artists at this season's final concert will be Miss Nan Merriman, mezzo-soprano. The concert date has been changed from Tuesday, March 27, to Monday, March 19.

Wild horses and burros still roam unrestricted in some remote southwestern sections of the United States.

Book Club Studies Dr. Sachar's Work

Highlighting the Tuesday meeting of the Kingston Book Club was the first half of a comprehensive review of Dr. Abram Leon Sachar's "History of the Jews," given by Mrs. Alex Parnett.

During the meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Julius Sippen, 33 Lucas avenue, Mrs. Parnett described Dr. Sachar's penetrating study. The study deals with the chief movements and events in Jewish history from Old Testament days to the 18th century. Equal emphasis is given to both the economic and environmental factors involved, and to the purely religious and philosophical development.

The final portion of Dr. Sachar's historical record of events, stretching from the 18th century to 1948, will be given by Mrs. Harry Streifer at a special meeting to be held February 27 at the home of Mrs. Leon Greenberg, 387 Albany avenue.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

MODERN VISITING

The visit of yesterday was part of an afternoon routine and amounted to no more than leaving your visiting a card first at this house and then at that one and only rarely finding anyone at home. Today we are very busy and paying these really empty visits are felt by most of us to be a waste of time. Therefore, we of today telephone and ask this or that friend if she will be at home that afternoon, and go to see her, or make a date for another day. Certainly this is a sensible custom.

Pictures by the Dozen

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it taking too much for granted to assume that friends and relatives would like to have a family photograph? Should these be given only to members of one's own family?

Answer: One reason why they are given to so few people is that the expense is for most of us, prohibitive. Another is the fear that those who receive them may not too joyfully accept the obligation of having them framed and finding room for them.

Engagement Cake

Dear Mrs. Post: I'd like to have a special cake decorated for my engagement party. Is there any marking customary for such a cake and if not, will you suggest one?

Answer: Although there is no prescribed marking, the long favorite one is their two first names enclosed in a heart.

An afternoon tea is the most popular as well as the simplest expression of hospitality that exists. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Book Club Studies Dr. Sachar's Work

Highlighting the Tuesday meeting of the Kingston Book Club was the first half of a comprehensive review of Dr. Abram Leon Sachar's "History of the Jews," given by Mrs. Alex Parnett.

During the meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Julius Sippen, 33 Lucas avenue, Mrs. Parnett described Dr. Sachar's penetrating study. The study deals with the chief movements and events in Jewish history from Old Testament days to the 18th century. Equal emphasis is given to both the economic and environmental factors involved, and to the purely religious and philosophical development.

The final portion of Dr. Sachar's historical record of events, stretching from the 18th century to 1948, will be given by Mrs. Harry Streifer at a special meeting to be held February 27 at the home of Mrs. Leon Greenberg, 387 Albany avenue.

Chapman Says He Is Sure Canada Is To Build Seaway

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman said today he is convinced Canada "is going to build the St. Lawrence seaway on her side—even if we don't."

"Canada is making plans today to build the seaway," Chapman told the House Public Works Committee. "I want to be in on it too."

He made this statement after Rep. McGregor (R.-Ohio) asked if it is possible for Canada to build it alone. The committee is considering a bill to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway-power project as a joint undertaking by the United States and Canada.

Chapman said if Canada goes ahead on its own, "American shipping would then have to pay tribute" for use of the deep channel.

Unless the seaway is built "I do not see how we will be abe to meet our national iron ore requirements five years from now," he told the committee.

'Highest Priority'

The secretary said the dual-purpose seaway and power project "should receive the highest priority" and its construction should be started immediately.

His testimony is part of the administration drive to unblock the long sought after waterway that would permit ocean-going ships to sail clear up to Duluth, Minn. It is estimated the power feature would develop 13,200,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually.

Already in the record, in addition to Chapman's, is testimony from Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, and Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

Crux of the argument of each has been the need of a deep water route to bring in iron ore from the Labrador-Quebec area to supplement diminishing reserves of the Minnesota Besabi range.

British Jet Flight Is Postponed Until Friday

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP) — An air force spokesman said today the flight of a British jet bomber from Gander, N. F., to Andrews airbase near here has been postponed until tomorrow.

The two-engine Canberra, which made the fastest crossing of the North Atlantic ever recorded yesterday, was to have flown to Andrews today for an inspection by Washington officials before continuing to Wright-Patterson airbase, Dayton, Ohio, for the start of technical evaluation.

The air force is considering having the Canberra, an English electric company design, built in the United Sates for use as a night intruder plane.

An air force spokesman said the delay in the Canberra flight was to permit an inspection of the engines. The plane flew from near Belfast, northern Ireland, to Gander yesterday in 4 hours 40 minutes, an average speed of about 445 miles an hour.

Churchill Against U.S. Admiral to Get Atlantic Naval Post

London, Feb 22 (AP)—Winston Churchill kicked up a row in the House of Commons today over the nomination of an American admiral to command the naval forces of the North Atlantic treaty nations.

Seizing an opportunity to harass Prime Minister Attlee, the Tory leader asked, amid cheers, "was there not a British admiral capable of discharging these functions?"

The uproar, in the course of which labor members shot unfriendly questions at the prime minister, came as Attlee announced the Atlantic pact defense committee had nominated Rear Adm. William N. Fechteler to be supreme allied commander at sea. Fechteler, 54, now is commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

Churchill, fiercely proud of British sea power, even questioned the American navy's record against German submarines.

"It is not possible for one country to insist on its right to some particular command," Attlee declared.

The wartime prime minister retorted:

"It was possible not very long ago for one country to sink 525 German U-boats compared to 174 by the United States.

"No one is going to argue that I am hostile to the United States but I do not think our country ought to have fallen so far into the walks of humility."

The opposition continued to heckle Attlee loudly even after he promised that he would reconsider Britain's position on the nomination.

They Save $200 So He Can Be at Party

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, who told in Korea yesterday of being set afire by Chinese Communist soldiers, last month sent money and the following letter to his kid brother:

"I am enclosing $200, and it is for a definite purpose. I can't spend it over here, and I'm tired of carrying it around. So here's what I want you to do:

"Get hold of Len (another brother) and my old buddy Charley Anderson and take them out on a party. A real party, Johnny (who is 15)—one like I'd throw if I were along, understand?

"And there's only one string attached to this dough—you guys got to spend every dime of it in one night. Now carry on, I'll be with you in spirit."

During later fighting in Korea, Robert was ambushed aboard his jeep, sprayed with gasoline and set afire by Chinese. They jeered when he pleaded with them to shoot him and end his misery.

Robert told his story after being rescued by American and French troops. He then was flown to a hospital in Japan.

The party?

The youths had it in their home town of Atlantic Beach.

The $200?

"We put it in the bank in Bob's name," said Johnny. "We wrote him a letter telling him the big blowout could wait until he could be with us—in more than spirit."

An additional $2,000,000 is expected to be required to modernize the field for jet operations.

Four Teen-Agers Are Held for Police Thefts

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Four teen-agers, two of them sons of a policeman, were accused today in the theft of guns and ammunition from a Staten Island police barracks.

Their arrest followed an 11-day investigation.

William Brunn, 19, his brother, John, 18, and Charles Parisi, 17, were booked on burglary charges, and Peter Dianto, 17, was charged with receiving stolen property, and illegal possession of a revolver.

All live on Staten Island. The Brunn youths are the sons of Police Patrolman Robert J. Brunn.

Police said the trio, accused of burglary, raided a barracks of a mounted police troops and stole four revolvers and more than 400 rounds of ammunition. The loot was recovered from various hiding places, one of the revolvers being in Dianto's possession, police said.

New Pumps Are Trim and Ladylike

Ladylike, pretty pumps are right with 1951 spring fashions. The flat beige linen pump (upper left) has black patent heel and binding. A purple calf pump (lower left) has narrow self strips across a V throat. The strips terminate in small, round jet buttons. A gray patent pump (center) with pointed toe and squared-off heel is worn with Anne Fogarty's gray flannel sheath and matching coat, Sally Victor's straw bonnet with velvet ribbons. Dressy pump (upper right) is beige silk shantung with white embroidery. Suit pump (lower right) is navy blue calf with medium heel and perforated vamp.

National Shoe Institute

By GAILE DUGAS

NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—Light and ladylike shoes with a trimmed-down, slim look are the ideal companions for spring fashions. The sheath, for example, looks best with Paris-inspired pumps, those with pointed toes and thin, high heels. And certainly, the pump in its many variations is the most universally flattering shoe.

The woman who finds the pump her pet shoe may, without difficulty, assemble an entire wardrobe of pumps this spring. She might start with a beige linen flat with a shallow black patent leather heel and black patent top binding. This shoe could easily take her neatly and comfortably on shopping tours, out walking, see her to spectator sports.

Her next choice might be a navy calf suit pump with medium heel and slim lines, its vamp perforated for prettiness. A closed shoe, it will look right with suits and with tailored dresses, too.

She can get a flattering high heel into her wardrobe and, at the same time, introduce a flash of color via a purple calf pump with narrow self strips across a V throat. These strips terminate in the shoe's only trim, small shiny jet buttons. This is a shoe for suits and for afternoon dresses.

For very high style, for grace with gray in any form, and for fun, she might then add a simple but sophisticated gray patent pump with a pointed toe, squared heel, slim lines.

The final touch could come in very dressy pumps in beige silk shantung embroidered in white. Lovely in its pale, subtle colors, this shoe is right with understated clothes for after five.

British Jet Flight Is Postponed Until Friday

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP) — An air force spokesman said today the flight of a British jet bomber from Gander, N. F., to Andrews airbase near here has been postponed until tomorrow.

The two-engine Canberra, which made the fastest crossing of the North Atlantic ever recorded yesterday, was to have flown to Andrews today for an inspection by Washington officials before continuing to Wright-Patterson airbase, Dayton, Ohio, for the start of technical evaluation.

The air force is considering having the Canberra, an English electric company design, built in the United Sates for use as a night intruder plane.

An air force spokesman said the delay in the Canberra flight was to permit an inspection of the engines. The plane flew from near Belfast, northern Ireland, to Gander yesterday in 4 hours 40 minutes, an average speed of about 445 miles an hour.

Churchill Against U.S. Admiral to Get Atlantic Naval Post

London, Feb 22 (AP)—Winston Churchill kicked up a row in the House of Commons today over the nomination of an American admiral to command the naval forces of the North Atlantic treaty nations.

Seizing an opportunity to harass Prime Minister Attlee, the Tory leader asked, amid cheers, "was there not a British admiral capable of discharging these functions?"

The uproar, in the course of which labor members shot unfriendly questions at the prime minister, came as Attlee announced the Atlantic pact defense committee had nominated Rear Adm. William N. Fechteler to be supreme allied commander at sea. Fechteler, 54, now is commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

Churchill, fiercely proud of British sea power, even questioned the American navy's record against German submarines.

"It is not possible for one country to insist on its right to some particular command," Attlee declared.

The wartime prime minister retorted:

"It was possible not very long ago for one country to sink 525 German U-boats compared to 174 by the United States.

"No one is going to argue that I am hostile to the United States but I do not think our country ought to have fallen so far into the walks of humility."

The opposition continued to heckle Attlee loudly even after he promised that he would reconsider Britain's position on the nomination.

They Save $200 So He Can Be at Party

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, who told in Korea yesterday of being set afire by Chinese Communist soldiers, last month sent money and the following letter to his kid brother:

"I am enclosing $200, and it is for a definite purpose. I can't spend it over here, and I'm tired of carrying it around. So here's what I want you to do:

"Get hold of Len (another brother) and my old buddy Charley Anderson and take them out on a party. A real party, Johnny (who is 15)—one like I'd throw if I were along, understand?

"And there's only one string attached to this dough—you guys got to spend every dime of it in one night. Now carry on, I'll be with you in spirit."

During later fighting in Korea, Robert was ambushed aboard his jeep, sprayed with gasoline and set afire by Chinese. They jeered when he pleaded with them to shoot him and end his misery.

Robert told his story after being rescued by American and French troops. He then was flown to a hospital in Japan.

The party?

The youths had it in their home town of Atlantic Beach.

The $200?

"We put it in the bank in Bob's name," said Johnny. "We wrote him a letter telling him the big blowout could wait until he could be with us—in more than spirit."

Four Teen-Agers Are Held for Police Thefts

New York—(NEA)—Light and ladylike shoes with a trimmed-down, slim look are the ideal companions for spring fashions. The sheath, for example, looks best with Paris-inspired pumps, those with pointed toes and thin, high heels. And certainly, the pump in its many variations is the most universally flattering shoe.

The woman who finds the pump her pet shoe may, without difficulty, assemble an entire wardrobe of pumps this spring. She might start with a beige linen flat with a shallow black patent leather heel and black patent top binding. This shoe could easily take her neatly and comfortably on shopping tours, out walking, see her to spectator sports.

Her next-choice might be a navy calf suit pump with medium heel and slim lines, its vamp perforated for prettiness. A closed shoe, it will look right with suits and with tailored dresses, too.

She can get a flattering high heel into her wardrobe and, at the same time, introduce a flash of color via a purple calf pump with narrow self strips across a V throat. These strips terminate in the shoe's only trim, small shiny jet buttons. This is a shoe for suits and for afternoon dresses.

For very high style, for grace with gray in any form, and for fun, she might then add a simple but sophisticated gray patent pump with a pointed toe, squared heel, slim lines.

The final touch could come in very dressy pumps in beige silk shantung embroidered in white. Lovely in its pale, subtle colors, this shoe is right with understated clothes for after five.

Chapman Says He Is Sure Canada Is To Build Seaway

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman said today he is convinced Canada "is going to build the St. Lawrence seaway on her side—even if we don't."

"Canada is making plans today to build the seaway," Chapman told the House Public Works Committee. "I want to be in on it too."

He made this statement after Rep. McGregor (R.-Ohio) asked if it is possible for Canada to build it alone. The committee is considering a bill to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway-power project as a joint undertaking by the United States and Canada.

Chapman said if Canada goes ahead on its own, "American shipping would then have to pay tribute" for use of the deep channel.

Unless the seaway is built "I do not see how we will be abe to meet our national iron ore requirements five years from now," he told the committee.

'Highest Priority'

The secretary said the dual-purpose seaway and power project "should receive the highest priority" and its construction should be started immediately.

His testimony is part of the administration drive to unblock the long sought after waterway that would permit ocean-going ships to sail clear up to Duluth, Minn. It is estimated the power feature would develop 13,200,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually.

Already in the record, in addition to Chapman's, is testimony from Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, and Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

Crux of the argument of each has been the need of a deep water route to bring in iron ore from the Labrador-Quebec area to supplement diminishing reserves of the Minnesota Besabi range.

Newburgh Clips Kingston, 67-55 for Step Nearer DUSO Pennant

Hooker Scores 18 For Maroon Five; Jayvees Also Lose

Although two opponents—Liberty and Beacon—still remain to be met and defeated, Newburgh Free Academy practically wrapped up the 1950-51 DUSO League conference title Wednesday night with a 67 to 55 victory over Kingston at the N.F.A. gym.

The Goldbacks are assured of no worse than a tie if they win one of their remaining two games while Poughkeepsie and Ellenville, the other two hopefuls for the crack at the bunting, must win all three.

Poughkeepsie, a 55 to 44 victor over Middletown last night, kept its hopes alive. The Bridge City club tangles with Ellenville Friday night. It will be a "sudden death" for both clubs as a loss means elimination from this year's pennant hopes.

Ellenville also won last night, scoring a 51 to 41 victory over Liberty. No score was obtainable on the Fallsburg-Monticello clash.

Kingston's hopes for a possible shot at this year's title were shortlived after the opening minutes of last night's tussle in Newburgh.

Coach George "Lanky" Masterson's Goldbacks jumped off to a 24-12 lead at the first quarter and continued to hold the upperhand for the remainder of the struggle.

Newburgh led at halftime by 38-20 and the third session found the Kiasmen making their best effort.

Trailing by 18 points going into the third period, Kingston outscored the Hilly City quintet 16 to 10 to cut down the margin to 12 points.

Newburgh, however, with Dick Spreer and Matt Chrystal showing the way, returned to form in the final quarter with a 19-point spread and nailed down the decision. Kingston's 19 point rally in the final period went down the drain.

Hooker Hits 18

LeRoy Hooker, Kingston forward, emerged as the game's top scorer with his 18 points. Dick Spreer of Newburgh followed with 17.

George Carpouzis and Pete Camp followed Hooker with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Camp also played the best defensive game of the year while hitting the cords for 10 markers.

Two players, Chil Caruso, Kingston, and Rightmyer of Newburgh, were ejected from the game in the closing minutes following a pileup under the Newburgh basket.

Jayvees Also Lose

Newburgh made it a complete sweep by taking the Jayvee contest, 46 to 44.

Valicenti and Smith paced Newburgh with 14 and 12 points in that order. DuBois was high for the Maroon Jayvee squad with 15. Dempsey followed with 13.

Peggy Bruck Hits 40 Points In CYO Game

St. Ursula Forward On Spree in Goshen

The Babe Dedriksons and Audrey Ericksons may have a successor right here in Kingston. And her name is Betty Ann Bruck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruck of 16 Hudson street.

Betty Ann set what is believed to be an all-time schoolgirl scoring record in basketball Tuesday, when she rolled up a sensational 40 points for St. Ursula Academy in a regional C.Y.O. League game against St. John's of Goshen.

St. Ursula's won the contest by the lopsided margin of 65 to 22 for their second straight victory in the C.Y.O. girls' league.

The game, of course, was played under girls rules which means that only the forwards are permitted to try for baskets. Nevertheless such accuracy in a youngster is phenomenal, especially on a strange court.

Miss Bruck hit 17 times from the field and converted six fouls in her terrific scoring spree and showed such marvelous consistency that her 40 points were almost equally divided among four quarters of play.

Ellen Koenig was runnerup for scoring honors with 18 points, while Peggy Dwyer added five points and Eulalia Kelder hit for one basket.

Anna Warcyck led St. John's with 12 points.

Popick Will Head Stock Drive to Aid Local Class C Can-Am Loop Franchise

League Plans 1951 Openers in May

City baseball fans interested in the perpetuation of organized ball within the community last night appointed a committee that will seek to promote the sale of $15,000 in $10 shares by June 1.

The amount of $15,000 has been set as the minimum required to operate the proposed Canadian-American League franchise through the early season period.

Heading the finance drive will be Dave Popick, uptown business man, who has previously been identified with boxing promotions of B'nai B'rith.

Victor Roth, an ardent baseball booster, wil serve as treasurer for the drive.

Last night's session at the Stuyvesant Hotel attracted another enthusiastic crowd and pledges of more than $3,000 toward the $15,000 goal were reported.

In accepting the chairmanship of the drive, Popick said his committee would strive to put the ownership of the Colonial team on a community basis.

Plans Thorough Canvass

"We want to reach every baseball fan who is willing to invest $10 for the promotion of a local team," he said. "Our committee plans to make a thorough canvass of all business, industrial and mercantile establishments within the community. We want to reach the little guys who are the real baseball fans."

Addison Jones, who was president of Colonial City Baseball Inc., was authorized to represent the Kingston franchise at the organizational meeting of the Can-Am League in Schenectady Saturday.

Jones will be accompanied by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a telephone conversation with President Albert Houghton of the Class C loop, Jones learned last night that the Can-Am expects to launch its 1951 season during the first week in May and play a schedule of aproximately 130 games.

Apparently satisified that the community will get behind the present financial drive, Jones was instructed to transact whatever official business may be required at the Schenectady meeting.

Jones also told the group that George McDonald of Schenectady, who has been recommended as business manager for the Colonials by President Houghton, will come to Kingston for an interview in the near future.

Members of Popick's committee, known as the Committee of Ten, were given a supply of pledge forms and they are now available to the public. The pledges will be redeemed later for stock certificates.

Stocks will be sold not only in Kingston but in all outside communities, Popick said.

Mikvy Replaces White

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman White, the great Long Island University Star involved in the big basketball fix, also lost something else this week—the national major college scoring leadership. The one-time All America certainty lost it on paper today when the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau scratched his name from the top rung. But for the basketball scandal, the 6-7 White would have taken over the lead from Bill Mikvy of Temple, longtime leader. White had spurted into first place before his arrest Monday. He had an average of 27.7 points a game, one point ahead of the Temple flinger.

Indictments Due Soon in College Basketball Scandal

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Indictments are predicted soon in the nation's biggest college basketball fixing scandal.

A New York county (Manhattan) grand jury is delving into the mess involving some of America's best players.

Students at Long Island University—one of the schools hit by the latest bribery arrests—are protesting a ban on intercollegiate sports imposed by the L.I.U. trustees.

At its opening session yesterday, the jury heard one witness, acting Police Capt. William J. Grafenecker.

He headed the special detective squad that uncovered evidence of "fixed" games involving crack players of City College of New York and New York University as well as L.I.U.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the grand jury's first session disposed of "preliminary groundwork" in the case, and he predicted indictments within a week or ten days.

Hogan indicated the possibility of a general conspiracy indictment against eight accused athletes and the alleged "money man," as well as indictments charging individuals with the giving and taking of bribes.

The district attorney said he had no present information that other colleges were involved in the latest basketball expose.

Hogan followed his blasts at Madison Square Garden college games with a mention that "some" colleges go all-out to get their teams into the Garden.

Describing the Garden as "an unwholesome atmosphere for college basketball," Hogan added:

"How do you get into the Garden? Only if you're a top-notch team. In order to get there they (the colleges) make scholastic exceptions for athletes. A great many other concessions are made to achieve that desired goal."

Ask Reinstatement

Students at Long Island University, stirred by banning of all intercollegiate sports after the scandal broke last week-end, and a subsequent hint that the school might continue a minor sports program, began clamoring for complete sports reinstatement.

By late yesterday, 2,000 of LIU's 4,200 student body had signed a petition urging that intercollegiate sports—including basketball—be reinstated.

A university spokesman said yesterday that there was "some disruption of classes" although no major demonstration was staged.

Informed that a big protest rally had been scheduled for tomorrow, LIU President Tristman Walker Metcalfe indicated it would not be permitted.

Waterboys Submerge Stone Ridge, 88 to 68

Paced by Vince Ward and Vince Van Bramer who connected for 25 and 22 points respectively, the Waterboys submerged a Stone Ridge court aggregation Tuesday night by the count of 88 to 68.

A big second half spread, netting 26 in the third canto and 31 points in the final period, decided the outcome.

Ward flipped in 12 fields and added a foul for his 25 markers while Van Bramer hit the cords for eight two-pointers and converted six foul shots.

Other scores for the Waterboys were Amato with 16, Roos 13 and Ferraro 12.

Paul Jones and Jim Sickler were the big guns for Stone Ridge with 25 and 23 respectively.

The scores:

Watrboys (88)—Van Bramer, f, 22; Ward, f, 25, Roos, c, 13; Ferraro, g, 12; Amato, g, 16.

Stone Ridge (68)—Sickler, f, 23; Johnson, f, 25; Spongia, c, 11; Scott, g, 1; Kozian, g, 8; Stella, g, 0; Lawrence, g, 0.

Improvemtnts at Y

Two additional handball courts are now under construction in the Youth Center at the Y.M.C.A. This large upper all-purpose room will be used more than ever as an auxiliary gym for handball and paddle ball, Lou Schafer said.

Overtime Win For St. Joseph's

Frank Secreto's deuce in the second overtime (sudden death) period gave St. Joseph's, cagers a thrilling, 55-53 victory over First Dutch in a Church League basketball game at the MJM gym.

With six seconds remaining in the regulation contest, St. Joseph's tied the score 49-49 when Reilly converted two fouls and Cahill hit with a field. St. Joseph's trailed by 15 points at one stage of the fourth quarter.

Both teams scored four points in the first overtime to send the clubs into sudden death play.

Secreto emerged as the individual scoring star with 23 points, while Reilly tossed in 17 for the winners. Giles with 18 led First Dutch. Fiore had 14 and Craft hit for 13.

Yanks Attract Interest

Buenos Aires, Feb. 22 (AP)—United States athletes are the big attraction at the first Pan American games which open Sunday. In past years there have been numerous South American and Central American track meets and other games but this is the first time North Americans have joined their Latin neighbors in a full-fledged hemisphere sports fiesta.

Boys 8-13 Invited For Initial Venture

The Kingston Athletic Association last night formally adopted Little League baseball as its promotional project for the future.

Robert Umpleby, K.A.A. president, was named president of the Little League, with the present line officers of the K.A.A. serving in their same capacities.

These officers are Walter May, vice-president; Dick Ruth, secretary, and Walter Hubbard, treasurer.

Formal application for a Little League franchise will be filed with the national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., in the next few days and the program will be operated during the months of July and August in Kingston.

The K.A.A.'s first venture into the tremendously mushrooming kid baseball movement will consist of four teams, who will play four times weekly at St. Mary's Field.

All boys in the age group from 8 to 13 will be invited to tryout periods and the outstanding candidates will be divided into four fully equipped and uniformed teams.

Will Underwrite Program

K.A.A. members voted last night at the Stuyvesant Hotel to underwrite the entire program for the first season, if necessary.

President Bob Umpleby pointed out, however, that the organization will accept financial assistance from all local groups interested in the youth movement. Umpleby noted that at least three organizations have indicated a desire to give the K.A.A. financial aid.

Several working committees were named by President Umpleby and the program was outlined in great detail.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor was appointed chairman of the managers committee. He will be assisted by Thomas M. Davitt and Kenneth Hyatt in the selection of four full-time managers.

Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation was named chairman of the procurement committee, while Joe Hoffman and Thomas Davitt were delegated the responsibility of arranging for umpires.

Coach G. Warren Kiss, athletic director at K.H.S. will be in charge of player personnel. Several other sub-committees will be announced at a later date.

550 Club Members

A financial report by Treasurer Walter Hubbard revealed that the recent Hot Stove League dinner had been a financial success.

Secretary Ruth reported that the K.A.A. membership now stands at 559 of which 163 are "booster members."

President Umpleby said he was highly pleased with the enthusiasm evidenced at last night's meeting.

"This is a big new step we are taking," he told the K.A.A. members, "but it is something worthwhile. I am sure that we can make a big success of Little League baseball in our town and we all feel it will be the finest of all our junior baseball projects."

Motion pictures of the 1950 World Series were shown at the end of the meeting.

New York — Archie Moore, 176½ Toledo, stopped Jimmy Bivins, 180½, Cleveland, 9.

Hooker Scores 18 For Maroon Five; Jayvees Also Lose

Although two opponents—Liberty and Beacon—still remain to be met and defeated, Newburgh Free Academy practically wrapped up the 1950-51 DUSO League conference title Wednesday night with a 67 to 55 victory over Kingston at the N.F.A. gym.

The Goldbacks are assured of no worse than a tie if they win one of their remaining two games while Poughkeepsie and Ellenville, the other two hopefuls for the crack at the bunting, must win all three.

Poughkeepsie, a 55 to 44 victor over Middletown last night, kept its hopes alive. The Bridge City club tangles with Ellenville Friday night. It will be a "sudden death" for both clubs as a loss means elimination from this year's pennant hopes.

Ellenville also won last night, scoring a 51 to 41 victory over Liberty. No score was obtainable on the Fallsburg-Monticello clash.

Kingston's hopes for a possible shot at this year's title were short-lived after the opening minutes of last night's tussle in Newburgh.

Newburgh led at halftime by 38-20 and the third session found the Kiasmen making their best effort.

Trailing by 18 points going into the third period, Kingston outscored the Hilly City quintet 16 to 10 to cut down the margin to 12 points.

Newburgh, however, with Dick Spreer and Matt Chrystal showing the way, returned to form in the final quarter with a 19-point spread and nailed down the decision. Kingston's 19 point rally in the final period went down the drain.

Hooker Hits 18

LeRoy Hooker, Kingston forward, emerged as the game's top scorer with his 18 points. Dick Spreer of Newburgh followed with 17.

George Carpouzis and Pete Camp followed Hooker with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Camp also played the best defensive game of the year while hitting the cords for 10 markers.

Two players, Chil Caruso, Kingston, and Rightmyer of Newburgh, were ejected from the game in the closing minutes following a pileup under the Newburgh basket.

Jayvees Also Lose

Newburgh made it a complete sweep by taking the Jayvee contest, 46 to 44.

Valicenti and Smith paced Newburgh with 14 and 12 points in that order. DuBois was high for the Maroon Jayvee squad with 15. Dempsey followed with 13.

Peggy Bruck Hits 40 Points In CYO Game

St. Ursula Forward On Spree in Goshen

The Babe Dedriksons and Audrey Ericksons may have a successor right here in Kingston. And her name is Betty Ann Bruck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruck of 16 Hudson street.

Betty Ann set what is believed to be an all-time schoolgirl scoring record in basketball Tuesday, when she rolled up a sensational 40 points for St. Ursula Academy in a regional C.Y.O. League game against St. John's of Goshen.

St. Ursula's won the contest by the lopsided margin of 65 to 22 for their second straight victory in the C.Y.O. girls' league.

The game, of course, was played under girls rules which means that only the forwards are permitted to try for baskets. Nevertheless such accuracy in a youngster is phenomenal, especially on a strange court.

Miss Bruck hit 17 times from the field and converted six fouls in her terriffic scoring spree and showed such marvelous consistency that her 40 points were almost equally divided among four quarters of play.

Ellen Koenig was runnerup for scoring honors with 18 points, while Peggy Dwyer added five points and Eulalia Kelder hit for one basket.

Anna Warcyck led St. John's with 12 points.

Popick Will Head Stock Drive to Aid Local Class C Can-Am Loop Franchise

League Plans 1951 Openers in May

City baseball fans interested in the perpetuation of organized ball within the community last night appointed a committee that will seek to promote the sale of $15,000 in $10 shares by June 1.

The amount of $15,000 has been set as the minimum required to operate the proposed Canadian-American League franchise through the early season period.

Heading the finance drive will be Dave Popick, uptown business man, who has previously been identified with boxing promotions of B'nai B'rith.

Victor Roth, an ardent baseball booster, wil serve as treasurer for the drive.

Last night's session at the Stuyvesant Hotel attracted another enthusiastic crowd and pledges of more than $3,000 toward the $15,000 goal were reported.

In accepting the chairmanship of the drive, Popick said his committee would strive to put the ownership of the Colonial team on a community basis.

Plans Thorough Canvass

"We want to reach every baseball fan who is willing to invest $10 for the promotion of a local team," he said. "Our committee plans to make a thorough canvass of all business, industrial and mercantile establishments within the community. We want to reach the little guys who are the real baseball fans."

Addison Jones, who was president of Colonial City Baseball Inc., was authorized to represent the Kingston franchise at the organizational meeting of the Can-Am League in Schenectady Saturday.

Jones will be accompanied by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a telephone conversation with President Albert Houghton of the Class C loop, Jones learned last night that the Can-Am expects to launch its 1951 season during the first week in May and play a schedule of aproximately 130 games.

Apparently satisified that the community will get behind the present financial drive, Jones was instructed to transact whatever official business may be required at the Schenectady meeting.

Jones also told the group that George McDonald of Schenectady, who has been recommended as business manager for the Colonials by President Houghton, will come to Kingston for an interview in the near future.

Members of Popick's committee, known as the Committee of Ten, were given a supply of pledge forms and they are now available to the public. The pledges will be redeemed later for stock certificates.

Stocks will be sold not only in Kingston but in all outside communities, Popick said.

Mikvy Replaces White

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman White, the great Long Island University Star involved in the big basketball fix, also lost something else this week—the national major college scoring leadership. The one-time All America certainty lost it on paper today when the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau scratched his name from the top rung. But for the basketball scandal, the 6-7 White would have taken over the lead from Bill Mikvy of Temple, longtime leader. White had spurted into first place before his arrest Monday. He had an average of 27.7 points a game, one point ahead of the Temple flinger.

Indictments Due Soon in College Basketball Scandal

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Indictments are predicted soon in the nation's biggest college basketball fixing scandal.

A New York county (Manhattan) grand jury is delving into the mess involving some of America's best players.

Students at Long Island University—one of the schools hit by the latest bribery arrests—are protesting a ban on intercollegiate sports imposed by the L.I.U. trustees.

At its opening session yesterday, the jury heard one witness, acting Police Capt. William J. Graf-enecker.

He headed the special detective squad that uncovered evidence of "fixed" games involving crack players of City College of New York and New York University as well as L.I.U.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the grand jury's first session disposed of "preliminary groundwork" in the case, and he predicted indictments within a week or ten days.

Hogan indicated the possibility of a general conspiracy indictment against eight accused athletes and the alleged "money man," as well as indictments charging individuals with the giving and taking of bribes.

The district attorney said he had no present information that other colleges were involved in the latest basketball expose.

Hogan followed his blasts at Madison Square Garden college games with a mention that "some" colleges go all-out to get their teams into the Garden.

Describing the Garden as "an unwholesome atmosphere for college basketball," Hogan added:

"How do you get into the Garden? Only if you're a top-notch team. In order to get there they (the colleges) make scholastic exceptions for athletes. A great many other concessions are made to achieve that desired goal."

Ask Reinstatement

Students at Long Island University, stirred by banning of all intercollegiate sports after the scandal broke last week-end, and a subsequent hint that the school might continue a minor sports program, began clamoring for complete sports reinstatement.

By late yesterday, 2,000 of LIU's 4,200 student body had signed a petition urging that intercollegiate sports—including basketball—be reinstated.

A university spokesman said yesterday that there was "some disruption of classes" although no major demonstration was staged.

Informed that a big protest rally had been scheduled for tomorrow, LIU President Tristman Walker Metcalfe indicated it would not be permitted.

Waterboys Submerge Stone Ridge, 88 to 68

Paced by Vince Ward and Vince Van Bramer who connected for 25 and 22 points respectively, the Waterboys submerged a Stone Ridge court aggregation Tuesday night by the count of 88 to 68.

A big second half spread, netting 26 in the third canto and 31 points in the final period, decided the outcome.

Ward flipped in 12 fields and added a foul for his 25 markers while Van Bramer hit the cords for eight two-pointers and converted six foul shots.

Other scores for the Waterboys were Amato with 16, Roos 13 and Ferraro 12.

Paul Jones and Jim Sickler were the big guns for Stone Ridge with 25 and 23 respectively.

The scores:

Both teams scored four points in the first overtime to send the clubs into sudden death play.

Secreto emerged as the individual scoring star with 23 points, while Reilly tossed in 17 for the winners. Giles with 18 led First Dutch. Fiore had 14 and Craft hit for 13.

Yanks Attract Interest

Buenos Aires, Feb. 22 (AP)—United States athletes are the big attraction at the first Pan American games which open Sunday. In past years there have been numerous South American and Central American track meets and other games but this is the first time North Americans have joined their Latin neighbors in a full-fledged hemisphere sports fiesta.

Boys 8-13 Invited For Initial Venture

The Kingston Athletic Association last night formally adopted Little League baseball as its promotional project for the future.

Robert Umpleby, K.A.A. president, was named president of the Little League, with the present line officers of the K.A.A. serving in their same capacities.

These officers are Walter May, vice-president; Dick Ruth, secretary, and Walter Hubbard, treasurer.

Formal application for a Little League franchise will be filed with the national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., in the next few days and the program will be operated during the months of July and August in Kingston.

The K.A.A.'s first venture into the tremendously mushrooming kid baseball movement will consist of four teams, who will play four times weekly at St. Mary's Field.

All boys in the age group from 8 to 13 will be invited to tryout periods and the outstanding candidates will be divided into four fully equipped and uniformed teams.

Will Underwrite Program

K.A.A. members voted last night at the Stuyvesant Hotel to underwrite the entire program for the first season, if necessary.

President Bob Umpleby pointed out, however, that the organization will accept financial assistance from all local groups interested in the youth movement. Umpleby noted that at least three organizations have indicated a desire to give the K.A.A. financial aid.

Several working committees were named by President Umpleby and the program was outlined in great detail.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor was appointed chairman of the managers committee. He will be assisted by Thomas M. Davitt and Kenneth Hyatt in the selection of four full-time managers.

Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation was named chairman of the procurement committee, while Joe Hoffman and Thomas Davitt were delegated the responsibility of arranging for umpires.

Coach G. Warren Kias, athletic director at K.H.S. will be in charge of player personnel. Several other sub-committees will be announced at a later date.

559 Club Members

A financial report by Treasurer Walter Hubbard revealed that the recent Hot Stove League dinner had been a financial success.

Secretary Ruth reported that the K.A.A. membership now stands at 559 of which 163 are "booster members."

President Umpleby said he was highly pleased with the enthusiasm evidenced at last night's meeting.

"This is a big, new step we are taking," he told the K.A.A. members, "but it is something worthwhile. I am sure that we can make a big success of Little League baseball in our town and we all feel it will be the finest of all our junior baseball projects."

Motion pictures of the 1950 World Series were shown at the end of the meeting.

New York — Archie Moore, 176½ Toledo, stopped Jimmy Bivins, 180½, Cleveland, 9.

Milan, Feb. 22 (AP)—Close to 100 of the world's best figure skaters polished their twists and turns today for the International championships. The 1951 world champions will be crowned at Milan Ice Palace during three days of competition which starts tomorrow morning and ends Sunday night. Skaters from 12 countries will be striving for world titles, including nearly a dozen top-ranking stars who already have won world, national or regional titles.

Chaffee to Defend Title

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Defending Champion Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., and Althea Gibson of New York will meet tonight in a quarter final match of the National indoor tennis championships. A year ago Miss Chaffee won the title by defeating Miss Gibson, who last season became the first Negro ever to compete in the National outdoor championships. This time their meeting comes earlier and once again the California ace is favored.

Peggy Bruck Hits 40 Points In CYO Game

St. Ursula Forward On Spree in Goshen

The Babe Dedriksons and Audrey Ericksons may have a successor right here in Kingston. And her name is Betty Ann Bruck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruck of 16 Hudson street.

Betty Ann set what is believed to be an all-time schoolgirl scoring record in basketball Tuesday, when she rolled up a sensational 40 points for St. Ursula Academy in a regional C.Y.O. League game against St. John's of Goshen.

St. Ursula's won the contest by the lopsided margin of 65 to 22 for their second straight victory in the C.Y.O. girls' league.

The game, of course, was played under girls rules which means that only the forwards are permitted to try for baskets. Nevertheless such accuracy in a youngster is phenomenal, especially on a strange court.

Miss Bruck hit 17 times from the field and converted six fouls in her terriffic scoring spree and showed such marvelous consistency that her 40 points were almost equally divided among four quarters of play.

Ellen Koenig was runnerup for scoring honors with 18 points, while Peggy Dwyer added five points and Eulalia Kelder hit for one basket.

Anna Warcyck led St. John's with 12 points.

Popick Will Head Stock Drive to Aid Local Class C Can-Am Loop Franchise

League Plans 1951 Openers in May

City baseball fans interested in the perpetuation of organized ball within the community last night appointed a committee that will seek to promote the sale of $15,000 in $10 shares by June 1.

The amount of $15,000 has been set as the minimum required to operate the proposed Canadian-American League franchise through the early season period.

Heading the finance drive will be Dave Popick, uptown business man, who has previously been identified with boxing promotions of B'nai B'rith.

Victor Roth, an ardent baseball booster, wil serve as treasurer for the drive.

Last night's session at the Stuyvesant Hotel attracted another enthusiastic crowd and pledges of more than $3,000 toward the $15,000 goal were reported.

In accepting the chairmanship of the drive, Popick said his committee would strive to put the ownership of the Colonial team on a community basis.

Plans Thorough Canvass

"We want to reach every baseball fan who is willing to invest $10 for the promotion of a local team," he said. "Our committee plans to make a thorough canvass of all business, industrial and mercantile establishments within the community. We want to reach the little guys who are the real baseball fans."

Addison Jones, who was president of Colonial City Baseball Inc., was authorized to represent the Kingston franchise at the organizational meeting of the Can-Am League in Schenectady Saturday.

Jones will be accompanied by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a telephone conversation with President Albert Houghton of the Class C loop, Jones learned last night that the Can-Am expects to launch its 1951 season during the first week in May and play a schedule of aproximately 130 games.

Apparently satisified that the community will get behind the present financial drive, Jones was instructed to transact whatever official business may be required at the Schenectady meeting.

Jones also told the group that George McDonald of Schenectady, who has been recommended as business manager for the Colonials by President Houghton, will come to Kingston for an interview in the near future.

Members of Popick's committee, known as the Committee of Ten, were given a supply of pledge forms and they are now available to the public. The pledges will be redeemed later for stock certificates.

Stocks will be sold not only in Kingston but in all outside communities, Popick said.

Mikvy Replaces White

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman White, the great Long Island University Star involved in the big basketball fix, also lost something else this week—the national major college scoring leadership. The one-time All America certainty lost it on paper today when the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau scratched his name from the top rung. But for the basketball scandal, the 6-7 White would have taken over the lead from Bill Mikvy of Temple, longtime leader. White had spurted into first place before his arrest Monday. He had an average of 27.7 points a game, one point ahead of the Temple flinger.

Indictments Due Soon in College Basketball Scandal

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Indictments are predicted soon in the nation's biggest college basketball fixing scandal.

A New York county (Manhattan) grand jury is delving into the mess involving some of America's best players.

Students at Long Island University—one of the schools hit by the latest bribery arrests—are protesting a ban on intercollegiate sports imposed by the L.I.U. trustees.

At its opening session yesterday, the jury heard one witness, acting Police Capt. William J. Graf-enecker.

He headed the special detective squad that uncovered evidence of "fixed" games involving crack players of City College of New York and New York University as well as L.I.U.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the grand jury's first session disposed of "preliminary groundwork" in the case, and he predicted indictments within a week or ten days.

Hogan indicated the possibility of a general conspiracy indictment against eight accused athletes and the alleged "money man," as well as indictments charging individuals with the giving and taking of bribes.

The district attorney said he had no present information that other colleges were involved in the latest basketball expose.

Hogan followed his blasts at Madison Square Garden college games with a mention that "some" colleges go all-out to get their teams into the Garden.

Describing the Garden as "an unwholesome atmosphere for college basketball," Hogan added:

"How do you get into the Garden? Only if you're a top-notch team. In order to get there they (the colleges) make scholastic exceptions for athletes. A great many other concessions are made to achieve that desired goal."

Ask Reinstatement

Students at Long Island University, stirred by banning of all intercollegiate sports after the scandal broke last week-end, and a subsequent hint that the school might continue a minor sports program, began clamoring for complete sports reinstatement.

By late yesterday, 2,000 of LIU's 4,200 student body had signed a petition urging that intercollegiate sports—including basketball—be reinstated.

A university spokesman said yesterday that there was "some disruption of classes" although no major demonstration was staged.

Informed that a big protest rally had been scheduled for tomorrow, LIU President Tristman Walker Metcalfe indicated it would not be permitted.

Paced by Vince Ward and Vince Van Bramer who connected for 25 and 22 points respectively, the Waterboys submerged a Stone Ridge court aggregation Tuesday night by the count of 88 to 68.

A big second half spread, netting 26 in the third canto and 31 points in the final period, decided the outcome.

Ward flipped in 12 fields and added a foul for his 25 markers while Van Bramer hit the cords for eight two-pointers and converted six foul shots.

Other scores for the Waterboys were Amato with 16, Roos 13 and Ferraro 12.

Paul Jones and Jim Sickler were the big guns for Stone Ridge with 25 and 23 respectively.

The scores:

Boys 8-13 Invited For Initial Venture

The Kingston Athletic Association last night formally adopted Little League baseball as its promotional project for the future.

Robert Umpleby, K.A.A. president, was named president of the Little League, with the present line officers of the K.A.A. serving in their same capacities.

These officers are Walter May, vice-president; Dick Ruth, secretary, and Walter Hubbard, treasurer.

Formal application for a Little League franchise will be filed with the national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., in the next few days and the program will be operated during the months of July and August in Kingston.

The K.A.A.'s first venture into the tremendously mushrooming kid baseball movement will consist of four teams, who will play four times weekly at St. Mary's Field.

All boys in the age group from 8 to 13 will be invited to tryout periods and the outstanding candidates will be divided into four fully equipped and uniformed teams.

Will Underwrite Program

K.A.A. members voted last night at the Stuyvesant Hotel to underwrite the entire program for the first season, if necessary.

President Bob Umpleby pointed out, however, that the organization will accept financial assistance from all local groups interested in the youth movement. Umpleby noted that at least three organizations have indicated a desire to give the K.A.A. financial aid.

Several working committees were named by President Umpleby and the program was outlined in great detail.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor was appointed chairman of the managers committee. He will be assisted by Thomas M. Davitt and Kenneth Hyatt in the selection of four full-time managers.

Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation was named chairman of the procurement committee, while Joe Hoffman and Thomas Davitt were delegated the responsibility of arranging for umpires.

Coach G. Warren Kiss, athletic director at K.H.S. will be in charge of player personnel. Several other sub-committees will be announced at a later date.

559 Club Members

A financial report by Treasurer Walter Hubbard revealed that the recent Hot Stove League dinner had been a financial success.

Secretary Ruth reported that the K.A.A. membership now stands at 559 of which 163 are "booster members."

President Umpleby said he was highly pleased with the enthusiasm evidenced at last night's meeting.

"This is a big, new step we are taking," he told the K.A.A. members, "but it is something worthwhile. I am sure that we can make a big success of Little League baseball in our town and we all feel it will be the finest of all our junior baseball projects."

Motion pictures of the 1950 World Series were shown at the end of the meeting.

Report Bribes Offered

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP)—New York's basketball scandal—the worst ever to hit college sports—has caused reverberations on the west coast. Charges in New York that a number of college basketball players had taken bribes to fix scores of some games for gamblers prompted two former cage stars at the University of San Francisco to reveal they, too, once had been urged to fix games—for a price. Their statements were backed up by their one-time coach. The bribe attempt first was disclosed yesterday by Frank Kuzara, former U.S.F. star and now a member of the semi-pro San Francisco Stewart Chevrolets team. The Chevrolets were defeated here last night by the Peoria Caterpillar Diesels, 69-67.

First Game Disastrous

New York (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, who will manage Seattle this season, says Ernie Nevel, Yankee rookie pitcher, came a cropper in the first game he pitched for Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. A line drive hit Nevel's little finger on his pitching hand and necessitated an operation which cost him part of the finger. Nevel pitched for Hornsby at Beaumont Tex., last season.

Score Ranks Among All-Time Highs

Adirondack Trailways rolled 3198—one of the highest totals in local bowling history—in a postponed Mid-Hudson Classic League match against the Dutchess Recreation, Tuesday night at the Bowlodrome.

The Trailways achieved their sensational total despite the absence of Johnny Ferraro, who is temporarily shelved with a leg injury.

Clifton Quick proved a worthy substitute and it was his sparkling 670 series that set the pace for game totals of 1066, 1092 and 1040.

The all-time city record of 3298 is also held by the Trailways.

Quick sandwiched a 198 with 258 and 214 for a 670 total, while only Joe Schrowang missed the "600" circle for the locals.

Fred Rice anchored with 255-216-641; Harold Broskie shot 236-224-633 and Hammerin' Han Kemmerer accounted for 210-257-660. Schrowang, with a 209 high solo, missed the charmed circle by only seven pins.

While the Trailways were literally scorching the freshly shellacked 7 and 8 drives, none of the Poughkeepsie powerhouse was able to crash into the "600" bracket. Phil Versace came up with 211-584 and Jerry Tenhope shot 217-583.

Williams Raps 279 In Heavy Session Wednesday Night

Pounding the uprights for rousing games of 248-225-255, Larry Weishaupt established a new high individual triple mark in the Central Rec Major League wheel Wednesday night with his 728 blast.

Weishaupt's pulverizing triple topped the former high mark of 708 held by Ken Williams.

Sparked by Weishaupt's firing, the rest of the Wednesday night loop caught fire and when the smoke cleared, seven gaudy 600 triples were written into the record books.

Weishaupt, one of the real cool trundlers of the city, led the power-laden Amoco keglers to a hefty 1034 team single and 2992 series.

This is the same outfit which broke all records last November 29 by shooting a 1203 single and 3270 team series.

Harold Broskie, another of the Amoco trundlers, held down the runnerup slot last night with a 670 triple. Broskie opened with 180 and finished strong with 237 and 253.

Williams Raps 279

Ken Wiliams, who saw his former top triple go down the drain last night, splintered the pot-bellied maples for a terrific 279 single in his opening game and followed with 201 and 188 for 668.

Others in the 600 bracket included Marty Kellenberger with 210-235-634; Harry Smith 246-629; Ed Murphy 237-620; Randy Kelder 233-203-619; John MacLellan 206-216-604.

Ada Markle Blasts 255

Continuing her recent tenpin splurge in no uncertain fashion, Ada Markle slammed a sizzling 255 single to feature the Colonial Women's League wheel at the Bowlatorium Wednesday night.

Ada opened with 147 and hit 160 in the middle before tossing the new single record for the league in her final game. She wound up with a 562 triple, also high for the loop last night.

Others in the 500 circle were Phyl Gehringer with 524; Bev Port 521; Miriam Posner 518; Rose Schatzel 516; Marge Jansen 508; and Betty Schoonmaker 503.

Report Bribes Offered

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP)—New York's basketball scandal — the worst ever to hit college sports—has caused reverberations on the west coast. Charges in New York that a number of college basketball players had taken bribes to fix scores of some games for gamblers prompted two former cage stars at the University of San Francisco to reveal they, too, once had been urged to fix games—for a price. Their statements were backed up by their one-time coach. The bribe attempt first was disclosed yesterday by Frank Kuzara, former U.S.F. star and now a member of the semi-pro San Francisco Stewart Chevrolets team. The Chevrolets were defeated here last night by the Peoria Caterpillar Diesels, 69-67.

First Game Disastrous

New York (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, who will manage Seattle this season, says Ernie Nevel, Yankee rookie pitcher, came a cropper in the first game he pitched for Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. A line drive hit Nevel's little finger on his pitching hand and necessitated an operation which cost him part of the finger. Nevel pitched for Hornsby at Beaumont Tex., last season.

Score Ranks Among All-Time Highs

Adirondack Trailways rolled 3198—one of the highest totals in local bowling history—in a postponed Mid-Hudson Classic League match against the Dutchess Recreation, Tuesday night at the Bowlodrome.

The Trailways achieved their sensational total despite the absence of Johnny Ferraro, who is temporarily shelved with a leg injury.

Clifton Quick proved a worthy substitute and it was his sparkling 670 series that set the pace for game totals of 1066, 1092 and 1040.

The all-time city record of 3298 is also held by the Trailways.

Quick sandwiched a 198 with 258 and 214 for a 670 total, while only Joe Schrowang missed the "600" circle for the locals.

Fred Rice anchored with 255-216-641; Harold Broskie shot 236-224-633 and Hammerin' Han Kemmerer accounted for 210-257-660. Schrowang, with a 209 high solo, missed the charmed circle by only seven pins.

While the Trailways were literally scorching the freshly shellacked 7 and 8 drives, none of the Poughkeepsie powerhouse was able to crash into the "600" bracket. Phil Versace came up with 211-584 and Jerry Tenhope shot 217-583.

Williams Raps 279 In Heavy Session Wednesday Night

Pounding the uprights for rousing games of 248-225-255, Larry Weishaupt established a new high individual triple mark in the Central Rec Major League wheel Wednesday night with his 728 blast.

Weishaupt's pulverizing triple topped the former high mark of 708 held by Ken Williams.

Sparked by Weishaupt's firing, the rest of the Wednesday night loop caught fire and when the smoke cleared, seven gaudy 600 triples were written into the record books.

Weishaupt, one of the real cool trundlers of the city, led the power-laden Amoco keglers to a hefty 1034 team single and 2992 series.

This is the same outfit which broke all records last November 29 by shooting a 1203 single and 3270 team series.

Harold Broskie, another of the Amoco trundlers, held down the runnerup slot last night with a 670 triple. Broskie opened with 180 and finished strong with 237 and 253.

Williams Raps 279

Ken Wiliams, who saw his former top triple go down the drain last night, splintered the pot-bellied maples for a terrific 279 single in his opening game and followed with 201 and 188 for 668.

Others in the 600 bracket included Marty Kellenberger with 210-235-634; Harry Smith 246-629; Ed Murphy 237-620; Randy Kelder 233-203-619; John MacLellan 206-216-604.

Score Ranks Among All-Time Highs

Adirondack Trailways rolled 3198—one of the highest totals in local bowling history—in a postponed Mid-Hudson Classic League match against the Dutchess Recreation, Tuesday night at the Bowlodrome.

The Trailways achieved their sensational total despite the absence of Johnny Ferraro, who is temporarily shelved with a leg injury.

Clifton Quick proved a worthy substitute and it was his sparkling 670 series that set the pace for game totals of 1066, 1092 and 1040.

The all-time city record of 3298 is also held by the Trailways.

Quick sandwiched a 198 with 258 and 214 for a 670 total, while only Joe Schrowang missed the "600" circle for the locals.

Fred Rice anchored with 255-216-641; Harold Broskie shot 236-224-633 and Hammerin' Han Kemmerer accounted for 210-257-660. Schrowang, with a 209 high solo, missed the charmed circle by only seven pins.

While the Trailways were literally scorching the freshly shellacked 7 and 8 drives, none of the Poughkeepsie powerhouse was able to crash into the "600" bracket. Phil Versace came up with 211-584 and Jerry Tenhope shot 217-583.

Williams Raps 279 In Heavy Session Wednesday Night

Pounding the uprights for rousing games of 248-225-255, Larry Weishaupt established a new high individual triple mark in the Central Rec Major League wheel Wednesday night with his 728 blast.

Weishaupt's pulverizing triple topped the former high mark of 708 held by Ken Williams.

Sparked by Weishaupt's firing, the rest of the Wednesday night loop caught fire and when the smoke cleared, seven gaudy 600 triples were written into the record books.

Weishaupt, one of the real cool trundlers of the city, led the power-laden Amoco keglers to a hefty 1034 team single and 2992 series.

This is the same outfit which broke all records last November 29 by shooting a 1203 single and 3270 team series.

Harold Broskie, another of the Amoco trundlers, held down the runnerup slot last night with a 670 triple. Broskie opened with 180 and finished strong with 237 and 253.

Williams Raps 279

Ken Wiliams, who saw his former top triple go down the drain last night, splintered the pot-bellied maples for a terrific 279 single in his opening game and followed with 201 and 188 for 668.

Others in the 600 bracket included Marty Kellenberger with 210-235-634; Harry Smith 246-629; Ed Murphy 237-620; Randy Kelder 233-203-619; John MacLellan 206-216-604.

Report Bribes Offered

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP)—New York's basketball scandal—the worst ever to hit college sports—has caused reverberations on the west coast. Charges in New York that a number of college basketball players had taken bribes to fix scores of some games for gamblers prompted two former cage stars at the University of San Francisco to reveal they, too, once had been urged to fix games—for a price. Their statements were backed up by their one-time coach. The bribe attempt first was disclosed yesterday by Frank Kuzara, former U.S.F. star and now a member of the semi-pro San Francisco Stewart Chevrolets team. The Chevrolets were defeated here last night by the Peoria Caterpillar Diesels, 69-67.

First Game Disastrous

New York (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, who will manage Seattle this season, says Ernie Nevel, Yankee rookie pitcher, came a cropper in the first game he pitched for Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. A line drive hit Nevel's little finger on his pitching hand and necessitated an operation which cost him part of the finger. Nevel pitched for Hornsby at Beaumont Tex., last season.

Plattekill Hears Stang On Equalization Topic

At the regular monthly meeting of the Plattekill Township Civic Association, February 16, in Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, Frederick H. Stang, Ulster county attorney, spoke on equalization and good citizenship through interest in local government.

Supervisor E. Coy and local assessors participated with members of the association in open discussion of town affairs. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held in the hall on March 16 at 8 p. m.

Jammed With Troops

Taipei, Formosa, Feb. 22 (AP)—The pro-Nationalist China Union Press said today hospitals in Manchuria and Red China are jammed with 200,000 Communist troops wounded in Korea. The agency placed Chinese casualties at 500,000. The U. S. 8th Army reported more than 115,000 Red casualties through ground action in its limited offensive from Jan. 25 through Feb. 20.

Will Go to Monticello

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Mayor and Mrs. Vincent R. Impellitteri will leave the city this afternoon to spend Washington's Birthday week-end in Monticello, N. Y. The couple will stay at the Concord Hotel. The mayor will return here Sunday afternoon and will leave that night for Washington, where he is scheduled to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee Monday.

Training Camp News in Brief

Hearn in Uniform

Lopat Signs Pact

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 22 (AP)—Big Vic Raschi, one of four New York Yankees pitchers already here to get a fast start on spring training, figures he need take off five pounds during the grapefruit grind. Vic has been dieting for a couple of months and says he now tips the beam at 220 pounds. Three other pitchers arrived with Raschi yesterday—Tom Ferrick, Bob Porterfield and Frank Shea. Catcher Ralph Houk arrived earlier and batterymen began working out today. The Yankees said that pitcher Ed Lopat has signed his 1951 contract.

O'Neill Stresses Bunting

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill has served notice on his small army of Boston Red Sox pitchers—24 not including the unsigned Mel Parnell—to perfect the art of bunting. "A good bunting pitcher can win three or four more games a year for himself," O'Neill advised his chuckers. Although Infielders Bobby Doerr and Walt Dropo, along with Outfielder Billy (American League batting champion) Goodman are in town, they have ignored O'Neill's suggestions to get in some early practice. They intend to await the arrival of the club's main body on March 1.

Newk Impresses Dressen

Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—One of the most pleasant developments in the Brooklyn Dodgers training camp, so far as Manager Chuck Dressen is concerned, is the zest for working being shown by ace pitcher Don Newcombe. The husky Negro moundsman, weighing 244, has lost no time trying to work off some of that poundage. "Look at him," said Dressen yesterday as he pointed to the outfield, "they told me he was lazy, but he's the only guy out there running around without being asked to. He's working harder than any man down here."

Will Streamline Hurler

Brandenton, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Billy Southworth's first Boston Braves spring training task appears to be the streamlining of Jim Wilson, the 24-game winning righthander up from the Seattle Pacific Coast League club. Wilson, who has had previous trials with the Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics, showed up about 15 pounds over his normal 195. Southworth has high hopes Wilson will develop into one of his starting pitchers.

New Contract Board

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Senate late yesterday passed a bill to set up a five-member independent board with power to renegotiate billions of dollars worth of defense contracts.

Ship, Lariat Used

Corner Brook, Newfoundland, Feb. 22 (AP)—Up in these nothern parts they use ship and lariat to get a moose. A crew member of the motor vessel Trepassey spotted a 400-pounder floundering in thin ice in Humber Arm Channel. The ship's captain brought his ship alongside and one swing of the lariat bagged her. The moose rode here in the Trepascsey's hold, was transferred to a truck, and turned loose a few miles inland.

Taipei, Formosa, Feb. 22 (AP)—Air raid tests were held throughout northern Formosa today. Chinese Nationalists predict Chinese Communists will attack this island when weather is favorable.

Robber Tries to Sell Articles to Wrong Man

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—"It's a small world—even in New York," mused Samuel Grove, 26, while being booked on a burglary charge last night.

Police said a man to whom Grove allegedly tried to sell his loot in Harlem was the same man whose apartment he had just robbed in The Bronx.

John Davis, manager of the Harlem Billiard Academy, told police a stranger entered his poolroom with two familiar-looking suitcases and offered to sell some suits.

The suits — 10 of them — also seemed familiar.

Davis ducked out and telephoned his wife.

"We've been burglarized!" she told him. "Your suits are gone and so are your suitcases!"

Detectives, who had been summoned to the Davis apartment, sped to the poolroom.

Davis meanwhile kept the "salesman" interested by arguing over the price — minimizing the quality of his own suits.

Then the detectives arrived.

Plattekill Hears Stang On Equalization Topic

At the regular monthly meeting of the Plattekill Township Civic Association, February 16, in Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, Frederick H. Stang, Ulster county attorney, spoke on equalization and good citizenship through interest in local government.

Supervisor E. Coy and local assessors participated with members of the association in open discussion of town affairs. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held in the hall on March 16 at 8 p. m.

Jammed With Troops

Taipei, Formosa, Feb. 22 (AP)—The pro-Nationalist China Union Press said today hospitals in Manchuria and Red China are jammed with 200,000 Communist troops wounded in Korea. The agency placed Chinese casualties at 500,000. The U. S. 8th Army reported more than 115,000 Red casualties through ground action in its limited offensive from Jan. 25 through Feb. 20.

Will Go to Monticello

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Mayor and Mrs. Vincent R. Impellitteri will leave the city this afternoon to spend Washington's Birthday week-end in Monticello, N. Y. The couple will stay at the Concord Hotel. The mayor will return here Sunday afternoon and will leave that night for Washington, where he is scheduled to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee Monday.

Training Camp News in Brief

Hearn in Uniform

Lopat Signs Pact

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 22 (AP)—Big Vic Raschi, one of four New York Yankees pitchers already here to get a fast start on spring training, figures he need take off five pounds during the grapefruit grind. Vic has been dieting for a couple of months and says he now tips the beam at 220 pounds. Three other pitchers arrived with Raschi yesterday—Tom Ferrick, Bob Porterfield and Frank Shea. Catcher Ralph Houk arrived earlier and batterymen began working out today. The Yankees said that pitcher Ed Lopat has signed his 1951 contract.

O'Neill Stresses Bunting

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill has served notice on his small army of Boston Red Sox pitchers—24 not including the unsigned Mel Parnell—to perfect the art of bunting. "A good bunting pitcher can win three or four more games a year for himself," O'Neill advised his chuckers. Although Infielders Bobby Doerr and Walt Dropo, along with Outfielder Billy (American League batting champion) Goodman are in town, they have ignored O'Neill's suggestions to get in some early practice. They intend to await the arrival of the club's main body on March 1.

Newk Impresses Dressen

Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—One of the most pleasant developments in the Brooklyn Dodgers training camp, so far as Manager Chuck Dressen is concerned, is the zest for working being shown by ace pitcher Don Newcombe. The husky Negro moundsman, weighing 244, has lost no time trying to work off some of that poundage. "Look at him," said Dressen yesterday as he pointed to the outfield, "they told me he was lazy, but he's the only guy out there running around without being asked to. He's working harder than any man down here."

Will Streamline Hurler

Brandenton, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Billy Southworth's first Boston Braves spring training task appears to be the streamlining of Jim Wilson, the 24-game winning righthander up from the Seattle Pacific Coast League club. Wilson, who has had previous trials with the Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics, showed up about 15 pounds over his normal 195. Southworth has high hopes Wilson will develop into one of his starting pitchers.

New Contract Board

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Senate late yesterday passed a bill to set up a five-member independent board with power to renegotiate billions of dollars worth of defense contracts.

Robber Tries to Sell Articles to Wrong Man

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—"It's a small world—even in New York," mused Samuel Grove, 26, while being booked on a burglary charge last night.

Police said a man to whom Grove allegedly tried to sell his loot in Harlem was the same man whose apartment he had just robbed in The Bronx.

John Davis, manager of the Harlem Billiard Academy, told police a stranger entered his poolroom with two familiar-looking suitcases and offered to sell some suits.

The suits — 10 of them — also seemed familiar.

Davis ducked out and telephoned his wife.

"We've been burglarized!" she told him. "Your suits are gone and so are your suitcases!"

"I know it," her husband answered.

Detectives, who had been summoned to the Davis apartment, sped to the poolroom.

Davis meanwhile kept the "salesman" interested by arguing over the price — minimizing the quality of his own suits.

Then the detectives arrived.

Plattekill Hears Stang On Equalization Topic

At the regular monthly meeting of the Plattekill Township Civic Association, February 16, in Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, Frederick H. Stang, Ulster county attorney, spoke on equalization and good citizenship through interest in local government.

Supervisor E. Coy and local assessors participated with members of the association in open discussion of town affairs. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held in the hall on March 16 at 8 p. m.

Jammed With Troops

Taipei, Formosa, Feb. 22 (AP)—The pro-Nationalist China Union Press said today hospitals in Manchuria and Red China are jammed with 200,000 Communist troops wounded in Korea. The agency placed Chinese casualties at 500,000. The U. S. 8th Army reported more than 115,000 Red casualties through ground action in its limited offensive from Jan. 25 through Feb. 20.

Will Go to Monticello

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Mayor and Mrs. Vincent R. Impellitteri will leave the city this afternoon to spend Washington's Birthday week-end in Monticello, N. Y. The couple will stay at the Concord Hotel. The mayor will return here Sunday afternoon and will leave that night for Washington, where he is scheduled to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee Monday.

Training Camp News in Brief

Hearn in Uniform

Lopat Signs Pact

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 22 (AP)—Big Vic Raschi, one of four New York Yankees pitchers already here to get a fast start on spring training, figures he need take off five pounds during the grapefruit grind. Vic has been dieting for a couple of months and says he now tips the beam at 220 pounds. Three other pitchers arrived with Raschi yesterday—Tom Ferrick, Bob Porterfield and Frank Shea. Catcher Ralph Houk arrived earlier and batterymen began working out today. The Yankees said that pitcher Ed Lopat has signed his 1951 contract.

O'Neill Stresses Bunting

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill has served notice on his small army of Boston Red Sox pitchers—24 not including the unsigned Mel Parnell—to perfect the art of bunting. "A good bunting pitcher can win three or four more games a year for himself," O'Neill advised his chuckers. Although Infielder's Bobby Doerr and Walt Dropo, along with Outfielder Billy (American League batting champion) Goodman are in town, they have ignored O'Neill's suggestions to get in some early practice. They intend to await the arrival of the club's main body on March 1.

Newk Impresses Dressen

Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—One of the most pleasant developments in the Brooklyn Dodgers training camp, so far as Manager Chuck Dressen is concerned, is the zest for working being shown by ace pitcher Don Newcombe. The husky Negro moundsman, weighing 244, has lost no time trying to work off some of that poundage. "Look at him," said Dressen yesterday as he pointed to the outfield, "they told me he was lazy, but he's the only guy out there running around without being asked to. He's working harder than any man down here."

Will Streamline Hurler

Brandenton, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Manager Billy Southworth's first Boston Braves spring training task appears to be the streamlining of Jim Wilson, the 24-game winning righthander up from the Seattle Pacific Coast League club. Wilson, who has had previous trials with the Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics, showed up about 15 pounds over his normal 195. Southworth has high hopes Wilson will develop into one of his starting pitchers.

New Contract Board

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Senate late yesterday passed a bill to set up a five-member independent board with power to renegotiate billions of dollars worth of defense contracts.

Ship, Lariat Used

Corner Brook, Newfoundland, Feb. 22 (AP)—Up in these nothern parts they use ship and lariat to get a moose. A crew member of the motor vessel Trepassey spotted a 400-pounder floundering in thin ice in Humber Arm Channel. The ship's captain brought his ship alongside and one swing of the lariat bagged her. The moose rode here in the Trepascsey's hold, was transferred to a truck, and turned loose a few miles inland.

Taipei, Formosa, Feb. 22 (AP)—Air raid tests were held throughout northern Formosa today. Chinese Nationalists predict Chinese Communists will attack this island when weather is favorable.

Robber Tries to Sell Articles to Wrong Man

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—"It's a small world—even in New York," mused Samuel Grove, 26, while being booked on a burglary charge last night.

Police said a man to whom Grove allegedly tried to sell his loot in Harlem was the same man whose apartment he had just robbed in The Bronx.

John Davis, manager of the Harlem Billiard Academy, told police a stranger entered his poolroom with two familiar-looking suitcases and offered to sell some suits.

The suits — 10 of them — also seemed familiar.

Davis ducked out and telephoned his wife.

"We've been burglarized!" she told him. "Your suits are gone and so are your suitcases!"

"I know it," her husband answered.

Detectives, who had been summoned to the Davis apartment, sped to the poolroom.

Davis meanwhile kept the "salesman" interested by arguing over the price — minimizing the quality of his own suits.

Then the detectives arrived.

Whitehead Gives

should be sent to Europe under the North Atlantic Pact. The joint chiefs of staff have recommended sending four divisions in addition to the two already there.

Has Confidence

Whitehead said he has confidence in the judgment of the joint chiefs, but was not familiar in detail with their recommendations.

He said ground troops were important because "it takes everything to fight a war." But he stuck consistently to his argument that it was a matter of priority with air power coming first.

Whitehead said both the long range striking air force and the defense forces needed to be "beefed up."

In the case of his own command, he said, it appeared that several months ago the program was "coming along pretty fast, but it seems to have slowed down. I don't know why. The airplanes are not coming as fast as I thought they would."

Could Provide Defense

If properly carried out, he added, an air defense program could provide a "minimum" defense for the nation. But in any defense, he noted, some enemy bombers "will always get through."

The committees are considering a resolution by Senate Republican leader Wherry of Nebraska to bar the President from sending additional ground troops to Europe until Congress has fixed a policy.

Whitehead appeared at Wherry's request.

Under questioning by Senator Stennis (D.-Miss.), Whitehead said he isn't opposed to sending more ground troops to Europe. He said he is in favor of holding Europe "as long as we can," adding that it would be difficult, but not impossible, to operate out of Britain if Europe falls."

Ask Ban on Goods

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States and Britain are asking Switzerland and Sweden to ban the sale of war goods and materials to Communist countries, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

Calls System Failure

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 22 (AP)—President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale University said today World War Two's hurry-up system of college education was a failure. Awarding a college degree for such telescoped "marathon" study is "like awarding a prize to the artist who paints the most pictures instead of the artist who paints the best," the educator said in a speech prepared for the 34th alumni day luncheon.

Wanted His Freedom

Los Angeles, Feb. 22 (AP)—Barbara Stanwyck, gray-haired at 43, has liquated her 11-year-old marriage to Robert Taylor. She testified yesterday that the 39-year-old actor requested a divorce when he returned from picture making in Italy; that he said he had enjoyed his freedom and wanted to continue to do as he pleased.

Impounding Proposed

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—A railway labor leader proposed today the government impound the profits of the railroads while they are under federal control. Roy O. Hughes, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, told the Senate Labor Committee his union believes that such action would spur a settlement of the two-year old dispute between the carriers and railway workers.

Hughes made his proposal at the opening of the committee's inquiry into the controversy. His group is one of four operating unions involved.

should be sent to Europe under the North Atlantic Pact. The joint chiefs of staff have recommended sending four divisions in addition to the two already there.

Has Confidence

Whitehead said he has confidence in the judgment of the joint chiefs, but was not familiar in detail with their recommendations.

He said ground troops were important because "it takes everything to fight a war." But he stuck consistently to his argument that it was a matter of priority with air power coming first.

Whitehead said both the long range striking air force and the defense forces needed to be "beefed up."

In the case of his own command, he said, it appeared that several months ago the program was "coming along pretty fast, but it seems to have slowed down. I don't know why. The airplanes are not coming as fast as I thought they would."

Could Provide Defense

If properly carried out, he added, an air defense program could provide a "minimum" defense for the nation. But in any defense, he noted, some enemy bombers "will always get through."

The committees are considering a resolution by Senate Republican leader Wherry of Nebraska to bar the President from sending additional ground troops to Europe until Congress has fixed a policy.

Whitehead appeared at Wherry's request.

Under questioning by Senator Stennis (D.-Miss.), Whitehead said he isn't opposed to sending more ground troops to Europe. He said he is in favor of holding Europe "as long as we can," adding that it would be difficult, but not impossible, to operate out of Britain if Europe falls."

Impounding Proposed

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—A railway labor leader proposed today the government impound the profits of the railroads while they are under federal control. Roy O. Hughes, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, told the Senate Labor Committee his union believes that such action would spur a settlement of the two-year old dispute between the carriers and railway workers.

Hughes made his proposal at the opening of the committee's inquiry into the controversy. His group is one of four operating unions involved.

Air Force Will Process Men Before Acceptance

Within the next few months thousands of air force reserve officers and airmen throughout the nation will receive a letter of information and instructions accompanying the reserve orders directing them to report for approximately five days of processing, First Lieutenant William R. Reardon, U.S.A.F.R., said today.

As announced earlier, each reservist will report to a designated processing station to undergo examination, a review of his air force classification determined by occupational specialties and an interview to establish his availability for extended active military service.

The reservists will be advised on the final day of processing whether or not the air force intends to order them to active service. All will have at least 30 days to settle personal affairs between the time they leave the processing station with orders for active duty and the time they report for duty.

Officers and airmen who believe they will not be available for active duty 30 days after completion of processing are instructed to bring to the processing station all necessary documents to substantiate their claim for a delay.

Reservists will travel to and from the processing stations at government expense.

Show Saves Them

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Pleas of three youngsters for "just one more" television show saved them from possible death last night when the collapse of a Bronx apartment house retaining wall heaved an avalanche of earth into their bedrooms. Awarding a college degree for such telescoped "marathon" study is "like awarding a prize to the artist who paints the most pictures instead of the artist who paints the best," the educator said in a speech prepared for the 34th alumni day luncheon.

Wanted His Freedom

Los Angeles, Feb. 22 (AP)—Barbara Stanwyck, gray-haired at 43, has liquated her 11-year-old marriage to Robert Taylor She testified yesterday that the 39-year-old actor requested a divorce when he returned from picture making in Italy; that he said he had enjoyed his freedom and wanted to continue to do as he pleased.

Impounding Proposed

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—A railway labor leader proposed today the government impound the profits of the railroads while they are under federal control. Roy O. Hughes, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, told the Senate Labor Committee his union believes that such action would spur a settlement of the two-year old dispute between the carriers and railway workers.

Hughes made his proposal at the opening of the committee's inquiry into the controversy. His group is one of four operating unions involved.
